LBJ Quells Tiff On Civil Rights

By The New York Times

Austin, Tex. — Former President Johnson, in a sudden and emotional return from retirement, reverted to his old role as the bright mediator Tuesday as he quelled a dispute between divided civil rights leaders.

Appearing at the rostrum against doctor's orders, Johnson told a symposium on civil rights at the University of Texas, attended by several hundred leaders from across the country, that if they would settle on a "program of objectives" and take them to President Nixon they might be surprised at the results.

The former president had delivered a prepared speech at the close of the two-day meeting and had taken his seat in the audience when a dispute broke out on the floor between separatists and integrationists.

He then returned to the rostrum and in a low, confident voice said he did not agree with a number of previous speakers that the civil rights advances made in his administration were going down the drain under Nixon. But he said that, because of their concern, they should agree on goals and take them to the President and congressional leaders.

Johnson said he had known all the presidents since Hoover and, having served in the office for six years himself, he believed all presidents "want to do what is right. But it is easier to want to do what is right than to know what is right."

He urged the audience of several hundred leaders who had participated in the civil rights movement of the 1960s to obtain the help of a foundation, "get our folks to reasoning together" and establish a set of goals for presentation to congressional leaders and the President.

Johnson, appearing weary and climbing the stairs to the rostrum with difficulty, spoke out as elder statesman of the rights movement after Roy Innis, chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality, and the Rev. A. Kendall Smith of the Beulah Baptist Church in New York demanded that the symposium be continued in New York or elsewhere to "expand a deal with a new definition of equality."

Innis, separatist, had not been included on the program but was allowed to speak at length after he informed Johnson that he would break up the meeting. The demand, announced by the Rev. Mr. Smith following Johnson's prepared speech, angered Clarence Mitchell, Washington representative of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (UN-CAPS), who said:

"If President Johnson has the courage to come out and speak against white demagoguery, I have the duty to come out and speak against black demagoguery."

It was then that Johnson returned to the platform, appealed at length for unity and sought to divert some of the bitterness that had been building against the Nixon administration. The symposium then adjourned in harmony, but there was no indication that a subsequent meeting of the leaders would be held.

The symposium was sponsored by the Lyndon B. Johnson Library and the University of Texas for the opening of the Johnson Civil Rights Papers.

Ambassador Is Overcome With Emotion

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — A veteran diplomat wept Tuesday as he spoke of children dying in flames of "supposedly adult" warfare.

White-haired Ambassador Radha Krishna Ramphul of the tiny island nation of Mauritius, apparently alluded to the war in Indochina. He choked up as he told the final 1972 meeting of the General Assembly's main political committee:

"Few of us can imagine the real horror and indignity of terrorized children as they perish by these flaming and foul inventions of a supposedly adult world."

Momentarily overcome he resumed his speech after a few seconds.

Police Station Under Surveillance

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Police Department recently acquired a closed circuit television camera for surveillance of the area outside the police station in the county-city building.

According to Lt. Eugene Armstead, police planning officer, the television equipment will help insure the safety of those working in police headquarters.

"In the last few years police departments and police cars have been bombed," Armstead said. "And about a year and a half ago some people were found with a bomb prepared to put in a police car."

Armstead said the police department has been posting a sentry outside police headquarters at night and if the camera works out police might be able to eliminate that position.

The television camera is mounted on a light pole on 9th Street near the northwest entrance to the county-city building parking lot.

The monitor is located in the communications room in police headquarters. Personnel in that area check the screen for suspicious activity.

The camera can be panned automatically or manually in a 190-degree arc that takes in the front of police headquarters and north and south views of 9th Street.

Zoom controls allow the camera to zero in on details or show a broad area. The camera can also be tilted up and down.

As one man has already puzzled out, the camera can follow an individual as he moves from place to place.

Police started tracking the man after he was noticed "acting suspiciously" near parked bicycles.

The camera's movements attracted the man's attention and he checked its reactions by moving from place to place and quickly looking back to see if it had moved.

When the man stopped moving officers turned on the camera's "windshield wipers" to further stimulate his curiosity.

The television equipment, which cost about $6,900, was purchased with the aid of a grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA).

All the bugs have not been worked out of the system. A different type of camera will be substituted for the present one because it does not work well at night by the illumination of the mercury vapor street lights, Armstead said.

Lincoln's New Bus Routes Attract More Passengers

Although the city's new bus routes have been in effect only since Nov. 20th, figures from the Lincoln Transportation System (LTS) show that more and more Lincolinites are riding the buses.

Revenues have increased and ridership has jumped 23% compared to the same period one year ago.

LTS manager Gerald Rae reported Tuesday that during the two-week period from Nov. 21 to Dec. 5, 100,401 people rode Lincoln's buses.

During a similar two-week period one year ago—from Nov. 24 to Dec.

Space Center, Houston (AP)—Apollo 17's explorers discovered a patch of orange-colored soil on the moon Tuesday night and scientists on earth said it could be rust, an unusual chemical reaction, or the "last gaseous gasp of a volcano."

Eugene A. Cernan and geologist Harrison H. Schmitt made the discovery, first of its type on the moon, while prowling through the rubble of an ancient and massive avalanche for very old lunar rocks.

"That's orange," Cernan suddenly shouted as they parked their moon car near a crater named Shorty. "That's incredible. It's really orange out here, Houston. It looks like oxidized desert soil."

May Be Very Young

Scientists at Mission Control said the most likely source was a fumarole, which would result from the dying convulsions of a volcano. If this were the case, the orange material could represent very young material, perhaps 100 million years old or less.

Cernan and Schmitt had two major goals when they landed safely at a valley named Taurus-Littrow Monday: to find very old and very young lunar material to fill in missing chapters in the evolution of the moon.

Scientists report they found young material, also possibly volcanic, near the touchdown point Monday. And earlier Tuesday, in the avalanche area, Schmitt indicated they had picked up several ancient rocks, perhaps dating back 4.6 billion years to the birth of the moon.

If the orange-colored soil turned out to be rust, there would have to be oxygen or water present. That's why most scientists discounted this theory.

Analysis Needed
However, nothing will be known for sure until the samples bagged by the astronauts are returned to earth for analysis.

Cernan and Schmitt wanted to spend more time sampling the orange layer, but they were at the point where they had just about enough oxygen to walk back to their landing craft Challenger in case their moon car broke down.

So Mission Control directed them to start back to the lander.

"Wow, color on the moon," Cernan exuded as they drove away.

When Cernan first declared his discovery, geologist Schmitt rushed to his side and said: "Wait, don't touch it until I see it."

"I've got to dig a trench," Schmitt said minutes later. Then, after scooping up several inches of soil, reported the orange color penetrated two to three inches.

Gaps
The discovery was made while Cernan and Schmitt were about five hours into their second excursion on the surface, part of 21 hours of exploration designed to fill missing gaps in man's knowledge of lunar evolution.

Robin Brett, chief of the geochemistry branch at the Manned Spacecraft Center, told newsmen that small patches of orange-colored material had been found in rocks returned by previous Apollo crews.

Brett said that if — perhaps less than 100 million years — a vent were present, it probably would be very young because it would represent the last stages of volcanism.

"Man, you talk about a mysterious place," Cernan had said prophetically shortly after they arrived at the avalanche area to search for the old rocks.

The astronauts' first job as they started the second expedition was to form the makeshift fender by taping four of their stiff-paper moon matts together to replace the right rear fender that was loosened Monday night after Cernan accidentally hit it with his geology hammer.

Like Mud Guard.

It acted like an automobile mud guard and when it fell off during a drive, the astronauts were showered with black dust from the volcanic valley of the Taurus-Littrow landing site, prompting Cernan to complain: "I hate this black stuff. It's really irritating. It'll take us half a dozen Sunday's to dust off."

After the fender menders had attached their creation with clamps, Cernan gave the rover a test ride and Schmitt reported: "I don't see any rooster tail (cloud of dust) coming over the top. Looks like the dust is going backwards. It's a good fix."

Then they loaded their geology tools aboard and pulled out across the boulder-strewn valley to the avalanche at the base of a 6,000-foot mountain.

Evans Busy

While Cernan and Schmitt were taking their longest motor trip on the moon, their Apollo 17 crewmate, Ronald E. Evans, remained busy in lunar orbit, operating mapping cameras and scientific instruments.

Filley Man Found Guilty In Road Death

A 20-year-old Filley man pleaded nolo contendere and was found guilty in Lancaster County Court Tuesday of a misdemeanor charge of motor vehicle homicide in connection with the Dec. 9 death of James Lyons, 33, of Panama.

Lyle H. Jurgens pleaded nolo contendere to the charge which specifically stated that he unintentionally caused the death of Mr. Lyons while in the illegal operation of a motor vehicle of driving on the left hand of the highway.

Judge Ralph Slocum deferred sentencing until Jan. 19.

According to the State Patrol, Mr. Lyons was southbound on Highway 43 when his vehicle was in collision with the northbound Jurgens auto.

Career Education Proposal Approved

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday approved a proposal which, if funded by the state and the federal government, would commit Lincoln to a major focus on career-orientation in the schools.

The three-year, $478,000 Lincoln Career Education Project would, as its number one goal, make "learning experiences more meaningful and relevant to the individual student through restructuring curriculum and refocusing it around career development themes."

Eventually, it would add new staff members to coordinate career placement activities for students in the four public high schools and the single Roman Catholic high school in the city.

Associate Supt. Ronald Brandt told the school board that its approval of the project proposal carried with it a statement of board policy that it was committed to the project as a "key element" in a new emphasis on career education.

Brandt said that commitment is required by the federal programs under which the funding is being sought.

The funds for the project would be virtually all federal — some $358,000 from the commissioner's discretionary funds in the U.S. Office of Education and another $119,000 from federal vocational education funds distributed by the state.

The first-year budget would be nearly $170,000.

Brandt said he expects the schools will know whether the program has been approved early next year, and he anticipates a start in March if the funds are granted.

Carl Spencer, project planner, told the board that a major element in the project would be a staff development one to "change the perceptions of teachers and some students and parents."

The teacher, he said, should be seen as a career adviser who helps students "focus on the future."

The board was told that the project will utilize "existing resources and mechanisms for change," relying on a small staff "of temporary personnel who will manage the project development models and organize training programs."

Noting that career education has proven a confusing concept, Spencer said it was defined for the Lincoln project proposal as a "term applied to the intentions and efforts of a community and its educational system to prepare youth to make intelligent life-work choices and to implement those choices in ways which are satisfying and productive for each individual and for society as a whole."

Career education should enable young people to make sophisticated career decisions, possess effective work habits and useful skill and be prepared after leaving school for immediate employment or further training for education.

One Difficult Question Is Unresolved In Paris

(c) New York Times News Service

Paris — The current phase of the Vietnam peace negotiations is coming to an end in Paris with one difficult unresolved question. The issue is President Nguyen Van Thieu's insistence that any cease-fire agreement state unequivocally that the Saigon government has the sole sovereign right to control all the territory it held before the Vietnam war began. (More on Page 2.)

Attempt To Stall Seen

Saigon — President Thieu's call for Christmas truce and an exchange of prisoners left many Vietnamese and American officials in Saigon with the impression that he was once more trying to stall a peace accord he likes by offering new terms of his own. In Washington, the Nixon administration, refused any public comment on Thieu's speech setting forth Saigon's objections to the Paris talks and his own proposals for ending the Vietnam war. Both White House and State Department spokesmen were ordered by President Nixon to avoid any discussion of Thieu's remarks.

Pathet Lao Offer New Draft

Vientiane, Laos — Pathet Lao negotiators offered a new draft for a peace agreement in Laos which, a communist spokesman asserted, could end the war immediately if accepted by the Vientiane government. A government spokesman said the draft would require study, but that it seemed to contain "interesting" new ideas opening fresh prospects for a settlement.

Intensified Secret Talks Held

... Kissinger Prepares To Return To Washington Wednesday

Paris — The United States and North Vietnam held intensified secret peace talks on two levels Tuesday and Henry A. Kissinger prepared to return to Washington after one more session with Hanoi negotiator Le Duc Tho.

Kissinger's personal plane arrived at Orly Airport Tuesday night, generating rumors that a final cease-fire agreement was near.

Airport authorities said the American Embassy first ordered the plane to stand by for departure Tuesday night, then changed the time to Wednesday after the scheduled meeting with Tho.

The White House confirmed in Washington that Kissinger would be on hand for the Wednesday round, but gave no details on progress of the talks.

After Subcommittees
The U.S. presidential adviser held a 4½-hour session with Tho Tuesday, after separate meetings by two subcommittees. A subcommittee meeting also will precede the top-level talks Wednesday.

French press reports said a compromise was in the works on the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam, so far the major obstacle to agreement.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann predicted the two sides would reach final agreement by the time the new U.S. Congress meets Jan. 3.

But North Vietnam and the Viet Cong rejected the Christmas peace package suggested by President Nguyen Van Thieu in Saigon and denounced any attempt to seek a Communist commitment on the withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces.

No Comment
In Washington the White House and the State Department declined to comment on the South Vietnamese president's proposal. But a number of Washington authorities rated his speech as a bid for public support as the secret talks head toward a climax. These sources suggested that Thieu must have known that his proposals, like others he has made in the past, would be rejected by the Communists.

Thieu suggested a cease-fire that would be extended beyond the Christmas season, and an exchange of all war prisoners. There would be direct negotiations among Hanoi, Saigon and the Viet Cong.

Nixon again conferred with Kissinger's top aide, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., who flew to Washington from Paris Saturday with a first-hand report protracted negotiations. Ziegler said Nixon remained in close contact with Kissinger on the day-to-day progress of the talks.

Kissinger and Tho met with the usual cordial handshakes at Gif sur Yvette, 15 miles southwest of Paris.

The meeting brought to 52 hours the total time they have spent in the past three weeks trying to revise the agreement they drafted in October. Both sides maintained their total news blackout.

The secret meeting, including the principal advisers on both sides, was preceded by simultaneous meetings of two subcommittees formed by the advisers.

One met in an American-rented villa in suburban Neuilly, the other on Communist ground near the Hanoi delegation headquarters in Choisy le Roi. Kissinger joined the Neuilly group for lunch.

The subcommittees discussed details of a possible agreement and later reported to the main session. It was the first time since Kissinger and Tho began their secret contacts almost four years ago that two such groups have met on the sidelines.

On The Verge?
Unconfirmed French press reports said the two sides were on the verge of a compromise on the withdrawal issue. They said there would be no explicit mention of the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops, since the Communist side has always refused to admit their presence in South Vietnam.

Each side would agree tacitly to demobilize a large part of its forces, beginning with 70,000 North Vietnamese and an equal number of South Vietnamese in the military region just south of the demilitarized zone. This appeared to coincide at least in part with some of the suggestions made by Thieu in Saigon.

Publicly, however, North

Vietnam clung to its long-standing rejection of any commitment to withdraw its forces from South Vietnam.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations issued statements denouncing Thieu's proposals as attempts to delay and prevent any peace settlement.

Step In Laos
Meanwhile, in Laos, the Communist-dominated Pathet Lao took a step toward agreement on ending the drawn-out civil war with concrete proposals which a government spokesman described as a "significant development."

The proposals, submitted to peace talks with government officials in the capital, Vientiane, would bring a Laotian settlement into line with the Kissinger-Tho draft by requiring the withdrawal of "all foreign troops" from Laos.

Hitherto, the Pathet Lao spoke only of withdrawal of American and Thai forces. The new wording could apply to the 60,000 North Vietnamese troops in Laos.

The Pathet Lao plan also called for the exchange of prisoners of all nationalities.

Another Major Battle Is Thought Shaping Up Northwest Of Saigon

Saigon (AP) — Another major battle appeared the building up northwest of Saigon on Tuesday as a mauled North Vietnamese battalion fled through the jungles toward the Cambodian border with South Vietnamese forces in hot pursuit.

South Vietnamese military sources said a North Vietnamese regiment was waiting just inside the Cambodian frontier to attack the pursuing government troops.

A South Vietnamese infantry regiment and an armored personnel carrier squadron headed toward the border to meet the threat of the new attack, the sources added.

During five hours of intense fighting Monday, the sources said, the North Vietnamese battalion lost more than 100 killed. Government casualties were reported as three wounded. Many of the enemy died in air raids and artillery barrages.

Remnants Harassed

The remnants of the battalion were fleeing back to the Parrot's Beak region of Cambodia, harassed by air strikes, artillery shelling and ground troops.

A North Vietnamese soldier who defected Sunday night tipped off the South Vietnamese the presence of the enemy battalion nine miles south of the provincial capital of Tay Ninh, 50 miles northwest of Saigon.

In the air war, U.S. B52s pounded troop concentrations and supply dumps on the coast just north of the demilitarized zone for the sixth straight day. Six missions of up to three planes each hit a target 41 miles southeast of Dong Hoi, a North Vietnamese port.

HST's Condition Remains Serious

Kansas City (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman, hospitalized for a week with congestion of the lungs and related complications, showed improvement Tuesday, doctors said, but remained in serious condition.

A hospital spokesman said the 88-year-old Truman's vital signs of pulse, blood pressure and temperature — described as "somewhat unstable" during the night — had improved during the day.

During the 24-hour period ended at noon Tuesday, the U.S. Command said 13 B52 missions were launched against North Vietnam and 19 in South Vietnam. In South Vietnam 11 were in northernmost Quang Tri Province and five 28 to 32 miles northeast of Saigon.

80 Strikes
American fighter-bombers flew 80 tactical strikes against North Vietnam on Monday, destroying six supply trucks, three highway bridges and three river barges, the U.S. Command said.

In South Vietnam, the command said American crews flew 298 missions Monday, nearly half in the northern region.

Hanoi radio continued its attack on the bombing raids in North Vietnam on Monday, panhandle calling them savage and claiming they caused heavy civilian casualties.

In the broadcast, the North Vietnamese claimed they shot down an unmanned U.S. reconnaissance plane south of Hanoi Monday.

The U.S. halted bombing above the 20th Parallel—75 miles south of Hanoi — last Oct. 22 because of the secret peace negotiations.

Sovereignty Question Unresolved

By JAMES RESTON

Paris, Wednesday — The current phase of the Vietnam peace negotiations is coming to an end here with one difficult unresolved question.

The issue is President Nguyen Van Thieu's insistence that any cease-fire agreement state unequivocally that the Saigon government has the sole sovereign right to control all the territory it held before the Vietnam war began.

According to responsible officials, Thieu has agreed that, if North Vietnamese troops are permitted to remain in South Vietnam under the cease-fire agreement, it must be made clear that they are there illegally, and that their presence in no way implies any diminution of the Saigon regime's sovereign rights.

It is understood that the Viet Cong oppose any such statement of principle, and that it has been supported in this stand by the government of North Vietnam.

Henry A. Kissinger met for 4½ hours Tuesday with Le Duc Tho, the chief North Vietnamese negotiator.

So far as is known here, President Nixon has not told Thieu in so many words that he is now prepared to sign any agreement, with or without Thieu's signature.

There are some points other than the sovereignty issue to be settled. For example, the question of a simultaneous cease-fire in Laos has apparently been resolved in the last few days, but the question of a simultaneous cease-fire in Cambodia is still unresolved and will take more negotiation and help from the Peking government.

Nixon has hesitated to tell Thieu that he would reach a settlement by a specified date, partly because his political opponents have insisted all along that he would never get the cooperation of the Saigon regime unless he did, but also partly because he prefers to get as clear a cease-fire accord as possible to avoid misunderstanding and recriminations later.

Nevertheless, ever since Kissinger announced late in October that "peace is at hand," the implication has been clear that the United States intended to sign roughly on the basis of the truce terms announced by Hanoi and confirmed by Kissinger at that time.

These would be subject only to clearing up certain technicalities and the issue of sovereignty was not one of those technicalities then and is not described as one of them now.

EVENTS IN PERSPECTIVE

By MARQUIS CHILDS
(Note: Today's column is by national news writer Marquis Childs. Mr. Dobler's column will be resumed shortly.)

ST. LOUIS — "We are in limbo." That is the response of one of the young organizers of Washington University's student symposium to the questions of where the kids stand today. Between the old politics and the collapse of the new politics on November 7, the young feel they have no place to go.

They all worked hard for "St. George," as they call Senator McGovern, in the primaries and many carried on in the fall even though they were a bit disillusioned with their hero. Now seeing no place on the political map to turn to, many are simply rejecting the whole scene. Hair, sex and for a few, the Jesus Movement, are the only options left.

It has been a long journey from the MOBE in Washington and all the other anti-war demonstrations to this limbo. Here at Washington University, the climax came, after the shooting at Kent State, with the burning of the ROTC building. When they talk about it, you get a sense of the excitement and the shock of that night.

If two students could be shot down at respectable, middle-class Kent State, then it could happen anywhere. At Jackson State in Mississippi, there were two more dead. The blazing building and the arrests and the convictions put a somber period to the tension in the packed quadrangle that preceded the march and the assault on the citadel of militarism.

In their downbeat moments, the young who put together this symposium on the reasons for the collapse of the new politics admit to a sense of futility. Did all the demonstrations, the marches the teach-ins have any real influence on the Vietnam involvement and the course of the war? The answer is a reluctant "no."

Not long ago, there was an attempt to organize a protest. Why? What for? It doesn't matter. About a hundred students (undergraduate enrollment 1,000) turned out for an all-night sit-in in the library. A small, brave band, they marched the next morning.

David Halberstam's book on Vietnam that has made so many waves condemns the "Best and the Brightest" for the tragedy of the war. From McGeorge Bundy and Robert McNamara through Walt Rostow, they got us into the quagmire of Vietnam. It is a comforting thesis that absolves so many others.

The other side of the coin are the young who fought against the war on the pavements on the Capitol plaza, at the Justice Department, outside the doomed ROTC building. In their own fashion, they were the brightest and if not the best, then the most concerned and committed. Their disillusion with the whole process of democracy, whether within the system or outside the system in the streets, is one of the heavier costs of the war and the long and bitter division that cuts across our lives.

They listen respectfully to their elders who have spoken here on the causes of what was for them the debacle of November 7. But you sense that they are not entirely convinced by the outward evidence. There must be some deep interior meaning at the undisclosed heart of American life.

The current contest between the old and the new politics over a chairman for the Democratic National Committee interests them not at all. It is part of a past that no longer has any meaning. This may all along have been their weakness. They were a disembodied force. In the words of that New Dealer of long ago, they believed they could roll up their sleeves and make over America.

And they could do it on their own with no help from the older generation.

It is a curious irony that at this moment, Harry Truman, Missouri's only President of the United States, is fighting for his life at the age of 88. Truman? You might as well say Thomas Jefferson or Rutherford B. Hayes.

Limbo is a place where both the past is erased and the future is unknown. It could be that the young are not alone in suffering from a sense of being relegated by recent events to the political attic. Whether they will escape, where they will go, no one can say.

India Considers Factors
In Assuming New Role

WASHINGTON—In a world of power politics, India has tried to achieve eminence through moral persuasion rather than force of arms. It is a sensible enough policy for a populous but poor country. Since the defeat and dismemberment of Pakistan in the 14-day war of December 1971, however, India has stood alone as the dominant military power of South Asia. New Delhi still seems uncomfortable in its new role.

It is not that Indians consider themselves unworthy of great-power status. As Stanley J. Heginbotham notes in Pacific Affairs magazine, "Their sense of the country's great size, magnificent cultural tradition, history of regional importance, and leadership in the postwar independence movement of Asia and Africa all contribute to their unspoken assumption that when one thinks of the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France, China, and Japan, one must also think of India."

India apparently believes that its defeat of Pakistan only reinforced its claim to moral leadership. Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, writing in Foreign Affairs, asserted: "The political map of the sub-continent has been redrawn and the notion of an inherent and insuperable antagonism between a secular India and a predominantly Moslem state has been discredited — not through any design on our part but because the idea itself was untenable and the military dictatorship of Pakistan, totally alienated from its own people, had followed a short-sighted and unrealistic policy."

But the Indians "paid a price for their victory," according to Professor Gary R. Hess of Bowling Green State University. "Most of the major powers and even the preponderance of the Afro-American nations believed that India had acted hastily." During the early days of the fighting, the Soviet Union vetoed a U.N. Security Council resolution calling for an immediate cease-fire and troop withdrawals. China, the United States and nine other council members voted in favor of the resolution. Even more disconcerting to India was the General Assembly's overwhelming approval (by a vote of 104 to 11) of a similar resolution.

The India-Pakistan war also strained relations between New Delhi and Washington. "The original misunderstanding with the United States had arisen because of our contacts with China, the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe," Mrs. Gandhi complained. "We find it difficult to understand why, when the U.S. policy toward these countries changed, the resentment against us increased."

Now India faces the task of reaching a lasting settlement with Pakistan. Around 93,000 Pakistanis, most of them military personnel, are currently being held in Indian detention camps. New Delhi has made it clear that their repatriation hinges on bilateral agreements on Kashmir, a peace treaty, disputed borders and restoration of diplomatic ties, and on recognition by Pakistan of Bangladesh.

A Thaw In The Offing

As part of the reshuffling of talent for his second term administration, President Nixon has drawn from the departmental farm clubs to place some new faces in the big league cabinet. He has put out to pasture some pretty good journeyman administrators. And, in the latest instance that comes to mind, he has called out of retirement a member of the first team that occupied the White House with Nixon in 1968 and given him the job of trying to put out the anti-American fires in India.

Daniel P. Moynihan, Harvard professor and a presidential advisor until he returned to the campus midway in the first term, will succeed Kenneth Keating, a former Republican senator from New York, as ambassador to New Delhi.

American ambassadors have generally been popular in India even if the U.S. government and its policies haven't been. An underlying current of good will still flows between the peoples of both nations.

India's neutral stance and moralistic judgments of America's use of diplomatic power politics have peeved Washington more than occasionally, however, and the chilly official relationship was almost frozen when the U.S. chose Pakistan and the Soviet Union chose India in the war for the independence of East Pakistan, which the emerging Bangladesh won with the assistance of India. It was one of the biggest of the few foreign policy mistakes of Nixon's term in office.

There is decent hope for a thaw in U.S.-India relations, though. Just recently Mrs. Gandhi publicly stated it was her intention to settle differences and seek stronger ties with both the U.S. and neighboring China. Her new direction is in keeping with the prevailing international mood.

It's in a potentially friendlier setting, then, that Moynihan goes to his important assignment in New Delhi. Moynihan is by reputation a brilliant and urbane man, knowledgeable enough in international affairs, but with a special concern for social problems, and it is said he can listen. Apparently Mrs. Gandhi has laid the groundwork for the resumption of friendship between the U.S. and India. Moynihan's appointment should help toward that goal.

Anti-Radial Group Forms

Not a spade of earth has been turned, of course. Nevertheless, the city has committed itself to the construction of a high capacity traffic artery from the central business district to the northeast reaches of Lincoln.

Millions of dollars of right-of-way have been brought up and the route has been talked about and studied for something like forty years. It can be called the Northeast Radial or whatever, and alternates routes can be discussed, but the need has been established.

And the need will be compounded as natural growth in the northeast part of Lincoln continues and proposed developments, such as IBM, blossom into reality. It can't seriously be argued that the existing network of streets can handle the traffic volumes now, let alone in the future.

Now a petition drive against the Northeast Radial has been launched by a group called Citizens for Improved Planning. We are not doubting their motives, but we don't think the reasons they raise should be strong enough to stop the project and some of the reasons in our opinion run contrary to fact.

But this is not written in opposition to the Citizens for Improved Planning in particular. The group probably wouldn't have to collect a single signature to defeat the radial highway.

The city is committed to the radial, but nothing aside from right-of-way acquisition is taking place and the project has been listed as top priority for as many years as we care to remember. Another study update on the radial is scheduled to be ready this next summer. And then what? We would be surprised if any hard decisions are made.

With all due respect to the Citizens for Improved Planning, they probably don't have to waste their time. The radial is dying a slow death as it is.

ANTHONY LEWIS
Kissinger Then And Now

LONDON — At what we hope is the brink of success for Henry Kissinger in his long search for peace in Vietnam, it is fascinating to look back at the paper in which he roughed out his approach to the negotiations. That was his article of January, 1969, in "Foreign Affairs."

Unlike many American officials before and since, Kissinger did not deceive himself about a military victory around the corner. He saw that the U.S. government had to be limited. He was realistic about the strengths and weaknesses of the two sides, perceiving with particular foresight that the international situation was "precarious" for Hanoi.

He was skeptical of the two most widely discussed possible negotiating objectives, a coalition government or a cease-fire. The latter, he warned, would make South Vietnam "a crazy quilt, with enclaves of conflicting loyalties all over the country." A cease-fire would also raise severe problems of verification, enforcement and control of guerrilla activity.

Kissinger concluded that the U.S. should seek not a negotiated political solution but a limited military one — a "staged withdrawal" of American and North Vietnamese forces, leaving the conflicting parties in South Vietnam to work out the political future. That would meet the crucial objective of "ending the war honorably."

Four years later, it appears that the terms of any agreement finally made with Le Duc Tho would meet Kissinger's 1969 ideas only in part.

There has been no mutual withdrawal of forces, and there is little likelihood of a formal promise by Hanoi to pull its troops out. The United States has accepted the idea of a cease-fire, necessarily. At this point it is even doubtful that there will be any agreed map of territorial control in South Vietnam, a lack that will make the job of policing a truce more formidable.

On the other hand, Kissinger did succeed in separating the two tracks, military and political. The peace terms tentatively agreed in October would allow the U.S. to pull all its forces out of South Vietnam with the political future there still open — and with our man, Nguyen Van Thieu, still in power in Saigon.

What Kissinger did not foresee, or did not project in "Foreign Affairs," was the cost of meeting some of his aims. He did not tell us that we would have to drop another four million tons of bombs on

By FRANK MacKNIGHT
Having spent nearly two years in this area of Southeast Nebraska as a community development specialist, I am convinced that we (from the governor on down) in Nebraska need to wake up and become somewhat more sophisticated — or enlightened — in our approach to rural development.

(a) We had better get more "people" oriented, as opposed to "livestock" and "crop" oriented. (This might be taken as a poke at the Extension Service, I suppose.)

(b) It's time we learned to involve more "ordinary" citizens in rural and urban planning. It's called "citizen participation" and it's not a new development in the field of community affairs!

(c) Without singling out the Vision-17 organization specifically, I would have to say we are doing a very superficial job of attacking the rural development problem. Yes, the emphasis has been on chasing smoke-stacks. The real job out here is to present some alternatives to the people and see if they want to change the countryside, and make their communities viable.

Shortly after World War II, down in the Deep South, the process was called "balancing agriculture with industry." There was more urgency to get the job done in Mississippi, for example, in the late 40's and early 50's than there is in rural Nebraska today.

We don't have the severe unemployment problems that many or most rural areas down South had. We do, however, have an urgent need to become aware of what is happening to our "way of life," as Carl Curtis so aptly describes things in rural Nebraska. While Senator Curtis may be afraid that we will "spoil that nice little town" by bringing in some industry, the significant thing, I believe, is that we must let people know that some alternatives do exist for small towns.

While we give lip service to the notion that we would like to keep some of our high school graduates in their home counties, we practically encourage them to leave for Kansas City, Denver, etc.

We don't even accept federal money that is available for construction of community centers, new outdoor recreational areas, etc.

If all this sounds somewhat negative, I suppose it is. But, really, there is a better way! We must have leadership at the state level, however. What we have now is fragmentation. The Department of Economic Development is doing its job; the State Office of Planning and Programming is trying; we are doing our bit, along with many local Chambers of Commerce. But I feel that somehow the university — or possibly the Extension Service — has failed to perform its role of leadership.

The governor shouts that the Ag College must have a stronger voice in the university and the state — but the Ag College seems to be afflicted with hardening of the arteries.

So we really don't have any leadership in the rural development area. Am I wrong?

LOMR Progresses

Lincoln, Neb.
Has the reading public noticed one interesting point about the LOMR program the past 90 days? Since certain members of the administration have resigned their positions, there has been only favorable headlines in the papers concerning the teachers and students and the many worthwhile projects this organization has been known for.

It is a shame that for a brief period during which the program had leading personnel that could not have had the welfare of the teachers and students uppermost in their minds were allowed to literally almost ruin a program that the parents and community had started from scratch.

I only hope that wherever these confused program directors are now employed, their business and programs don't go through the upheaval that LOMR was subjected to before the parents and what was left of the remaining teachers finally persuaded the board to get new leadership.

Hats off to Milan Bish! I hope for the party's sake that he doesn't quit.

DISGRUNTLED REPUBLICAN

Lincoln, Neb.
It's too bad, in a way, that no tax money is involved, at least yet. Or maybe the Nebraska taxpayers might be made aware of our "complaints" and their minds were made up. We gathered it was presumptuous of us to approach these distinguished gentlemen with such a trivial concern as the future of our neighborhood.

We were thus left in no doubt that we faced a firmly amassed power; but this was not a power acting as the will of the people. What we witnessed was raw economic power acting through our elected representatives and disdainful of even the amenities of citizen participation.

The discouraging things is that I voted for each of these men, reading into their campaign promises some broader degree of concern. Am I the only one who expected more of this council?

Johnny, A Flash

Omaha, Neb.
Now that Johnny Rodgers has won the Heisman Trophy, I would like to say that, in my opinion Johnny is a flash in the pan, a show grandstander type of college player. He deserved the trophy, and I loved to watch him. I do not wish him any ill will as a human being. He is great.

But my kind of football player is the Jeff Kinney's, the Jerry Tagge's, bread-and-butter runners. Jerry was not afraid to get smacked and his hair mussed. Kinney carried a couple of tacklers for a first down many times. These are the kind of players who last in pro ball for 10 years or more.

The Johnny Rodgers type of player is a temporary "flash" but not big enough to take the hammer smashes in pro football.

Faith Nearly Dead

Lincoln, Neb.
Faith in citizen involvement dies hard, but is nearly dead here at 43rd and Normal. What killed it is not so much our failure to stop the recent rezoning action as it is the realization that we were the enemy from the beginning of this whole sorry charade.

This became obvious when Councilman Sikyta accompanied his vote with the comment that we wouldn't be satisfied with less than a park or virgin land. That this contradicted our testimony at the public hearing was apparently irrelevant. From this we concluded that public hearings are not expected to produce even

Milligan Residents Mourn Loss Of Two In Air Crash

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Milligan — Since it was only three months ago that she moved to town, Joan Jording was just starting to get acquainted.
She hadn't even met a goodly portion of Milligan's 319 residents. Yet virtually the entire town is mourning the young teacher's wife and her infant son, Derek, who were among the 45 victims of a Chicago plane crash.
Several carloads of teachers, students and neighbors will drive to Omaha Wednesday for their double funeral. It is scheduled for 2 p.m. at St. Mark's Lutheran Church.
No longer than Mrs. Jording had been here, in a town this size it was still like losing a member of the family," said Leonard Becwar, whose LB Inn is something of a community center here. "She was such a bubbly person and that little kid was all smiles, too."

Joan was 26, little Derek only seven months. Husband Lloyd, 32, is in his first year as a science teacher and assistant coach.
The Jordings' small white house has sat unentered since the distraught husband rushed to Omaha Friday after being notified of the crash. All weekend his friends here held out hopes that Joan and Derek might be on the survivors' list.
But they weren't among the 18 who made it.
Jording, known here as Dave, has apparently remained with Omaha relatives. The only word his fellow teachers have had has been through press reports.
"You hear about stuff like this, but you never expect it to hit so close," said Bill Tabbert, who teaches industrial arts. "The Jordings have lived next door to us and moved in the same day we did. We have a baby just two months older than theirs. This was really a shock."

Coach Pete Chapman, who has been assisted by Jording in both football and basketball, said Joan was returning from a visit with her parents in Maryland. The trip was a Christmas present from Dave.
"They told us her folks had never seen the baby," Chapman continued. "The day of the crash, he was seven months old. Joan had called a couple of days before and said Derek had just taken his first step, but we think she may have been kidding."
A Navy medical corpsman who was attached to the Marines in Vietnam, Jording met his eastern-reared wife while in service. They lived in Omaha until this fall as he completed work at UNO on a teaching certificate.
Dave also attended Norfolk Junior College and Western Illinois University after graduating from Beemer High School in 1958. His father, now in Illinois, had been a Lutheran minister in the community.
According to Becwar, whose wife is also a teacher, Jording had expressed a desire to enroll in medical school sometime in the future.
"We're just hoping this tragedy doesn't get him down," he said. "He has already proved to be a fine teacher and I know he'd make a fine doctor, too."

Ag Role In Energy Crisis To Be Explored At Meeting

A national conference to explore the role of agriculture in the anticipated energy crisis will be held here Feb. 1-2, it was announced Tuesday.

The conference is being planned by the State of Nebraska, the University of Nebraska and agriculture industries.

Conference officials said an estimated 300 agricultural, government and business leaders from throughout the nation would attend.

Nebraska is one of several states investigating the energy potential of animal and vegetable products and by-products, the University noted, and the conference will be the first organized effort to share information on research findings.

In commenting on the conference, Gov. J. J. Exon noted Nebraska is specifically funding a research project on the use of grain alcohol as a gasoline additive. Also being probed is the processing of animal wastes into petroleum products.

The first priority, the governor said, "Should be to take an objective look at the merits of these projects in terms of the overall energy situation and to develop a consistent approach toward those which merit further exploration."

The conference will be held at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

Specifically invited to attend were governors; state and federal legislators; officials from state and federal agriculture departments as well as the U.S. Interior Dept.; and representatives from various public and private energy producers and distributors.

Nebraska Firm 1 Of 3 Named In USDA Complaint

Washington (M) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) says a Nebraska firm is one of three meat-packing companies engaged in the purchase of slaughter horses in the Rocky Mountain and Great Plains states and portions of the Pacific Northwest, which have been charged with violating fair trade requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

The Nebraska firm was identified as Central Nebraska Packing Co., which has principal offices at North Platte.

The department's Packers and stockyards Administration charged in an administrative complaint that representatives of Central Nebraska Packing Co., Quaker Oats Co. of Canada and Norfish Ltd. of Canada entered into an illegal agreement to restrict competition during a meeting at Billings, Mont., on Feb. 15, 1967.

Norfish Ltd. is the owner of Alsask Processors, located at Edmonton, Alta. The administration says Central and Alsask Processors agreed not to compete with each other in the purchase of slaughter horses for pet food processing.

NPPD's Bid For New Water Rights Opposed

Hershey (M) — The Platte Valley Sierra Club has filed formal objections with the Nebraska Department of Water Resources opposing the request for new water rights by the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) for use at the proposed Gerald Gentleman Station at Sutherland.

Marilyn Huebner, club chairman, said NPPD has filed four applications with the Department of Water Resources for increased water use and new water rights for the water stored at Lake McConaughy and for the flowing water in the North and South Platte rivers.

Mrs. Huebner said the objections filed by the club could be described as "technical objections to the vagueness and inadequacy of the applications; public interest objections that the water use at this plant may infringe upon domestic and agricultural needs and that this use may not be beneficial; and ecological objections that the water use may result in mercury and thermal pollution of those water resources."

She added: "The initial 650-megawatt unit at the proposed Gerald Gentleman Station will consume approximately 7,000 gallons of water per minute by evaporation due to the cooling of the thermal-electrical generating units. The Platte Valley Sierra Club believes that this constitutes a manufacturing purpose and that such a purpose has the lowest priority of use. We believe that the potential need of the area for domestic and agricultural uses must be considered and anticipated and if those needs conflict with this proposed use by NPPD, then our domestic and agricultural needs must prevail."

Mrs. Huebner said the club has been advised by experts that mercury emissions from the stacks of the plant would be returned to surface waters of the area and could concentrate in fish in the lakes and rivers in amounts up to three times the permissible level.

She also said the club believes the water temperature of Sutherland Reservoir would be increased by about 20 degrees and could have an adverse effect on organisms in the reservoir, the canal and possibly on fish and organisms in Lake Maloney.

The club has asked the Department of Water Resources to hold a hearing on the NPPD applications.

Education Board Endorses Addition To Northeast High

The Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday endorsed educational specifications for an addition that would add new science rooms and physical education facilities at Northeast High School.

The action came at a meeting held at the building Tuesday evening.

The science facilities, if built according to the specifications, would house a life science suite and physical science laboratories.

The physical education addition would include a new gymnasium, a regulation-size swimming pool and perhaps a one-tenth mile running track.

The specifications assume that other needs at Northeast would be met by remodeling old portions of the building after the new additions are completed.

As a part of future remodeling, for example, the instrumental music room either must be removed from a fourth-floor room or an external fire escape from that room must be provided.

Supt. John Prasch said details of the planning of the addition and the interior remodeling will await appointment of an architect to design the addition.

The board approved the specification without dissent, although it also said it wanted to insure that all the facilities called for would be needed.

Prasch said he has assumed the building will eventually grow to a maximum of 2,000 students.

He also said board member Robert Wekesser, who was absent from the meeting, had called him earlier to say that he was opposed to providing so much space for physical education.

Wekesser and other board members often part ways on physical education programming concerns.

Prasch presented the board with statistics showing that Northeast ranks lower than the other three high schools in the amount of space provided for physical education and science.

In related matters, the board gave Prsach authority to confer with the architectural firm of Aitken, Hazen, Hoffman and Hull about the possibility of designing an addition at Lake View Elementary School.

Prasch did not, however, ask for formal appointment of the firm, saying he wanted to visit about which architect might do the work and what fee might be arranged.

In other matters, —reaffirmed its present policy on distribution of commercial materials in school buildings, a policy which was invoked by Prsach to ban distribution of the Lincoln Gazette in school buildings. The East High School Student Council had suggested by letter that the ban amounted to censorship and urged establishment of a committee to screen requests for permission to distribute materials. The Gazette is an underground-type newspaper.

—approved the concept of a "year of the arts" during the 1973-74 school year, when Nebraska artists would work with students in music, visual arts and theater as "artists in residence" in the schools. The board gave an arts coordinating council the authority to seek funds to help support the project, which would have a budget of as much as $55,900.

—heard a presentation on goals for the reading and English programs as a part of a continuing series of reports on goals and objective setting for curricular areas.

—authorized the purchase, for $9,200, of another lot near Clinton School to complete acquisition of a four-lot area to be used mainly for off-street parking.

Faculty Senate Votes To Establish Special Appointment Review Group

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln faculty senate Tuesday voted to establish a faculty committee to "review with the administration" all one-year appointments for professors older than 65.

The vote was a somewhat delayed reaction to a statement from University of Nebraska President D. B. Varner, who said in November that all such appointments in the future would have to carry his personal endorsement before they are submitted to the Board of Regents.

The resolution was submitted at a special faculty senate meeting last month by English Prof. Paul Olson, who said he was acting on behalf of the American Federation of Teachers (AFT) chapter on the Lincoln campuses.

Action on the matter was held off until Tuesday's meeting, since senate rules generally require resolutions be submitted at least a week in advance of a meeting.

The Varner statement was made at the November Board of Regents meeting, when the board was told that the university was facing an operating fund deficit in the current year and would have to adjust the 1973-74 request budget as well.

Some faculty members took Varner to mean that the practice of permitting professors to teach on one-year bases after the technical retirement date would be sharply curtailed, if not eliminated.

Such professors, on the recommendation of their department chairman, dean and the campus chancellor, have been allowed to teach until the age of 68. New regulations will permit them to continue till age 70.

Olson said the intent of his motion was to create a committee to review any such appointments which were rejected after they left a dean's office.

"The effort would be to assist the administration in providing information and guidelines for an equitable process and to help it assure itself that it was not losing the services of employees whose skills would not be likely to be matched by replacement appointments," said Olson.

The senate barely met the quorum requirements of 50 members Tuesday as it met for the last time before the semester break.

Scrapping Slated

Brest, France (AP) — The cruiser De Grasse, command vessel for French atomic tests in the South Pacific since 1966, returned to Brest to be decommissioned and eventually broken up for scrap. Construction on the ship was begun in 1938 but not completed until 1956.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin®.

Labor Leaders Would Be Behind Wage Controls If Changes Made of The New York Times

Washington — Leaders of organized labor indicated Tuesday that they were amenable to President Nixon's decision to extend wage and price controls but only if some changes were made.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, said he welcomed assurances by Treasury

Secretary George P. Shultz that labor and others would be consulted on changing the present control system. In these discussions, he said, "the first priority must be on achieving equity."

"If that equity is not achieved, we believe controls should be abolished," Meany said in a prepared statement. He charged that the current stabilization program was inequitable because "workers' wages have been stringently controlled while the prices of everything they buy continue to rise, and the profits of their employers have been allowed to skyrocket."

"We believe," Meany continued, "the stabilization program can — and should be made fair, equitable, effective and across the board on all prices, costs and incomes, including profits, as well as wages and salaries with adequate exemption for the wages of the working poor."

A spokesman for Meany said that the AFL-CIO would not spell out its specific proposals for changing the economic stabilization program until it met with administration officials.

Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, wants to replace the present stabilization machinery with a largely voluntary wage-price review board, according to a spokesman for his union.

Woodcock believes that the elaborate controls program of Phase II has not made all that much difference in the economy in any case and that a voluntary program would be at least as effective.

Under the system advocated by Woodcock, companies that set prices in any particular industry would have to go before the review board before making any increase in prices and justify the contemplated increase. The same requirement would be made of unions asking wage increases if companies said those increases necessitated higher prices.

Woodcock, who along with Meany was one of the labor leaders who resigned as members of the Pay Board earlier this year, has been advocating the voluntary review board approach for some time.

Rash Of Shooting Incidents Breaks Out In No. Ireland

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP) — A rash of shooting incidents broke out across Northern Ireland Tuesday night and an off-duty police officer was killed in one attack.

The 47-year-old man was ambushed by guerrillas as he left a hotel several miles north of Belfast. Witnesses said about 30 shots were fired from automatic weapons.

In the capital, machine gunners firing from a prowling automobile raked a tavern frequented by Roman Catholics. A 12-year-old girl shopping for candy nearby was hit in the leg and a man inside the pub was struck in the back. Two teenage youths standing on the sidewalk also were wounded.

More gunfire erupted at Lisburn, Lurgan and Armagh, where police and national guard patrols came under attack. No casualties were reported in those incidents. The policeman's death was the 450th this year in Northern Ireland's sectarian violence.

A Protestant militant who tried to bridge the gulf between the feuding communities was buried Tuesday.

Port-Of-Call Study Finished

San Juan, P.R. (AP) — Gov. Luis A. Ferre of Puerto Rico said Tuesday that the island could be turned into a port of call for large ocean-going oil supertankers.

Ferre, at a news conference, said that the government had just completed a feasibility study to locate the deep-water port on deserted Mona Island located 35 miles west of Puerto Rico.

The 14,500 acres of island could be turned into a petroleum warehousing and distribution center in addition to providing dock facilities, according to the study.

Mona Island, Ferre said, "is an ideal site for such a project."

Tourists Counted

Madrid (AP) — More than 39.7 million tourists visited Spain during the first 11 months of 1972, the government announced, nearly a 30% increase over the same period in 1971.

The sacred college then numbered 134 members, a record. By now it has shrunk to 116 cardinals, including 9 Americans and 4 Canadians. The group has suffered a new form of attrition since the Pope decreed two years ago that any cardinal who is 80 years of age or older will be barred from any conclave to elect any of the Pope's successors.

If Pope Paul announces a consistory for the creation of new cardinals in the next few days, the implication would be that the reform has been postponed.

From a distance the site looks like a large sand-colored plateau. It is about 300 acres and lies between Zabol and Zahedan, close to the Persian-Afghan border, at a point that had strategic significance in the last century as a result of the conflicting British and Russian ambitions to dominate Central Asia and control the routes to India.

Alcohol Studies Winter Session Set At Kearney

The First Winter Session of the Nebraska School for Alcohol Studies will be held at the Holiday Inn in Kearney January 21-26, according to Gary Schoenrock, supervisor of informal education with the University of Nebraska Extension Division and co-director of the school.

The program, which can accommodate 100 students, will be devoted exclusively to the presentation of alcoholism, and will enter on prevention programs for the family, occupational programs, and highway safety.

The school is sponsored by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension Division, the Nebraska Division of Alcoholism and the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute in cooperation with the Lincoln Alcohol Safety Action Project. Gail Wheeler, associate director for education and research with the Nebraska Division of Alcoholism, is co-director of the school.

The school is an outgrowth and another section of the Nebraska School for Alcohol Studies which for the past few years has been conducting similar sessions in the summer in Lincoln and Scottsbluff. In 1973, the summer sessions will be held at Doane College in Crete and Nebraska Western College in Scottsbluff.

Christmas Slogans In Trouble

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

New York (UPI) — Christmas cards and some of the holiday slogans are in trouble with the Women's Liberation Movement.

A lot about the holly-jolly season, it seems discriminates against women by virtue of its male orientation. The problem is brought into focus by the cover on the December issue of MS magazine. This publication was sired by the Women's Liberation Movement and counts Gloria Steinem among its pillars. The cover makes its point by saying in big letters: "Peace on Earth Good Will to People."

The usual message is "Good Will to Men"—an obvious discrimination against women.

If Christmas slogans and some songs are to be corrected for alleged discrimination against women, it will take some conditioning on the part of men, women and children to feel comfortable with the liberated version.

Consider: —The Three Wise Men will never do. They must become The Three Wise Persons.

—The song "The Little Drummer Boy" must be changed to "The Little Drummer Boy and Girl." If you'd like it better, another acceptable version could be—"The Little Drummer Person."

—"We Three Kings of Orient Are" presents a triple choice. It could be "We Three Royal Persons of Orient Are" or "Six Kings and Queens of Orient Are." Six? Yes. Unless you want "We Three Kings and Queens—which comes out to one-and-a-half of each.

—"God Rest ye Merry Gentlemen" could be either "God Rest ye Merry Gentlemen" or "God Rest ye Merry Humans" or "God Rest ye Merry Men, Women and Child."

—"I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus" poses problems. Should it be —"I Saw Mommy and Daddy Kissing Santa Person?" or —"I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa" and a sequel, "I Saw Daddy Kissing Mrs. Santa Claus" or should it be —"I Saw My Parents Kissing the Santa Person."

—The shepherds who watched their flocks are in for trouble too. They've got to become sheep-herding persons or people. Or else they've got to move over and make room for an equal number of shepherdesses.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

★ By SIDNEY OMARR ★
Forecast For Wednesday

When it comes to late-night snacks, Cancer and Leo natives "take the cake." Aries creates Dagwood sandwiches and Taurus selects solid chunks of meat. Pisces prefers delicate fish dishes and Capricorn will settle for caviar and hard-boiled eggs as a midnight repast.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Easy ways are blocked. Potential and long-range views dominate. Live your own life. Those who advise and expect you to consent must be awakened to facts. Self-interest now must be your key. You will comprehend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Advice from friends could mean something to be desired. Your own views should be first, foremost. Strive for added independence. Be wary of contact with money, valuables. Do your own accounting for now.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Home affairs could dominate. Family member is trying to tell you something. Learn by teaching. Means share knowledge. Examine motives, hidden. Accept responsibility. If enthusiastic, you benefit.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Let others handle minor matters, details. View project as a whole. Perceive potential. Apply to personal as well as business affairs. Now you can look ahead to holiday visits, gift selections.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Slight delay should not be cause for undue discouragement. Key now is to look for openings. Pick and choose. Be selective. Be aware of how male. Partner handles money. Advise in careful manner.

VIRGO (August 23-Sept. 22): Lie low. Obtain hint from Leo message. If patient, necessary changes will occur. Gemini individual could play key role. Accent is on quiet reaction, your ability to perceive what is needed. Sum up—but don't commit yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Journey may result in the unexpected. Postpone long-range project. You require additional material, information. Know it and respond accordingly. Taurus individual figures prominently. Be flexible.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Study Virgo message. See situations, persons as they really are—don't deceive yourself. Wistful thinking is your adversary. Emotion tends to take over from logic. Be prepared. Avoid being soft on an impulse.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Invest in your own talents, abilities. Give individual hands helping hand. Accept added responsibility. Bright spot occurs in area previously depressed. You are due for unusual surprise of pleasant variety.

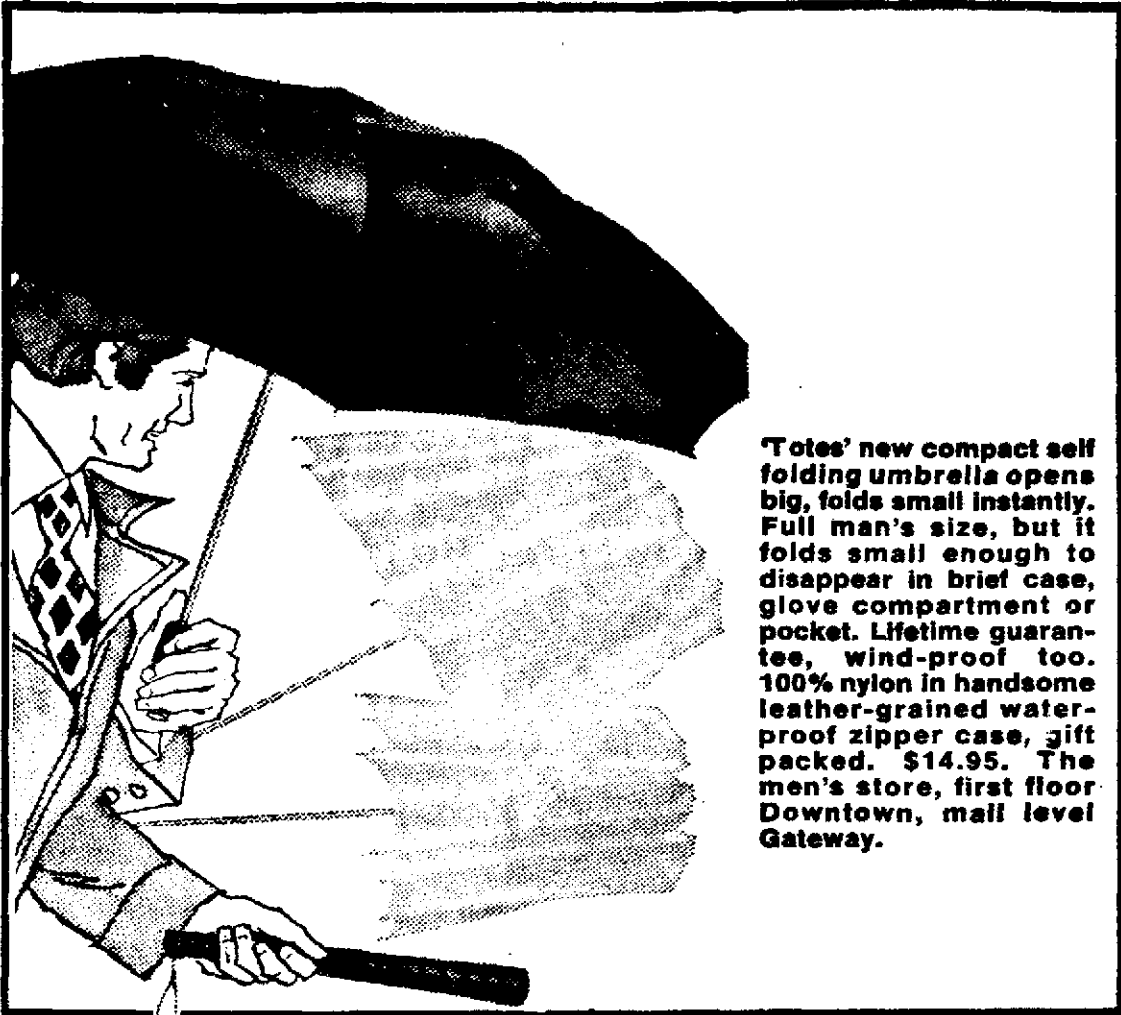

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You can complete assignment and receive recognition for efforts. Some ideas need revision and more time to develop. Tolerate through weather of confusion. Steer clear of disputes among relatives.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): New approach is necessary if you are to realize financial gain. Key now is to strive for priority. Old methods will not suffice. Keep up with times. Stress showmanship, creativity.

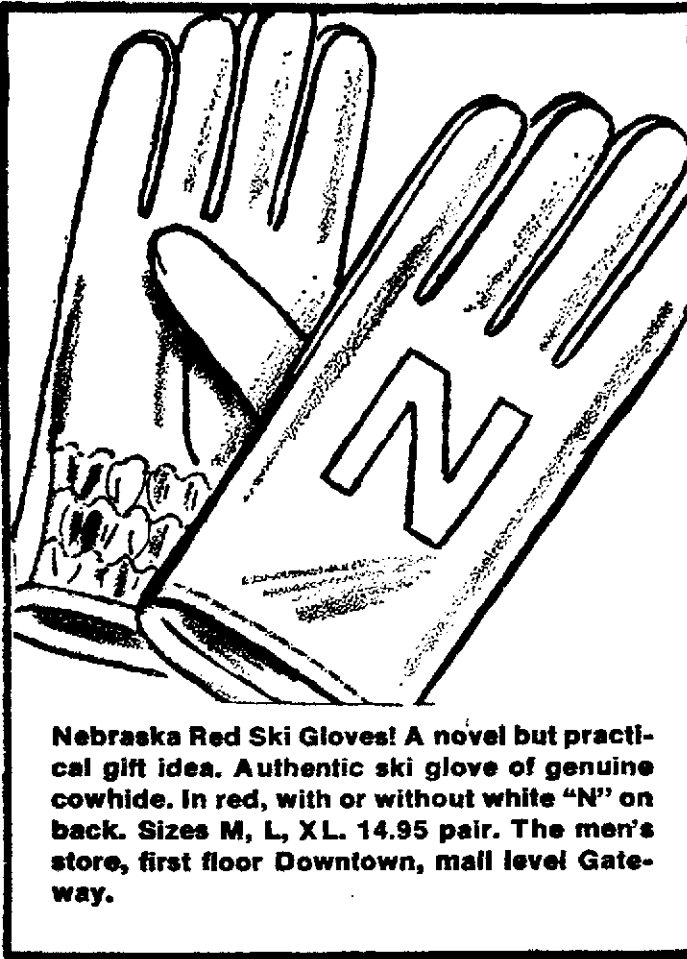

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You can overcome odds. Key is to follow through knowing you will get your due. After initial opposition, Aquarius may be surprised. Be receptive. Keep faith in yourself. You are on right path.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you recently survived test. You are due to reap some reward. You are frank, direct individual. You usually mean what you say and do. You are happy. In 1973, you will complete important project. August will be your most significant month of upcoming year.

Farmers Told To Take Advantage Of High Futures Market Prices

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

The Director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) urged farmers to take advantage of the present high prices in the futures markets to lock in profits for their 1973 crop rather than relying on the government support programs.

"The new program for 1973 really offers three options to the farmer. He can stay out of the program and plant his entire farm to his favorite crops locking in a profit by selling the grain on the futures market at today's high prices," Kenneth Frick said.

The two other options are to accept a 30% set aside figure and plant anything he wants on his remaining acreage or to accept a 15% set aside figure to keep out of production. The 15% option carries a limitation on the farmers crops to be not more than that planned in 1972.

The state figures are not yet available but on a national basis the payments for taking land out of production will average $50.75 per acre for the 30% option and $69.60 for each acre idled under the 15% option with the planting restrictions.

Apparently most other features of the 1972 program will be retained in 1973. Details on just how the program will work in Nebraska will be announced in the next two or three weeks, according to state ASCS officials.

The program is designed to produce a modest increase in feed grains and a sharp increase in the 1973 soybean crop according to Frick.

Frick pointed to expanded world trade in agricultural products as an opportunity for farmers to move away from reliance on government programs for income.

"We have had some expressions of concern about the changes from farmers but we are getting most of the opposition from exporters and processors."

"The old programs didn't provide the kind of assistance to the farmers that they were supposed to. Apparently they did help processors and exporters because they seem concerned over the changes," he said.

Frick added that in any program of unwinding the government support program some people were bound to be upset.

Frick announced that the loan program for construction of on-the-farm grain storage facilities was being cut back by more than $100 million dollars.

"There appears to be enough on-the-farm storage capacity to meet present needs. We don't think we ought to put federal dollars into a program that can be handled by private financial sources," he said.

The cutback includes raising interest rates for the loan from 5 1/2% to 6%, limiting loans to one year rather than two years, eliminating oxygen free storage structures from the loan program and dropping grain drying equipment, foundations and wiring from the loan qualifications.

A third announcement indicated that the government is trying to get out of the loan business in its support of feed grain, soybean and wheat prices.

The administrator announced that the USDA would not release any soybeans or any warehouse-stored wheat, feed grains or soybeans.

The decision as to whether 1972 crop farm-stored wheat and feed grains and 1971 farm-stored durum wheat, oats and corn would be released has not as yet been made however

Frick indicated that if the market did not drop as a result of the present efforts to move grain into marketing channels that the loan program would be ended.

Frick pointed out that farmers should be able to make a profit by paying back the loan and selling the grain. "We don't expect to accept delivery on any of this grain," he said.

The grain loan program will put the stored crops on the market after May 1 when most of the loans mature.

Quantities of warehouse stored grain released include 27.1 million bushels of wheat, 77.17 million bushels of corn, and 31.3 million bushels of grain sorghum.

A farm-stored commodities released to market channels by the announcement include 215.6 million bushels of wheat, 137.3 million bushels of corn, 63.3 million bushels of barley, 133.7 million bushels of oats, 14.6 million bushels of grain sorghum and 7.5 million bushels of rye.

The grain futures market did not decline as expected in trading at Chicago today. Apparently the news of snow on unharvested crops offset the government announcement.

Southeast Nebraska Bears Brunt Of Latest Snowstorm

Southwest Nebraska bore the brunt of the latest snowstorm covering all but the western part of the state Tuesday.

The McCook area reported the most snow with up to 10 inches in the Red Willow County seat and 10 inches at Swanson Reservoir, west of Trenton. Enders Dam in Chase County received eight inches of snow.

Highways Open
Highway conditions were improving late Tuesday, the State Patrol reported. Although many roads were snowpacked, all highways were open, the patrol said.

Both Lincoln and Omaha received five inches of the powdery snow which fell from time to time throughout the day. Norfolk reported eight inches on the ground.

Numerous schools in the southern part of the state were closed late in the forenoon or at noon due to the storm.

Holdrege reported six or seven inches of new snow, with about 22 school closings in the area.

Little Drifting

Fortunately there was little wind accompanying the snow to cause drifting.

Snow depth reports in southeast Nebraska included Humboldt 7 inches, Pawnee City and Tecumseh 6, Fairbury 5, Crete, Hastings, Stromsburg and Weeping Water 4, and David City, Seward and Superior 3.

Slightly warmer temperatures with a chance of light snow in the east is the outlook for Nebraska Wednesday.

Transportation Is Slowed By Five Inches Of Snow

The five inches of fluffy white reported by the National Weather Service that blanketed Lincoln at snowfall's end Tuesday caused two minor collisions between autos and Lincoln Transportation System (LTS) buses in the city.

Despite the snow, most LTS buses ran on schedule Tuesday and those that were late ran within three to five minutes of their schedules, reported Jerry J. Rae, LTS manager.

Otherwise, buses and airplanes into and out of Lincoln experienced only small delays in normal schedules, according to local transportation officials.

Early Tuesday evening, the Nebraska State Patrol reported all roads across the state were open with clear weather. The patrol noted roads were snow-packed and icy east of a line from North Platte to O'Neill, where travel was reported slower than normal.

United Air Lines cancelled two flights to Chicago Tuesday owing to weather and traffic delays in Chicago airports, according to Harlan Franey, United customer service supervisor. Flight conditions and weather in Lincoln presented no problems he said, and United was operating normally by early Tuesday evening.

Frontier also reported two cancelled flights, again because of weather elsewhere in the system and not in Lincoln.

Both bus services in Lincoln reported schedule delays, but no cancellations. A Continental Trailways bus got tied up in Wray, Colo., on its eastbound run, according to J. R. Rutledge, Continental traffic representative, but moved later on. He said his buses were "taking it slow and easy."

At Greyhound, head agent Ed Dorsey said one bus from New York City was several hours late arriving Tuesday, but other runs were only a few minutes late.

Extended Cold Wave Depleting Fuel Supplies

The extended cold wave hanging over Lincoln caused some 275 to 300 natural gas customers in the city to convert to standby fuel supplies since Dec. 4, according to Art Bothwell, Cengas chief gas dispatcher.

He ordered the conversion, he said, for Cengas to meet the increased demand for gas by residential customers.

Relying on other fuels for more than a week is "unprecedented" in Lincoln, Bothwell said. "It's quite abnormal for this time of year."

Depending on the weather this week, he said, Cengas might be able to revert to normal gas supply, but he made no predictions.

"Normally we don't get into this until Christmas or shortly thereafter," Bothwell said, and then the cold spells usually affect heating only for short durations.

He pointed out that it has been roughly 40% colder than during this time last year. The frigid weather has caused Cengas to mix gas and propane every day since Dec. 4, Bothwell said, because Cengas is limited in the amount of gas it can use.

Cengas Lincoln Division manager, C. L. Wilcox, said gas customers convert on a step basis, with larger consumers, such as the university and the K Street power plant making the changeover first.

In the second step, users such as the state hospital and penitentiary, and industries such as Yankee Hill Brick make the conversion.

Finally, third step conversion is required if demand still exceeds supply after the first two steps are accomplished, Wilcox said. Affected here would be schools, small churches, apartment houses, and commercial buildings downtown, he said.

Snow Emergency Declared

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf declared the city's first snow emergency late Tuesday afternoon in the wake of the heavy snow storm which dumped five inches of that fluffy white-stuff on Lincoln.

Parking bans are in effect in all residential areas, with parking prohibited on the north and east sides of the streets. Violators will be subject to fines.

Public Works Director Bob Obering reported that his department's biggest effort Tuesday night and early Wednesday will be to clear the residential streets. Plowing of arterials and emergency routes was completed earlier Tuesday.

Although parking bans are in effect, the mayor did not declare a complete snow emergency which would have involved ticketing motorists who became stalled on emergency routes.

Early Wednesday morning the Street Dept. reported the emergency plans were "working out very well. We're having no problems."

The city's snow emergency ordinance, establishing emergency routes as well as a command post in the County-City Civil Defense Headquarters, was approved in 1971 following one of the most severe winters in the city's history.

The subsequent winter, 1971-72, proved to be mild and a snow emergency was never declared.

Groundbreaking Brings Sunshine To Fairbury

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Fairbury —This Jefferson County community was likely the only one in the entire state Tuesday which was scooping sunshine.

It was heaped much higher than the surrounding snowdrifts as a new 300-employee Kellwood Garment plant was officially welcomed to the town. Weather notwithstanding, few factories ever had a warmer groundbreaking.

Despite frigid temperatures and falling snow, there wasn't the slightest thought of cancelling one of the biggest community moments in decades. There was, however, a hurrying of the gold-spaded outdoor ceremonies before adjournment to a pair of indoor programs.

Squeezed between the groundbreaking and a sellout luncheon attended by 200 was a high school program which had all the enthusiasm of a pep rally. The hurrahs were divided between Kellwood and local leaders who had helped land the new industry.

Mack Gale, president of Kellwood's Kingswell group, said Fairbury had been chosen for the new plant over some 30 other cities in eight states.

He headed a guest delegation of nine officials from Kellwood and the firm which takes practically all its production, Sears Roebuck.

"We are joining Fairbury in a 'partnership for progress,'" said the St. Louis executive. "We really think this is our type of community and we want to be a part of its growth."

"Good For Community" Wayne Williams, national merchandising manager for Sears' men's outerwear department, urged listening high schoolers to consider the new industry for life careers. He said Kellwood intends to be "an example of how big business can be good for a community."

Stan Matzke of the State Department of Economic Development, speaking for Gov. J. James Exon who cancelled his appearance due to icy roads, lauded the "tremendous spirit of this community."

"This is the consummation of some tremendous work and drive," said Matzke. "Here in Fairbury you put it together despite trials which might have pulled you apart."

Overcome
His reference obviously was to a disappointment of several months ago when an an-tipated Goodyear plant made a last minute decision against locating in the town.

Fairbury's welcoming delegation included Mayor C. B. Schwab; George Newton, president of the Fairbury Industrial Development Corporation; Darrel Junker, Chamber of Commerce president; and Richard Fry, Chamber president-elect. Frank Newell was master of ceremony.
Gale said it is hoped that

Mrs. Craig has sold about $2,000 worth of doll clothes in the past nine years. "In '64," she said, "I broke my leg ... that's when I sold $415 worth. She started by making doll clothes for her own daughters and now 35 grandchildren and one great-grandchild keep her busy with more than 200 sets of doll clothes this year.

Her husband got started on his hobby by making a number of bows for children. This evolved into making miniature pieces of farm equipment, a cedar log cabin, wind vane and other items.

"Most of my ideas come while I'm riding the grader," Craig said. He has been a county equipment operator since leaving the ranching business some years ago.

TIME TO THINK . . . gives Brady many interesting ideas.

Hobbies Evolve From Thought, Need

Brady (P) — Milton Craig developed his hobby because when you're sitting on a county road grader you've got a lot of time to think up ideas.

His wife, Mabel, developed her hobby for 36 good reasons. "I love to make doll clothes," she said. "I love to make doll clothes for my grandchildren. The Craigs, who live at Brady, have been turning out wooden toys, farm equipment replicas and doll clothes for some years now.

Bridegroom Faces Charges In Shooting Of Omaha Man

Omaha (P) An Omaha man who was married Saturday was arrested Tuesday in connection with the shooting death of Richard Dutcher, 31, of Omaha, after a traffic dispute Saturday.

Deputy Douglas County Attorney Michael McGill said Rayman Damasauskas, 25, is accused of shooting Dutcher and will be charged with second degree murder.

McGill said Damasauskas and several members of his wedding party were arrested Saturday and released after questioning.

McGill said he was arrested again Tuesday after further investigation.

Dennis Dutcher, 31, of Omaha, a brother of the slain man, said they were returning from a hunting trip when a pickup truck blocked their path in midtown Omaha.

Dutcher said there was a dispute about moving the truck and that two men wearing tuxedos got out of the truck and approached their car.

Police said two shots were fired at the Dutcher car as it pulled around a corner and Richard Dutcher suffered a fatal wound in the chest.

Jury May Receive Case Wednesday

Ogallala (UPI) — A jury of eight women and four men were told Tuesday they may receive the first degree murder trial of Michael Wayne Rhodes for deliberation Wednesday.

Keith County District Judge Hugh Stewart said the trial had been moving more rapidly than had been anticipated, and court sources said only two more witnesses were to be called prior to closing arguments.

Rhodes, 23, of Taylorville, Ill., is accused in the shooting death last May of Fred Snodgrass, 22, a Dutch immigrant who Rhodes had picked up while hitchhiking. His body was found in a field near Paxton, Neb.

The defense rested its case Tuesday after calling six more witnesses. Two, including the defendant, were on the stand Monday.

Testifying Tuesday was the defendant's wife, Sarah, 21, of Taylorville. The mother of two children said she found an empty .22-caliber cartridge and a loaded one in a pocket of a jacket her husband was wearing when he returned to Taylorville.

Mrs. Rhodes said her husband told her they belonged to a boy named Stu. She referred to Stuart Holford of Bellevue, Neb., who is accused as an accessory after the fact and is also the man who the defense said could have committed the crime.

Also appearing was a 15-year-old girl from Lompoc, Calif., Crystal Brown Wood.

She said she knew Rhodes in California and he had used the phrase "blow him away" on two occasions in California in reference to people who had been bothering him.

It was the same phrase that Holford said the defendant used when he returned from the murder scene.

The girl also said Rhodes had used LSD in California and had given her some drugs.

2 Men Die In Accident Near Giltner

Giltner (P) —Two young men lost their lives Monday night in a one-car accident 3.5 miles north and eight miles east of the Giltner Interchange on Interstate 80.

The State Patrol identified them as James D. Archer, 19, of Grand Island, the Lavon G. Pejsa, 19, of Chapman.

The patrol said the west-bound car driven by Archer apparently went out of control and rolled several times.

The deaths raised the Nebraska highway fatality toll for the year to 452 as compared with 456 at this time a year ago.

Across Nebraska

Valentine Mayor Monroe Resigns

Valentine (P) — Mayor Elmer Monroe has resigned from office effective immediately. Monroe submitted his resignation to the City Council, saying his duties as local manager of the Federal Land Bank "have increased substantially" making it impossible for him to devote enough time to mayoral duties. Monroe was elected to a two-year term last May. City Council president Ernest Bailey will serve the remainder of Monroe's unexpired term, it was reported.

Gering City Workers Get Pay Hike

Gering (P) — All city employees will receive pay raises effective Dec. 18 under measures approved by the Gering City Council. The council adopted an ordinance granting all employees paid on the city's salary schedule raises of $10 bi-weekly. Hourly rated employees will receive a four per cent increase under a companion resolution. Appointment of Mick Britton as city street superintendent was also approved. Britton will replace Lyle C. Leonard, longtime street superintendent who will retire Jan. 1.

Youth Trapped In Wreckage 15 Hours

Randolph (P) — A 17-year-old youth from McLean was in guarded but improved condition Tuesday after being trapped in his car for about 15 hours after a wreck. State Trooper W. R. Johnson said the car the youth, Douglas Whalen, was driving was destroyed when it went 36 feet through the air before coming to a halt. Johnson said the youth upon coming to in the wreckage walked about a quarter mile to find help. He was hospitalized in Osmond.

Bad Weather Cancels Bull Sale

Minutaria (P) — Due to bad weather, the Colossal 300 bull sale scheduled for Wednesday has been cancelled, according to W. F. Smith, president of Colossal Cattle Co. Smith said the 300 sons of Colossal which were selected for the sale will be offered for sale through private treaty. Those not sold will be added to the listings of an April 16 sale. The April sale was planned as another Colossal 300 bull sale.

Smoke Inhalation Blamed In Rhoades Death

Omaha (P) — A preliminary autopsy report indicates Kenneth W. Rhoades, 58, of Omaha, died of smoke inhalation Saturday. Fire Capt. Robert Blackwell said Rhoades, who apparently fell asleep in bed while smoking, was awakened by the fire and made it to the living room where he collapsed.

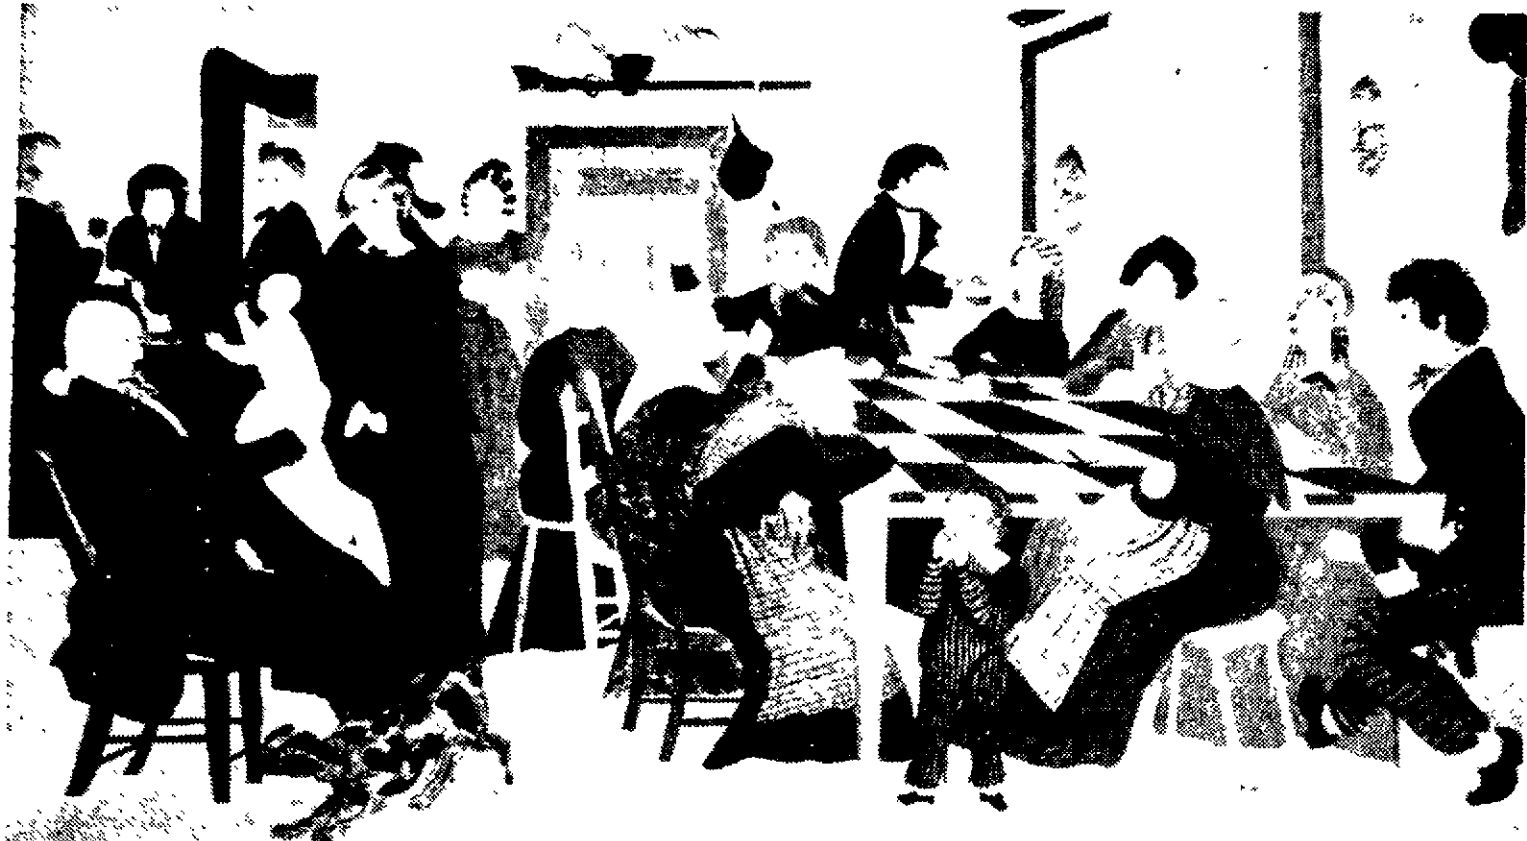

Two Cheyenne School Districts To Merge

Sidney (P) — Cheyenne County school Superintendent Irving Caldwell has notified residents of Sidney School District 1 and rural District 166 that he plans to merge the two districts as one June 1. District 166 includes the area covered by Western Nebraska Technical College. Because the land is state-owned, the district has no property tax base. Caldwell unveiled the plan at a public hearing. There were no objections.

Beef Cattle Group's Meet Re-Scheduled

Answorth (P) — The annual meeting of the Nebraska Beef Cattle Improvement Association has been re-scheduled for Monday, Dec. 18, at the Answorth Elks Club, according to Jim Gosey, recording secretary. Featured speaker will be Angus breeder Dave Nichols of Anita, Iowa, president of the Beef Improvement Federation. Preliminary results of the beef carcass data service will be reported by Gosey. Sire of the Year and "Seedstock Producer of the Year" awards will also be presented.

Know Your Antiques

"The Quilting Party" is a 19th-century painting in oil on composition board by an unknown American folk artist. Notice the decorated window shades.

BY RALPH AND TERRY KOVEL

American folk art often surprises the experts with its details of everyday living in America. The details in paintings often are considered the most accurate source of information for restoration work.

"The Quilting Party" is a famous folk painting. It is in the Abbey Aldrich Rockefeller collection at Colonial Williamsburg. The famous painting was created by an unknown artist during the third quarter of the 19th century. It is believed to be the work of a West Virginia artist.

The room shows a happy group quilting at a frame in a room with a beamed ceiling, painted window shades, and a rough, plank door.

Research has shown that the picture is not representative of an everyday event known to the painter but rather a lively interpretation of a black and white print that appeared in "Gleason's Pictorial Magazine," on October 21, 1854. The print was entitled "A Quilting Party in Western Virginia." It was almost identical, but the windows had wooden shutters, and the walls were cracked.

Did the folk artist try to put his picture in a more decorative room, rather than in a shabby ill-kept interior? It is discoveries like this that lead to caution among those who do restorations. There is always a chance that the painter added some imaginative touches.

Q — I have seen the famous painted screens of Baltimore. Is it something I could make?

A — William Oktavee of Baltimore, Md., painted the first screen for a neighbor in 1914. The neighbor had complained that a peeping tom had been looking in her window. Mr. Oktavee, a grocer, painted a window shade and a ledge with geraniums on her window screen. This painting permitted the lady to look out but no one could look in during the day.

The screens became popular and Mr. Oktavee painted from 400 to 600 a year. It took him about 15 minutes per screen. The most popular designs were country scenes and charming cottages by the river. He had over 140 standard designs, but he would also paint special requests.

The idea of a painted screen is not new. The Chinese painted silk for their windows by 5000 B.C. Cheese cloth was painted and put in windows in Italy, France and England by the 18th century. The United States had painted screens in the South, New York, and New Hampshire, but the Baltimore screen has been the most famous.

Painting a screen is tricky because you must be sure that the small screen holes do not fill with paint. Clean the screen by washing it with vinegar. You may have to paint it once with a flat white paint. Sketch the scene in charcoal on the white or in chalk on a dark mesh screen. Use a flat, stiff brush. Paint with outside oil paints. Do not use oils from tubes. Let it dry and coat the screen with an outside varnish.

Q — What is the exact purpose of a spinning wheel?

A — The spinning wheel has been used in Europe since the 14th century. Its sole purpose was to twist a fiber. The large wheel of the spinning wheel transfers the motion to a smaller wheel which transfers it to a spindle that twists the fiber into yarn. It took an accomplished housewife to make yarn with the twist the same through the many yards of fiber that she would spin each day.

Q — Is it safe to use my old copper molds for cooking?

A — The pioneers seemed little concerned with these problems but that was only because they did not know what we do. When touched by acid foods, copper molds can create problems. A copper mold should always be tinned on the inside for safety. It is easy to find a local company that will tintplate the inside. The molds could also be clear coated with plastic.

Q — My silver teapot is American. I know because I inherited the pot with a bill of sale showing that it was made in Philadelphia. Friends tell me that it can't be used because there is a small head, a lion, and some other small marks plus the American mark on the bottom of the pot.

A — Most pieces of silver marked with the king's head, and a lion rampant are from England. Some American made pieces with pseudo English hallmarks are known. The makers indulged in a bit of false advertising and tried to make their American work appear like the then more desirable English pieces.

If you compare the marks on your pieces with those pictured in any good book of English silver marks you will notice that there is a slight difference. Sometimes the lion faces the wrong way. Sometimes the indentation around the king's head is a new shape and one not used by the English. The differences are very slight. The use of these pseudo hallmarks by American makers is rare.

Q — When were closets put in a house?

A — The early homes had closets but they were for the storage of dishes and other household goods. They were not for clothes. Clothes were stored in drawers or chests. The clothes closet came into popular use in American during the 1900s.

William Penn had running water in his house. The water came from a tank in the attic. The weight of the tank finally destroyed part of his house. The first flush toilets in a United States hotel were used in a room in the Astor House in New York in 1836.

BOOK REVIEW
What may be the most beautiful book about antiques to appear this year is here, "Treasury of American Design" by Hornung (Abrams $42.50) is a set of two large volumes filled with color and black and white pictures of antiques drawn by the WPA artists project. Twenty-nine hundred items are shown. A spectacular book.

THE LINCOLN STAR, WEDNESDAY, DEC. 13 — PAGE 14

Chit-Chat with Roxi

Teenagers have problems as do all people — and whether that teenager is a boy or a girl makes no difference in the matter of worrisome perplexities. Talk your troubles over with Roxi — Write to her in care of The Lincoln Star, Lincoln, Neb.

Dear Roxi:

My best friend called me up last night to ask if I'd mind if she went out with my ex-boyfriend whom I still like. It stunned me so I just didn't know what to say. She is asking me for permission to go out with my ex-boyfriend! What am I supposed to give for an answer?

A. Tell her that you still like him, but that you will get over him eventually — and to go out with him if she wishes to do so.

Dear Roxi:

This guy I'm dating has a habit of talking about his ex-girlfriends. I like him a lot but his choice of conversation leaves something to be desired. What can I do to change the subject?

A. Tell "Don Juan" that it is reassuring to know he is a man of experience but you'd prefer to hear about his thoughts on life, or whatever.

Dear Roxi:

I am dating a boy I like very much and I just found out that we will be attending the same party as his ex-girlfriend, with whom he broke up not long ago. How am I supposed to act when I find myself face-to-face with this girl?

A. Try to act normal and pretend that you are unaware of her previous relationship with the boy you are now dating.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Wednesday, December 13, 1972 The Lincoln Star 15

As the holidays draw nearer, Lincoln residents are looking forward to welcoming out-of-town visitors into their homes for the purpose of sharing Christmas celebrations. And included among the visitors — although we hesitate to call them that — who will be, and have been, arriving, are many sons and daughters who either attend school or are employed away from home.

This morning we'd like to mention a certain young lady who now resides on the east coast — and who will return home in the not-too-distant future to spend the holidays with her parents. The young lady we have reference to is Miss Sally Bloom — the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton E. Bloom — who will arrive in Lincoln on Wednesday, Dec. 20, and who will remain at her parents' home through the New Year's holiday.

We might also mention the fact that Miss Bloom will undoubtedly have many interesting experiences to talk about, due to the fact that she is an administrative assistant and personal secretary to a very important man — Dr. Earl Butz, who, as everyone knows, is the United States Secretary of Agriculture.

"Christmas in Mexico" will be the motif of the dinner-dance being planned by the members of the Fifty-Fifty Club. The festive event will take place on Thursday evening, Dec. 19, at the Elks' Club, with dinner beginning at 6:45 o'clock.

The party — one of several which have transpired during recent weeks, and all of which reflect the dance club's theme, "Around the World in Fourteen Nights and Two Days" — will feature pinatas, luminarios and many other authentic Mexican items.

Serving as chairmen of the planning committee are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dyer; and they are being assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Hawley, Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Mead, Mr. and Mrs. Ket Ketelsen and Mr. and Mrs. Moss West.

Janice Pohlmann Honored At Shower

The cold temperatures of the weekend did not discourage approximately 30 guests from gathering at the home of Miss Judy Fowler, who was hostess for a miscellaneous shower on Sunday evening, Dec. 10, honoring Miss Janice Pohlmann.

Those attending included several sorority sisters of the bride elect, who is affiliated with Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority at the University of Nebraska. The marriage of Miss Pohlmann to Roger Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Moore of Clay Center, will be an event of Friday, Dec. 29.

Standing are Miss Teri

Zabawa and Miss Teri Ickes.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pohlmann of Deshler, the soon-to-be bride is a senior at the university, where she is majoring in English.

Mr. Moore will graduate in December from NU, where he is majoring in pre-law.

LWC Celebrates Fantasy Of Trees

Despite the stormy evening, most of the members of the entire Lincoln Woman's Club participated in the gala Monday evening party.

The theme for the annual event was "A Fantasy of Trees," and the Clubhouse was decorated with beautiful evergreens and other Christmas decorations.

The evening's agenda included group caroling, which was conducted by Dr. Julius Humann, as well as refreshments of holiday baked goods, sandwiches, punch, and coffee.

Holiday Meetings

The members of the Soroptimists Club of Lincoln will gather at the Radisson Cornhusker Hotel on Wednesday, Dec. 13, for a 7 o'clock business meeting.

The meeting will be followed by a Christmas dessert supper at 8 o'clock, and the evening's program will be a Christmas reading to be presented by club president, Mrs. Harold L. Tarr of Bennet.

Those attending the meeting will bring selected holiday-wrapped gifts, which will be distributed by the club members at Christmas parties for the youth and the elderly.

The dessert supper and holiday meeting will take the place of the December dinner meeting.

The 8 o'clock meeting of PEO Chapter FX will be held at the home of Mrs. H. H. Gilman, 5340 Colby, on Wednesday evening, Dec. 13.

Mrs. Lorraine Newburn will be the assisting hostess, and Mrs. F. M. Tuttle will present the Christmas program.

The board members of the Lincoln Community Playhouse Guild will gather at the home of Mrs. Louis Douglas, 720 S. Cotner, for a meeting at 10 o'clock on Friday, Dec. 15.

Most of the organizations around town still are dreaming of their annual Christmas parties — events which often rank among the most festive of the entire year. Many of those parties still are in the planning stages; while many already are a matter of the past, with the members reminiscing about the wonderful time that those occasions offered.

The Lincoln Woman's club had its annual Christmas party at the Clubhouse on Monday evening, Dec. 11 — and that meeting took the place of the group's monthly luncheon gathering. Of course, the various departments within the organization still have holiday festivities planned.

Betrothal

Of interest is the announcement made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Buss of Beatrice of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Carol Ann, to Leo E. Behne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo M. Behne of Brainard.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, Jan. 13, and the ceremony will be solemnized at Trinity Lutheran Church in Lincoln.

Miss Buss was graduated from the Lincoln School of Commerce, and she currently is careering as a legal secretary with the Nebraska Power Review Board.

Mr. Behne is associated with the Mechanical Engineering Cooperative Program with the Caterpillar Company in Aurora, Ill. He plans to attend the University of Nebraska where he previously was a student.

FOOD--raisin cookies for the holidays horizontally, and spread center with filling.

Makes 16 large cookies.

SCANDINAVIAN SNOW BALLS

- 1/2 cup dark seedless raisins
- 1/4 cup golden raisins
- 1 cup bourbon
- 1 cup butter
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 2 cups flour
- 1 cup shredded coconut
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- Instant sweetened cocoa mix

Plump raisins in bourbon for an hour. Drain. Cream together butter and sugar. Add flour, coconut and vanilla. Stir in raisins. Shape dough into 1 1/2" balls and bake at 350 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes. While cookies are still warm, roll them in instant sweetened cocoa mix.

Makes about 4 dozen.

COOKIE STAMP SHORTBREAD

- 1 cup raisins
- 1/4 cup warm rum
- 1 cup butter, softened
- 1/2 cup powdered sugar, sifted
- 2 cups flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon baking powder

Soak raisins in rum for an hour. Drain. Reserve rum for other purposes. Cream butter and sugar together. Sift the flour with the salt and baking powder and add gradually to the creamed mixture. Stir in raisins. Roll the dough out to 1/2" thickness on floured board and cut into 3" rounds with a cookie cutter. Stamp the cookies with decorative cookie stamps and press the edges with the tines of a fork. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 minutes.

Makes about 12 cookies.
(You may use special Scandinavian Stamps for decorating the cookies. Most specialty stores have these stamps, but you also may improvise by imprinting the dough with a piece of cut glass, or use a linoleum block design.)

Homemade, from-the-kitchen Christmas gifts are a delight to all who receive them. But, if it's too late for fruitcakes and there's no time to steam plum puddings, it's nice to know that the wide variety of Christmas cookies are well within your holiday timetable.

There's something special about packing festive cookies away in bright containers to give to special friends and family. There's something even more special about baking them. Youngsters, especially, delight in Christmas cookie baking day.

Baking cookies for the holidays is a tradition in many homes — with the children lending a helping hand to decorate the fresh-from-the-oven morsels.

TIVOLI TRIANGLES

FILLING:

- 1 cup raisins
- 1/2 cup pitted prunes
- 3/4 cup water
- 2 ounces unsweetened chocolate
- 2 ounces brandy, rum or water

COOKIES:

- 3/4 cup sugar

- 1 1/2 cups butter, softened
- 4 cups flour

Simmer raisins and prunes in water for 20 minutes or until most of the water is absorbed and fruit is soft. Add chocolate and stir over low heat until melted. Pour into electric blender. Add brandy, rum or water. Whirl mixture until smooth.

Cream butter and sugar thoroughly. Add flour one cup at a time and mix well. Spread into two greased, eight-inch cake pans and bake at 325 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes. Cool and cut cookies into wedges. Split each cookie

Aid For Weary Feet

Abby: insist that husband see a doctor

BY JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

When you return from a shopping trek, try this exercise to relax tired feet and ankles. Sit on the floor with legs stretched out in front of you, your hands on the floor at your sides. Slowly bend your knees and lift your feet off the floor. Now turn your toes outward, as far as you can. Bring toes together. Repeat 10 times.

The period before Christmas is a happy, but fatiguing time for the woman in the home. In most of the families I know, she is the one who does the Christmas shopping. She is also responsible for planning the food for the festivities and getting all of the essential supplies into the house. There are other duties, such as preparing rooms for arriving members of the family. It is a marvelous time, but it is tiring.

Unless she plans ahead she will find herself too exhausted to enjoy the family to the fullest extent. She will also feel more bedraggled if her hair is unkempt and her grooming under par. There is nothing which gives a woman a bigger lift than having her hair coiffured. I am just warning you to make your appointments ahead for your hairdo and manicure or set aside some time if you do them yourself. I think all women like to look their best when the loved ones gather together.

Also try to get enough sleep during this pre-holiday period. You will be much better able to cope with the hectic activity, and even enjoy it. Give your skin a little extra lubrication during this time, too. It may be dryer than usual because of shopping on cold or windy days and spending so much time in overheated stores.

During any strenuous time, short rest periods are unbelievably refreshing. These do not have to be long. You can spread four 15-minute rest periods over the day and not really miss that hour you invest.

When you return home from a long shopping trip, kick off your shoes and sit with your feet elevated for a short time. If your underpinnings are really giving you trouble, treat them to alternate hot and cold baths before going to sleep at night. Afterwards a massage them with a good body lotion.

These seemingly simple and unimportant little routines will take you through the holiday season much more comfortably and therefore much more gayly.

Have you ever tried exercises for your feet? The Christmas season may be the time you need them most. Josephine Lowman gives you five special exercises in her free leaflet "Take Care of Your Feet!" For your copy, simply send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of the Lincoln Star, 926 P St., Lincoln, Neb. 68508.

Q. Is sleeping on the left side harmful to the heart? Which position is best for sleep?

A. According to doctors, sleeping on your left side cannot be harmful to your heart because both the heart and lungs are held in position by strong fibrous bands. Nobody sleeps in the same position all night long, but changes positions many times during the night. Probably most people sleep best curled up with the knees partly bent, although some prefer to stretch out full length.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday morning a brush salesman rang my bell and I invited him in because I wanted to see his catalog. (I have done business with this company for years, and they always gave me excellent service.)

During dinner, my husband asked me what my day was like and when I told him that I had invited this brush salesman into the house, he hit the roof, yelling and shouting that I was "no good" and had no right to have "other men" in our home while he was at work. He asked me how many other men I had let into the house and he went on and on like a madman. He even swore at me and called me terrible names.

I was so nervous and upset, I slept on the couch last night. My husband was angry and kept coming out, trying to get me to come to bed and have sex with him, but I was so upset. I just wanted to be left alone. Then he accused me of having sex with this brush salesman, and after that I just couldn't bring myself to give in to him.

Abby, I am a good, clean woman. I love the Lord and read my Bible every day. I pray and ask God's help in all I do, but I do not feel that God wants me to live this way. My husband is so jealous he has forbidden me to visit with my neighbors, and he wants no company in our home. I am 34 and he is 49 and we've been married for 10 years. We have no children because he has wanted none.

What shall I do?
ALBUQUERQUE

DEAR TORMENTED: Your husband is a sick man. No rational man behaves this way. Insist that he see a doctor. If he refuses, go to your pastor and tell him your story. There is no reason for you to tolerate such abuse.

DEAR ABBY: I am a bald bachelor who is considering having a hair transplant because I think it will make me more appealing to women. Several of my male friends have told me that baldness is now considered a sign of virility and the baldheaded men get all the girls.

What is your understanding on this subject?
M.K.A.
DEAR M.K.A.: The hairier the man, the more virile he appears, but hair has absolutely nothing to do with a man's sexual performance. There are plenty of men who have a head full of hair—and all they get is dandruff.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 89700, L.A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

South 1♥ West 1♠ North 2♥ East Pass

Opening lead - king of spades.

There are hands where, if the defenders do what can reasonably be expected of them, they can stop what appears to be an ironclad contract.

Consider this deal where South is in four hearts. Looking at all four hands, it would seem that his only losers are two spades and a diamond, but good defense will bring him up short.

West leads the king of spades and it is certainly not difficult for East—who knows from the lead that his partner has the queen—to overtake the king with the ace and return the three.

West wins with the ten and would ordinarily continue to ruff and in that way weaken his trump position. But West can see that passive defense will not succeed. He cannot sensibly expect his partner to show up with two defensive tricks later on to defeat the contract. He can hope for one, perhaps, but not for two.

So West tries to manufacture a trump trick for his side that does not exist naturally. He plays the deuce of spades at trick three, hoping to find his partner with the queen or jack of trumps.

East does not have to be a genius to realize that he is expected to ruff with his highest trump. He observes that West did not lead the queen of spades, a card he is known to have. Accordingly, East cooperates with his partner's defense by ruffing with the jack.

The trump promotion play succeeds admirably. South must inevitably lose a trump trick—regardless of what he does at this point—as well as a diamond trick, and he ultimately goes down one.

Warrant Is Needed To Pump Stomach

Cincinnati — Cincinnati police said Wednesday they had to search a man's stomach to get a search warrant to have Sam Fenderson's stomach pumped.

Vice squad specialists James Simon and Al Hamman said that as they approached Fenderson, 40, in a restaurant he jammed 16 paper packets into his mouth and swallowed them.

Hamman said he grabbed Fenderson by the throat in an attempt to stop the swallowing, but Fenderson struggled and bit the officer.

Hamman's thumb was knocked out of joint, police said.

The officers charged Fenderson with assault and resisting arrest and obtained a search warrant saying they were looking for heroin.

The packets were pumped from Fenderson's stomach and sent to a laboratory for testing. The results will not be available for several days, police said.

Can Stay Warm

Chicago — Dried sausages, such as salami and pepperoni, normally do not need to be refrigerated.

he didn't get sick," said Simon, but added, "I guess the stuff didn't get out of the packets into his stomach."

"And," he said, "we got him right to the hospital." Fenderson later was returned to jail.

Deshler Voters Okay Bond Issue For Fire Station

Lincoln Star Special

Deshler — Voters in this community Tuesday gave approval to a $7,500 bond issue to be used toward the purchase of a building for use as a fire station.

The proposal polled 151 'yes' votes, compared to 51 'no' votes.

Observers said this was a good turnout of voters, considering the bad weather. Deshler received between five and six inches of snow during the day.

The $7,500 figure represents half the amount of the price of the building that is being offered for sale by the Ace Gas Co. for a fire station. The Rural Fire District has agreed to pay the other $7,500.

FARM BUREAU PICKETED

While Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons spoke to members of the American Farm Bureau Federation in Los Angeles Tuesday, pickets from Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers paraded and chanted outside. The Teamsters and the UFW, an AFL-CIO union, are bitter rivals in recruiting farm workers — particularly laborers in the lettuce fields and vineyards.

Thieu's N. Viet POWs Nonpersons To Hanoi

By HUGH A. MILLIGAN
Saigon (AP) — The 1,016 North Vietnamese prisoners President Nguyen Van Thieu plans to release unconditionally as "a gesture of utmost good will" are nonpersons in Hanoi's eyes.

They never receive any letters or packages from the North.

For Hanoi to accept their mail or send any down would mean accepting the fact that North Vietnamese armies are in the South, which the Communists have consistently refused to do.

So the prisoners spend the long, silent days on Phu Quoc Island, nonpersons in faded maroon fatigues with the letters T.B. for Tu Binh or prisoner of war stenciled on the backs.

In an emotional speech to the South Vietnamese National Assembly, Thieu proposed releasing all prisoners of war held by both sides before Christmas. In the first days of his proclaimed Christmas cease-fire, Thieu said, he would unconditionally release 1,105 North Vietnamese prisoners.

Sources close to the administration of the island prison, where 9,800 North Vietnamese and 21,200 Viet Cong prisoners are held, said the internees have been undergoing "sifting, selecting and grouping" preparatory to a mass release.

Phu Quoc Island, in the Gulf of Siam 40 miles off the coast, holds all the North Vietnamese prisoners except for 800 sick and wounded kept in a hospital-prison at Bien Hoa and another 40 to 50 transferred red to Con Son Island, the old French "Second Devil's Island," for committing crimes against fellow prisoners.

The Thieu government has given considerable thought to repatriating the prisoners from the North.

"This time," said a source, "if the government can help it, the prisoners will not be asked by the International Committee of the Red Cross whether they want to go back or not. The GVN (government of Vietnam) would look with grave suspicion on any North Vietnamese prisoners who wanted to stay down South at this late stage."

The most recent of numerous POW return efforts of the war was in June 1971 when Thieu offered to release 660 wounded prisoners to Hanoi. All but 13 refused to go home when interviewed by the Red Cross, and the scheme fell through when the North Vietnamese ignored an offshore rendezvous to pick them up.

Removing large numbers of prisoners from Phu Quoc presents a difficult logistical problem.

The island has no deep harbor, so a seafit would entail use of junks, and lighters before a larger craft commences the four- to five-day voyage to Haiphong the North Vietnamese port. Its airfield can take cargo planes like C130s but not the large military and commercial jets.

Soaring Wheat Prices, Plus Payments, Topple $$ Mark

Washington (AP) — Soaring wheat prices this year, plus government payments, have made the crop worth a record $3.4 billion, shattering the old mark of $3.1 billion set 25 years ago.

The Agriculture Department, in a year-end crop report Tuesday, said 1972 wheat production totaled 1.54 billion bushels and was worth an average of $2.23 per bushel, including subsidies, to farmers.

Corn and soybeans were not reported. New production estimates for those crops and their values will be issued January 15.

Last year, when the wheat crop was a record of more than 1.6 billion bushels the "farm value" including payments was $1.89 per bushel for a total of about $3.05 billion.

Wheat prices began rising last summer as it became known the Soviet Union was buying more than 400 million bushels, one-fourth of this year's crop. By November the price rose to $1.97 per bushel, the highest in a decade, from $1.32 last summer.

The Crop Reporting Board said yields of all wheat averaged 32.7 bushels per acre, compared with 33.8 last year.

When government payments to farmers are excluded, the 1972 wheat crop was worth $1.67 per bushel for a total of $2.57 billion, the report said.

Last year, excluding payments, the average was $1.34 per bushel and a gross of $2.16 billion.

In 1947, the previous top year for wheat crop value, the average price was $2.29 per bushel but production was smaller. At that time the government's wheat price support loan rate was $1.84 per bushel and there were no direct supplemental subsidies.

The current program includes a support loan rate of $1.25 per bushel plus direct payments to farmers who agree to take part of their land from production.

Looking ahead to next year, officials said the fall-planted crop of winter wheat for harvest in 1973 was off to a good start as of Dec. 1.

There was no production estimate for 1973 winter wheat, produced mainly in the Great Plains, is the most abundant type.

Other small grain production figures in the December report included: Oats 471,150,000 bushels in 1972 and 546,113,000 in 1971; Barley 463,319,000 and 458,802,000; and Rye 28,157,000 and 44,914,000.

Nebraska's '72 Wheat Crop Down 8% From Last Year

By the Associated Press

Nebraska's snow-bound agricultural industry received another bit of bad news Tuesday when the Agriculture Department said the state's 1972 wheat crop was down 8% from a year ago.

At the same time, a trio of minor crops in Nebraska were all under 1971 production figures, including rye, oats, and barley.

The figures released by the Department of Agriculture included no predictions on the corn or sorghum harvest. Both those crops had been headed for record totals, but late harvesting has been held up by snowstorms. Final figures won't be released until next month.

Final yield for the wheat crop, most of which was harvested last summer, was 37 bushels per acre with a total production of 94,572,000 bushels.

The figure was 8% under the 1971 output largely because the yield fell off five bushels from the 42 per acre harvested a year ago, government crop observers said.

No predictions were made on the winter wheat crop currently in the ground. First estimates of the crop will be made Dec. 22.

For the three minor crops, oats yield 49 bushels per acre and 19,698,000 bushels total production, down 25% from last year; barley yielded 34 bushels and a total production of 1,282,000, down 23%; and rye yielded 24 bushels per acre with total production of 1,800,000 Down 69% from a year ago.

Mills Planned

Omaha (UPI) — Conagara, Inc. will build three new flour mills to be put in operation by next June at Martins Creek, Pa., Hudson, N.Y., and New Orleans. The three will bring to 21 the number of Conagara flour mills.

Charges Filed Against Omahan Shot In Store

Omaha (AP) — A man shot by a store owner last week has been charged with attempted robbery and ordered held in jail on $20,000 bond.

Police identified him as Clifford Stewart, 20, who was released from University Hospital shortly before his court appearance before Municipal Court Judge Theodore Carlson Monday.

Stewart and two other men have been accused of the attempted robbery of the Stop and Shop Grocery in which store owner Norman Plotkin, 35, also was wounded.

The other suspects, Burley Coleman, 19, and Harold Bell, 28, were charged with the same offense Monday and Carlson set bonds at $3,000.

All were charged with assault with intent to commit robbery and entering a building with intent to commit a felony, Deputy County Atty. Joseph Troia said.

Plotkin was listed in good condition at Immanuel Hospital Tuesday.

Bell's sister, Rochelle, 20, who was booked in the same case, was released without charges over the weekend, police said.

Police said they are looking for two other suspects.

Wheat Queen Allergic To It

Richland, Wash. (AP) — Becky Alexander, a 17-year-old senior at Reardon, Wash., High School, has taken over as the 1973 Washington Wheat Queen even though she's allergic to wheat.

Miss Alexander was crowned at the annual convention of the Washington Association of Wheat Growers meeting in Richland.

Wilderness Area Proposal Draws Opposition

Valentine (AP) — Approximately a dozen local organizations appeared at an Interior Department public hearing Tuesday to oppose creation of wilderness areas between Valentine and Oshkosh.

The department is gathering evidence on a proposal to classify 16,317 acres inside the Valentine National Wildlife Refuge in Cherry County as a national wilderness.

The proposal for the wilderness area was presented by Forrest A. Carpenter, Regional Refuge Supervisor for the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife from the bureau's regional office in Minneapolis, Minn.

Local organizations which offered opposition to the plan included the Valentine Rotary Club, Valentine Economic Development Committee, the Sand Hills Sportsman's Club, Valentine Fire Department and several others.

The thrust of the opposition statements was that the area does not lend itself to growth as a wilderness area, and that if not properly managed would not attract animals and would become little more than a fire hazard.

A statement was read by Charles Reese Jr., on behalf of first Refuge Manager, Dr. Warren Sharp. Sharp managed the refuge in 1936. He conducted a study that contends the refuge would not be an effective wilderness area.

State Sen. Otto Kime of Valentine read a resolution which opposed the wilderness area. Kime introduced the resolution into the Legislature last January.

Hearings were scheduled to continue through Wednesday, it was reported.

A second hearing was scheduled for Thursday at Oshkosh on the proposed 24,502-acre area on the Crescent Lake National Wildlife Refuge.

Urging creation of both areas are eight groups, including the Nebraska Wildlife

Society, the Fontenelle Forest Nature Center, the Quality Environment Council, the Wilderness Society, the National Audubon Society, the Sierra Club, the Friends of the Earth and the Associated Students of the University of Nebraska Environmental Task Force.

Escapace Accused Of Kidnaping Two Omaha Policemen Captured In N.Y.

Omaha (AP) — An escapee from the Nebraska Penal Complex accused of kidnaping two Omaha policemen in September has been captured in Middletown, N.Y., Omaha police said Tuesday.

Sylvester Marsh, 24, of Omaha, is held in Middletown. He is charged with kidnaping Patrolmen John Griger, 42, and Tom Gorgen, 22.

Police said Marsh is accused of kidnaping the officers at gunpoint Sept. 23 after they received a radio call to investigate a property damage collision.

The officers said Marsh forced them to turn over their guns, then, after driving around the city for an hour, handcuffed them to a fire escape.

He drove off in the cruiser. He later wrecked it and abandoned it, fleeing on foot, police said.

Earlier the same day, Marsh walked away from a prison dairy farm, police said. He had served four years of an eight-year term for burglary.

Bond Issue Nixed

Iowa City, Iowa (UPI) — A $600,000 bond issue to construct swimming pools in the two public schools in Iowa City was rejected by voters by nearly a 3-1 margin here.

Orange Bowl Float To Be Tribute To Devaney

Wednesday, December 13, 1972 The Lincoln Star 23

This is a drawing of Nebraska's float in the 1972 Orange Bowl Parade, which has been designed as a tribute to Bob Devaney. The float will utilize a red and white color scheme featuring two rotating signs with large pictures of Coach Devaney. Several individuals dressed in Cornhusker football uniforms will be on the float along with others in Cornhusker Yell Squad Uniforms and Members of Corn Cobs, University of Nebraska pep organization, and the Nebraska Association of Commerce and Industry are in charge of the drive to raise $10,000 for the float.

Order To Recognize Education Employees Group Appealed By State

By The Associated Press The Nebraska Supreme Court Tuesday was asked to overturn a ruling of the State Court of Industrial Relations which ordered the State Education Department employees to recognize the Council of Educational Leaders as a labor representative of Education Department employees. The Court of Industrial Relations has no authority to make a binding order on the State Education Department or

Board of Education because the board is a constitutional body subject only to the restrictions of the State Constitution, the high court was told in a brief by Asst. Atty. Gen. Harold Mosher. Furthermore, the council cannot engage in any type of activity because it did not file a required statement with the secretary of state, Mosher contended.

The council has brought suit against the Education Department, asking that the department and the Board of Education be required to recognize the council for collective bargaining purposes. Mosher also told the high court that the Court of Industrial Relations did not file its rules and procedures as required by the State Administrative Procedures Act.

Israel Exports Flowers

Tel Aviv — Israel's exports of flowers this year are expected to reach $10 million in the 1964-65 growing season they amounted to less than $100,000.

No Shortage Of Food Seen With Land Loss

Washington (UPI) — Farmers will have no difficulty meeting the nation's needs for food and fiber in the year 2000, despite the predicted takeover of some 34 million acres of U.S. farmland for other uses, the Agriculture Department has forecast.

According to the agency's Economic Research Service (ERS), nearly one billion acres of land in the 48 mainland states are now used mostly for crops and livestock.

By the year 2000, some 22 million acres will be taken for urban expansion including highways and airports, another 7 million will go to recreation and wildlife areas, and about 5 million acres for varied uses including defense installations, "second home" communities, reservoirs and strip mining.

But there is no need to worry, the experts said, because the land which will remain will be ample to feed and clothe the projected U.S. population of 308 million.

Gas Price Position Is Taken

By New York Times

Washington — The Federal Power Commission in a unanimous decision, said Tuesday that it does not want to raise ceiling prices for natural gas already flowing to the interstate market nor does it want to impose a ceiling on new gas supplies.

This position appeared to parallel a major policy change under consideration within the Nixon administration in which Congress would be asked to end regulation of natural gas prices, if only for new supplies.

Without going into detail, Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton confirmed that deregulation was being considered as a stimulus to "natural gas exploration and development."

The commission took a step toward deregulation in August when it adopted its "optional pricing" rule. Under the rule, producers and pipelines may negotiate prices for new gas being committed to the interstate market, without reference to existing area ceiling but subjects to FPC review case by case.

The FPC has no authority over intrastate gas sales, where prices are higher.

Optional pricing was meant to divert new supplies to the interstate market and also to stimulate exploration. The commission hinted that it would like to make a major change in the way it regulates prices for old gas — from the present cost-of-services method, which the industry alleges leads to unduly low prices, to what the commission Tuesday called "recognition of the commodity value of gas."

That means raising the price of gas so that it approaches equivalent prices for other fuels, notably oil and coal, which are unregulated.

The commission said that before plunging into a commodity-value rule-making proceeding it would wait for "the guidance of reviewing courts" that are hearing challenges to FPC area ceilings.

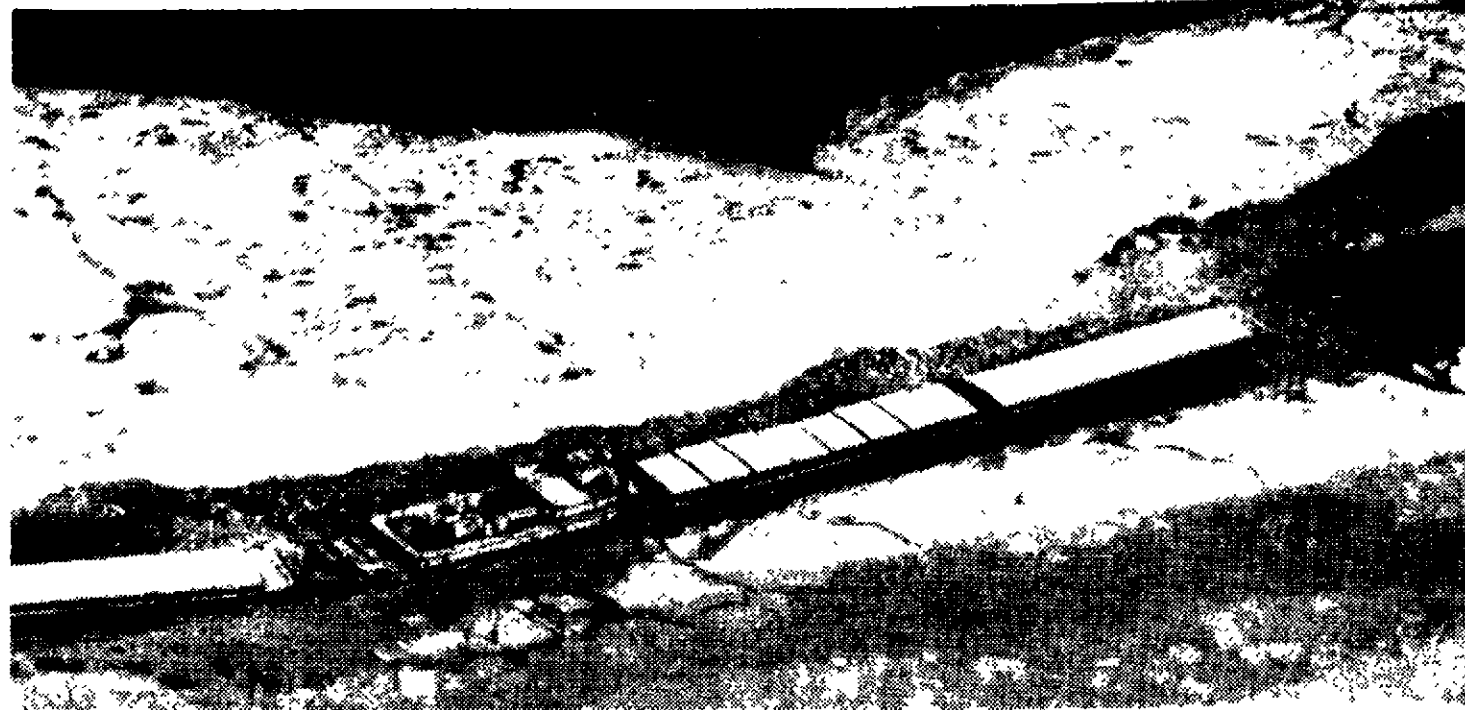

In an opinion by Commissioner Rush Moody Jr., four sitting members of the FPC denied an application by four pipeline companies serving the Northeast and Midwest for a higher ceiling price on gas being produced in the Appalachian basin. It includes West Virginia, Ohio, western parts of Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New York, eastern Kentucky and the offshore areas on Lakes Erie and Ontario.

The four companies were Columbia Gas, Iroquois Gas, Pennsylvania Gas and United Natural Gas. They proposed a ceiling of 50 cents a thousand cubic feet for gas sold under contracts dated on or after Feb. 1, 1972. The commission, in October 1970, fixed ceiling rates ranging from 29 to 32.75 cents.

The system of fixing different ceilings for contracts entered before or after a certain date called "vintaging" and has led to multiple prices in some producing areas.

The commission expressed doubt that "unyielding adherence to the vintaging concept" assures adequate gas supplies. "We are even more sure that expansion of the concept is unwise," it added.

Nor do we believe that the natural gas shortage will be alleviated by a new round of area rate proceedings, of which a Appalachia-Illinois would be only the first," the opinion continued.

TOWBOAT RACES AGAINST TIME

In a race against time and cold to get the barges downstream before they are caught for the winter in ice, a tow-

Challenger To Staley Proposing A Debate

Kansas City (AP) — Don Kimball of Amarillo, Tex., the key challenger to President Oren Lee Staley at the National Farmers Organization convention here, proposed Tuesday he and Staley meet in debate on the convention floor.

Staley, who learned of the challenge during an interview, said he would have no comment on the proposed debate. He indicated Kimball, one of six NFO directors purged from the board last summer, might not be recognized as a member when the convention begins Wednesday — and therefore would be ineligible as a candidate for NFO president.

Staley said challenges to his position were initiated by those directors forced from the board. He described them as a "group of ex-employees who didn't have a very good track record in the NFO" and their proposals for amendments to the bylaws as "a vicious smear tactic," against him.

At another hotel where the "72 Convention Committee" — a group of dissidents bent on ousting Staley — stationed itself, Kimball drew cheers from a crowded conference hall when he declared:

"We have organized from coast to coast in heavy-producing areas... organizing is over... it's time to use the strength you have for what you started — equity in the market. This appeals to me much more than a constant purge of those who are a threat to the national leadership."

Kimball called for "a national statistical system" in the NFO which for 17 years has maintained secrecy about its membership and financial resources.

The challenge to debate came late in a day that saw anti-Staley forces lobbying tirelessly and suffering major setbacks in the bylaws committed hearings.

Trans-Alaska Oil Pipeline To Alter Economy, Life Style

Washington (AP) — "A potential major perturbation on the economy and life style" of Alaska could result from construction of the trans-Alaska oil pipeline, says a study prepared for the consortium which is planning the pipeline.

The study, conducted for Alyeska by Mathematical Sciences Northwest, Inc., of Seattle, concluded that construction of the $3-billion pipeline would cause steeply increased needs for housing, schools, medical care, police and fire protection and other services.

Alaskan natives hired to work on the project may have a hard time readjusting to a more gregarious life and locally hired construction workers in general may encounter stiff competition for new jobs once construction is completed, the report said.

Anchorage, Barrow, Fairbanks, Valdez and the Fairbanks-Valdez corridor would feel the impacts most strongly, it said.

Here are highlights of the study issued Tuesday by Alyeska:

— Pipeline construction would speed up Alaskan growth, reaching economic and population levels two to three years sooner than otherwise. "For example, at peak impact 1975, total employment is expected to be about 15% higher 18,000 jobs than it would have been without the project. Following this peak, growth in employment will be very slow until it resumes its normal long-term pattern in approximately 1978."

— "50% of the total peak differential increase in the trade and service sectors is expected to occur (in Anchorage)."

— "The Valdez region will experience a doubling of employment levels, and impacts on medical, school and housing supplies will be significant."

— "Peak (1975) population impact is projected at 40,000 on a statewide basis... Housing shortages will occur, and the use of mobile homes will be required."

— "An increase in 'victimless crime' e.g., prostitution, gambling, con games, etc., can be expected in the Valdez-Fairbanks corridor, resulting in a demand for additional police services."

— "Double shifting of classrooms and teachers will be required in the Valdez area."

— "At the peak of the construction period, unemployment is projected to be increased 2,700 or 21% over expectations if, the pipeline were not built."

— "After construction, 'native Alaskan hires of Alyeska will presumably return to their villages trained in construction trades and converted to a cash-economy philosophy and may have problems adjusting."

— "After construction, 'native Alaskan hires of Alyeska will presumably return to their villages trained in construction trades and converted to a cash-economy philosophy and may have problems adjusting."

Edward Shafon attorney for the club which has a restaurant and bar on the top floor of the First National Bank building requested exemption.

Shafon said "income and net earnings of the club are used for charitable purposes and for that reason it should be exempt." The club awards scholarships each year.

Deputy County Atty. Harold Zabin said the property itself is not used for charitable purposes and can't be exempted.

Rocky Loses Interest For Day—$13,600

Albany, N.Y. (AP) — The state government had every intention of cashing its $97-million, first-installment, revenue-sharing check when it arrived from Washington Monday.

But, state aides related Tuesday, it was not that simple.

The check was made payable to multimillionaire Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. And he was in Binghamton, 140 miles to the southwest, and his endorsement was needed to get it in the bank and drawing the interest, about $13,600 a day.

State troopers took the check from the capitol to an airport and then boarded a state police helicopter for Binghamton.

At Binghamton the check was passed to Rockefeller's bodyguard, police Maj. Donald Guiry.

Rockefeller was in the middle of a debate with students when Guiry thrust the check in front of him. The governor endorsed it quickly.

Back to Albany came the check. But it was too late. It was 5 p.m., and the state's bank was closed for the day.

Press Club's Bid For Tax Break Is Opposed

Omaha (AP) — The Douglas County Board was told by the county attorney's office Tuesday the Omaha Press Club should not be granted a personal property tax exemption.

Edward Shafon attorney for the club which has a restaurant and bar on the top floor of the First National Bank building requested exemption.

Shafon said "income and net earnings of the club are used for charitable purposes and for that reason it should be exempt." The club awards scholarships each year.

Deputy County Atty. Harold Zabin said the property itself is not used for charitable purposes and can't be exempted.

I took my kids ice skating Sunday afternoon at 14th and Lake and found the surface of the pond there to be very irregular. Can't the city properly maintain these skating spots?

—J.H. Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Heber Cords, assistant to the director of parks, says that the ponds are checked every afternoon and resprayed when necessary. The problem at 14th and Lake where the pond is very shallow is that the ice freezes clear to the bottom and cracks, he says, making a choppy surface.

The pond has been sprayed to even up the surface. Cords is the man to contact with problems of this nature.

On Oct. 22 four Lincoln secretaries were attending the National Secretaries Conference in Honolulu. We took advantage of an opportunity to have some pineapples shipped home, we thought, on our Continental plane tickets. We paid $27 cash to a fellow who said the fruit would be at the Lincoln airport when we returned. To date no pineapples, no refunds, no answers. Help.

—Ina Smith, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Mark Kippen, the young man whom you paid, says that the pineapple deal fell through. He told ACTION LINE when our afternoon call reached him at 9:30 a.m. in Honolulu that he had the orders spread out on the sunny floor of his sunny apartment and he would be dropping refunds in the mail this week.

Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR) clients who take the bus to the vocational center mornings are riding on a poorly heated minibus. Parents' calls to the Lincoln Transportation System (LTS) have brought no results. Must this go on?

—K.J., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: LTS manager Gerald Rae says that the LOMR bus was not unique. Each of the city's four minibuses was having some heating trouble.

He reports that new motors and radiator covers have been installed in the heater systems of the no-longer-new vehicles.

Last March I ordered three wigs by mail from Prudential Industries in Oklahoma City, Okla. I included an extra $1 for 24-hour shipping service.

When one of the wigs finally arrived some weeks later, I didn't like it at all and returned it. The next two I returned unopened. I wanted my money back but Prudential sent three more wigs which I returned.

Can you get my money back?

—M.C., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Allen Schuminsky at Prudential doesn't understand. He thought you would love the wigs, especially the second group. But he will refund your money. You should have it by the end of the week, he says.

In Council Bluffs, Iowa, there is a grocery store where you can pay all your utility bills with one check. It saves time and money. Why couldn't Lincoln have such an outlet?

—Sandra K. Sipp, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Representatives of most of Lincoln's utilities seem generally willing to consider such facilities if people and/or businesses show them they're wanted. The setup is quite a bit of work for the business that hosts it but in Council Bluffs they say it pays for itself in increased customer traffic.

The phone company is rather skittish about the idea since they already have six locations besides their own office where you can pay. Indeed most executives pointed out the variety of methods now available for payment, ranging from walk-up and drive-up facilities to banking account transfers.

There has been some talk that a common collection spot could be included in development of the Kresge block on O Street.

I have a paid-up subscription to Life magazine until April, 1974. Now I hear the magazine will not be published anymore. How can I get a refund?

—F.T., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Louise Fields with Time-Life Inc., says that no policy has yet been set on subscriptions like yours. She says the announcement Dec. 7 that the magazine would end Dec. 29 was a surprise to many and apparently lots of problems are yet to be resolved. You may be given a choice of switching your subscription to another magazine or may get a cash refund.

She says a letter will be sent to every Life subscriber late this week. She asks that subscribers be patient with Life but if you haven't heard anything by Christmas write to Life Magazine, 541 No. Fairbanks Ct., Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Today's Waste May Become Tomorrow's House Or Road

Cleveland, Ohio (AP) — What is waste today may become tomorrow's homes and highways or fuels and fertilizers, environmental spokesmen in industry and research centers say.

Cars may run on alcohol or hydrogen-related fuels. Bricks may be made of sulphur.

Some changes will be new ways to make familiar articles; some will be new products, such as a smokeless incinerator.

Some "products" may be new ways to handle current environmental problems, ways devised by one company for its own solutions and then sold to other businesses.

And some may be combinations, such as converting toxic sludge wastes into a gray powder chemically locked against release of the toxic materials, and then using the powder for landfills.

Already In Use

Many of these examples already are here, in use, even making money in commercial markets.

PPG Industries, Inc., of Pittsburgh, tells of running into an environmental problem requiring alternatives for landfill disposal of some waste sludges. Burning seemed to be the best answer, but PPG found no suitable commercial incinerator.

So it built its own — one which is "smokeless and noiseless, and is self-fueling; once ignited," says James T. Destefano of PPG.

The Franklin Institute of Philadelphia is exploring the possibility of turning municipal wastes into road construction material, using Cleveland trash for the test.

Wastes Into Powder

Chemix Division of Environmental Sciences, Inc., of Pittsburgh, is converting wastes into a powder, which then is used as intermediate cover in landfills. PPG converted an old wastes lagoon into a city park.

Fly ash, a fine residue from burning coal, has become so widely used in new and revised ways, along with boiling slag and bottom ash, that "it is now reasonable to view these as engineering materials, not merely as solid wastes," a Texas researcher says. Ralph E. Gildchrist of Southwest Research Institute of San Antonio, Tex., says about 20% of the utility industry's ashes were used beneficially in 1971.

Leonard S. Wegman, president of Consulting Environmental Engineers of New York City, says a pure oxygen furnace developed by Union Carbide Co., produces small amounts of slag, some oil and much usable gas.

There are several plans for recovering heat from burning refuse, using it to produce steam for electricity generation and a variety of commercial applications. Cleveland Akron are considering doing so.

Japan already is filling its need for sulphur by removing it from oil, a spokesman for the island nation says, and its sulphur mines virtually have closed, those workers going into coal production.

Defense Post To W. Clements

(c) Washington Star-News
Washington — President Nixon Tuesday named William P. Clements Jr., a Texas oil-drilling company executive, to be a deputy secretary of defense. The appointment had been expected.

The White House press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said Clements has had a "highly successful business career" and the President believes his executive talents will "make him a valuable member of the new team at the Defense Department."

Clements, 55, founder and chairman of the board of Sedco Corp., was named to succeed Kenneth B. Rush, who earlier was named by Nixon to be deputy secretary of state.

Was Predicted
Clements' selection had been predicted by the Star-News after secretary of health, education and welfare, Elliott L. Richardson, was appointed to be the new secretary of Laird.
A shakeup in the Department of Agriculture at the level of assistant secretary was also announced by Nixon Tuesday.
Ziegler said the President had decided to retain Under Secretary J. Phil Campbell in that position in the Agriculture Department. The decision to keep Earl L. Butz as secretary of Agriculture in Nixon's second term had been announced last week.

Changes Outlined
Changes at the assistant secretary level in Agriculture, announced Tuesday, involved

Richard Lyng, assistant secretary for marketing and consumer services will be leaving that position. He has been offered another post in the department.

Thomas K. Crowden will leave the post of assistant secretary for rural development and conservation, but will move into another position in the department.

General Counsel Edward J. Shulman plans to retire.
James V. Smith, administrator of the Farmers Home Administration, will return to private life. This was said to be his desire.

Danes Believe Sub Operating Near Greenland

Copenhagen, Denmark (AP) — The Danish Defense Ministry said Tuesday an unidentified submarine is believed to be operating deep inside west Greenland's fjords under cover of the long polar night.

The report, coming on the heels of a protracted, fruitless hunt last month for an unidentified foreign submarine in a Norwegian fjord, was based on observations by Greenland fishermen in the Disko Bay area Dec. 7 and 9. The bay is on the west coast.

Brokerage Firm Penalized For Penn Central Dealings

Washington (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission Tuesday ordered a Philadelphia brokerage firm penalized in connection with its activities involving sale of stock of the Penn Central Co.

Sanctions were ordered on Butcher & Sherrard and six of the firm's partners.

The SEC said that the company had agreed to set up an escrow fund of $350,000 which will be used to help pay customers of the firm for their losses in transactions of Penn Central stock.

The SEC said that the brokerage house and five of the six partners violated anti-trust provisions of federal securities laws in connection with the sale of Penn Central common stock. The railroad went into receivership in mid-1970.

According to the SEC, Butcher & Sherrard induced its customers to buy Penn Central common stock in the basis of its investment judgment and recommendation until the end of May, 1970.

Recommendation Changed
But, the SEC said, the firm changed this recommendation in May 1970, advising sale instead of purchase. The commission said that the change in investment advice was communicated only "on a selected basis to certain preferred customers, and not to others who still held shares of the stock which they had purchased on the firm's recommendation."

In addition, it said, from 1969 to about July 1970, the firm of the six partners made misstatements about the circumstances as well as the financial condition, earnings and prospects, of Penn Central, the merits of its stock as an investment, and an expected price rise on the stock.

The five partners named were Howard Butcher III, McBee Butcher, W. W. Keen Butcher, Edward P. Dromley Jr. and Jos McAttee.

The sixth partner, John Richter, was found responsible for a failure of supervision in connection with the alleged misconduct.

Settlement offer
The commission issued the penalties as the result of a settlement offer. The firm consented to the findings and sanctions without admitting or denying the allegations.

The SEC suspended activities of the firm's retail sales department, with certain ex-

Four Teachers Are Dismissed

Cleveland (UPI) — Four teachers at St. Ignace High School have been fired for refusing to enforce the school's hair code.

Edward Flint, Thomas Lenhardt, Robert Buchta and Gary Wright did not report for classes Monday and Principal Paul Siegfried said they were dismissed.

The hair code forbids students to wear hair over the top of the collar or into their eyes.

ceptions, for 10 business days, beginning next Jan. 8.

Howard Butcher III, the firm's senior partner, was suspended from associating with any registered broker-dealer, registered investment adviser and registered investment company for 20 business days beginning Jan. 11. He was also excluded from participating in the firm's profits for a total of 40 days.

Similar penalties were meted out against McBee Butcher who received a 25-day suspension; McAttee, 25 days; W. W. Keen Butcher, 20 days; Bromley 10 days and Richter 10 days.

The $350,000 escrow fund is to be paid out according to a plan outlined by the commission. But distribution of the money would be supervised by a federal court in Pennsylvania, where a civil suit against the firm is pending.

Penn Central Asks Delay On Pay Hikes

Philadelphia (AP) — Trustees of Penn Central Transportation Co. Tuesday asked for court permission to delay paying raises to some 44,600 employees.

The raises are scheduled to take effect Jan. 1, but the bankrupt Penn Central Railroad wants to delay their effective date until April 1, to achieve some $51 million in savings and help the railroad survive what is expected to be a difficult first quarter of 1973.

In their statement to Judge John P. Fullam of U.S. District Court, the trustees said that if weather and other "variable factors" turn bad during the first quarter, "The prospect of a cessation of operations exists."

The trustees also petitioned the court for authority to comply with 27 labor agreements calling for $61.1 million in increased wages in 1973 and $70.3 million in 1974.

All wage increases due April 1, 1973, or afterwards would be paid on schedule, and payment of the deferred increases would begin then, the trustees proposed.

Judge Fullam, who is overseeing the railroad's reorganization under federal bankruptcy laws, set a hearing on the petition for Dec. 27.

The 44,600 employees who would be affected by the proposed deferment of raises are represented by six unions and compose about 59% of the Penn Central's total unionized work force.

The six unions are the Brotherhood of Railway Airline and Steamship Clerks; Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; United Transportation Union; International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots; and two segments of the American Railway Supervisors Association.

Australia To Loosen British Ties

(c) The New York Times

Sydney, Australia — The new Labor Party government of Australia disclosed plans Tuesday to loosen the country's sentimental links with Britain.

John Armstrong, a veteran Labor Party politician, declared Tuesday after his appointment as the new Australian envoy to Britain, that Australia was "certain" to become a republic, ending the monarchical role of the British sovereign here.

Speaking over the government's television network, Armstrong, a 64-year-old former senator and lord mayor of Sydney, declared that a new Australian flag and national anthem, diminishing the traditional British connection, "have got to come."

Prime Minister Gough Whitlam has stated that he favors the adoption of a new national anthem to replace "God Save the Queen." Many older Australians of British descent oppose a change, but most young people either want the change or are indifferent.

Armstrong Appointed
Armstrong was appointed high commissioner to London, the equivalent of an ambassador.

Speaking of relations between Britain and Australia, which the British settled as a penal colony in 1788, Armstrong said, "we are a big boy now. We are growing up."

Asked if he thought Australia would eventually become a republic like India and other members of the British Commonwealth that no longer acknowledge the queen as their sovereign, Armstrong declared that "nothing is more certain."

Armstrong added that, following his country's recent estrangement with Britain over the latter's entry into the European Common Market, a move that endangered Australian advantages in commerce and immigration with Britain, the two countries will now "enter a period of coming together again," though on a new basis.

'Good Progress'

Whitlam said at a news conference in Canberra that talks in Paris on the establishment of diplomatic relations between Canberra and Peking had made "good progress."

The Australian approach to Peking was one of Whitlam's first official acts following his victory in the national elections on Dec. 2, which put the Labor Party in power for the first time in 23 years.

Whitlam has recalled the Australian ambassador to the Nationalist Chinese government in Taiwan — an obvious preliminary to a severing of ties with the Taipei government, a prerequisite for diplomatic relations with Peking.

Whitlam was reported to have chosen a Chinese-speaking academic, Dr. Stephen Fitzgerald, 34, of the Australian National University, Canberra, as the first Australian ambassador to Peking.

Xerox Is Charged With Monopolizing

(c) Washington Star-News
Washington — The Federal Trade Commission announced Tuesday a long-expected complaint charging the giant Xerox Corp. with a monopoly of the $1.7 billion-a-year office copying industry.

In a proposed consent order, the FTC said that Xerox had monopolized the industry by engaging in unfair marketing and patent practices.

In addition, the complaint said, Xerox had prohibited foreign affiliates of the Rank Organization in England from competing with it in the United States.

Unrestricted Licensing
As a proposed remedy, the FTC wants to require unrestricted licensing of Xerox patents on copiers obtained during the "20 years following the date of the FTC order."

Mandatory, royalty-free, unrestricted licensing of all existing office patents would also be required.

Xerox would be directed to teach its licensees how to operate its licensed patented machines.

The company covers about 60% of the office copier market and approximately 86% of revenues from the lease and sale of machines in the total market.

Divestiture
Under the proposed FTC order, it would be required to divest itself of the stock of Rank Xerox Ltd. and would be prohibited from restricting Rank Xerox Ltd. from selling or distributing copiers in the United States.

In the complaint, the FTC alleges that Xerox has monopoly power and has used the power to inhibit competition in the office copier market and the plain paper submarket that serves it.

It has restricted competition through a leasing policy that discourages the sale of office copiers and in some cases, results in refusal to sell the machine, the complaint says.

In addition, Xerox has discriminated in price among customers and has successfully monopolized some patents on office copiers and attempted to monopolize others, the FTC said.

'Throw-Away Economy' Leaves Few Unaffected

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

Disposable diapers and baby bottles. No-repair watches and paper clothes for one-time wear. Planned obsolescence in cars and irreplaceable parts in appliances.

It would appear that America is immersed in a "throw-away" economy and few are unaffected by this rising phenomenon.

As modern technology and assembly-line mass production bring the prices of household appliances into line with the average worker's budget, the cost of repair — which is done by hand — remains relatively high.

In fact, in some cases, the cost of repair may be greater than the original purchase price of an item.

New One Cheaper

For example, when the motor burned out on his $30 electric shoe-polisher, one Lincolnite learned that it would cost $25 to repair. A quick call to the store revealed that the same polisher was now on the market for $20. His choice of action was obvious.

Another area resident who was told that it would cost $7 to repair an electric clock that cost only half that when purchased, was content with a home-repair job and a still inoperable second hand.

A faulty non-detachable, non-repairable electric cord on a $7 camera flash attachment forced another Lincolnite to buy an updated model featuring a detachable, repairable cord for only one dollar more than his old model.

From electric fans to electric can-openers, people's reactions to breakdown of these items are much the same.

Transistorized equipment, especially radios, are more often found in a wastebasket than in a repair shop when something goes wrong with them. As one dealer put it, who wants to spend $10 to repair a $20 radio bought five years ago when an updated model can be bought for several dollars less today?

Watch Repair

One trade especially affected by the throw-away trend is the watch repair business.

A leading downtown jeweler reported that the throwaway type of watch is almost as inexpensive as the cost of repairing it.

For example, a $10.95 watch may cost $10 to service. Many would prefer to spend the bit extra on a watch style currently in fashion rather than pay to have the old one repaired.

The average person thinks twice about getting a watch repaired, remarked this same jeweler.

On the other hand, he continued, those with money still buy prestige watches and have them repaired no matter what the cost.

Fewer and fewer people are going into the watch-making trade, continued the jeweler, who noted that only one trade school is left in the United States.

Older Ones Better?

Another Lincoln jeweler believes older watches are made of better material and are put together with more care. He advises repairing these older watches whose quality it is hard to duplicate today.

Commenting on cheap watches, this jeweler feels that many watch-repairmen don't want to spend the time and effort in repairing an inexpensive watch when they can sell a comparable new one to a customer.

A similar problem arises in many circumstances when the repairman is a salesman as well.

Recently a local woman with a broken washing machine called a repairman chosen from the yellow pages of the telephone book to take a look at her machine. After she described the appliance's malfunction over the telephone, she was informed that her machine could not be repaired. Instead the repairman offered to sell her a brand new one.

A hasty call to another repairman led to a minor adjustment on the machine's agitator, a $12 service fee and an appliance in perfect running order. Had she not made a second call, this woman might have spent several hundred dollars for little reason.

Repair Costs Items

People are less willing to do away with major appliances as the expense of such items is generally great enough to warrant repairing them.

Television repair work remains fairly steady, according to several service centers in town. Generally when repairs reach as high as $200 on a color set and $50 on a black and white set, people start thinking about buying new ones, shops report.

While manufacturers are prospering from the growing tendency to buy new and improved products, the small appliance repair shops have dwindled in number.

For example, one longtime local shop serviced all kinds of small appliances from 1929 until the mid-60s. But in the last seven years, the shop reports, its workmen have primarily handled air conditioner repairs as there has been little demand for other types of appliance servicing.

Parts Delays Cited

The difficulty and delay in getting parts was too time-consuming for both the repairman and the customer, a spokesman said.

The only appliances the shop's workmen have seen withstand the test of time are lamps. Good old lamps are still brought in for repair, they say, because people feel they can't get the same quality product for comparable prices today.

"Nobody knows we're around," complained another owner of a small appliance service center, who noted that fewer and fewer people are going into the trade.

First-line quality items are still brought in for servicing, explained this repairman, adding that one cannot get parts for most cheap models of small appliances.

He went on to estimate the cost of repair for a high-quality item as about one-third to one-quarter the cost of the original purchase price. On the other hand, he explained that it costs the same to repair a $7 toaster as a $23 toaster since the inside parts are the same no matter how fancy the exterior might be.

Motors Expensive

Items that are generally more economical to replace than repair, he pointed out, are those whose motors have burned out. He cited electric shoe-polishers, fans and can-openers as examples of such items.

ROTC Cadets To Be Honored During Review

Cadets in the Army ROTC program at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln will be honored during the annual Chancellor's Awards Review to be held at 12:30 p.m. Thursday in Schulte Field House.

In addition to the awards, guests will be treated to demonstrations by the Pershing Rifles, Cadence Countesses and Scarlet Beret organizations, following an orientation program being held at 1:30 p.m. in the Military and Naval Science Building.

In the appliance repair business, returning things quickly to the customer is an important aspect of the trade, according to this repairman.

He complained that manufacturers are often slow in sending out parts and the customer is thereby inconvenienced by having to wait weeks and often months until the item is returned.

The waiting process is one thing that discourages people from bringing things in for repair, he believes.

Others who don't mind waiting for their appliances might question how much longer the repaired item can be expected to last.

With no reflection on the workmanship of the repairman, the natural life of any particular appliance must come to an end after so many years of use.

At what point does one decide that — purchase expenses included — the greater return over a length of time will come with the buying of a new item rather than with patching up the old one?

And how can one be sure that the new item is of good, lasting quality or able to be repaired if necessary?

Miss Janet Wilson, extension specialist in consumer education at the University of Nebraska, believes that the consumer has a responsibility to get as much information as possible about products he is buying.

A person who buys an inexpensive, foreign-made item takes its potential disrepair into account when he buys that particular article, said Miss Wilson.

Income-level is also an important factor, she pointed out, as many can afford only the least expensive — and often poorest-made — merchandise, and can afford neither repair nor replacement when the item gives out.

Concerning the number of cheap goods on the market, Miss Wilson feels that the "consumer will get what he pays for." Certain items cannot be expected to do more than they say they can do.

On the other hand, if an item does not perform as the manufacturer says it will, Miss Wilson believes the consumer has a legitimate complaint and should go to the source to get redress.

Mrs. Georgia Skinner, extension specialist in family economics and management at the University, sees the throw-away trend as a reflection of the continuing fast rate of change that is affecting all aspects of society.

She explained that it is her job to help people accept the fact that they must learn to manage their lives and to cope with more decision-making at earlier stages than in past years.

She recommended Alvin Toffler's best-seller "Future Shock" as a real eye-opener to the changes undergoing society today.

Retail Store Sales Dip 0.2%

Washington (AP) — Retail store sales eased 0.2% to a seasonally adjusted $39.01 billion in November, following a strong October gain.

The Commerce Department said last month's figure was a 9.5% gain over the $35.57 billion of November 1971. But it was slightly below the $39.09 billion posted in October, when sales rose 3.5%.

Brick-Throwing Thief Is Fooled

Parsons, Kan. (AP) — The joke was on a thief who threw a brick through a window of a jewelry store and stole a paperweight.

Mrs. Marie E. Switlik, co-owner of the store, reported the paperweight carried a humorous label saying it contained $500. Actually, she said, it contained only a $2 bill.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY
Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use, if a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicator during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowances:

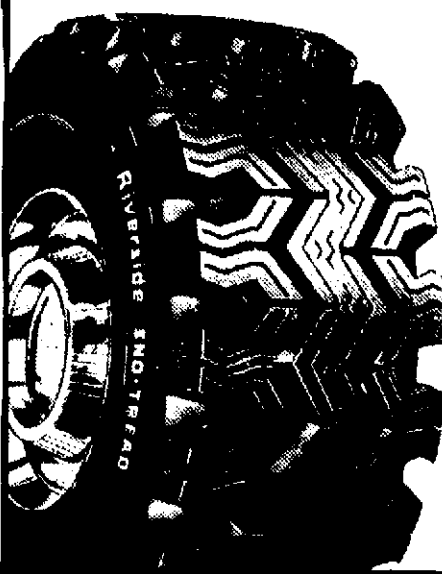

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance

Bengalis Languish In Jail

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN

Rawandi, Pakistan (AP) — More than 2,000 Bengalis are in jail in Pakistan without charge and "having none of the normal rights of prisoners," an official of the International Rescue Committee says. His report describes growing distress and deepening despondency in a community forbidden to leave for Bangladesh.

"Bengalis arrested for alleged intent to leave Pakistan are jailed under Defense of Pakistan Rules that allow detention for six months without charges," Jac Smit wrote in an unpublished survey which has become available here.

"Six months for wage earners," he adds, "makes you a beggar."

Pakistan government officials said they believed the figure exaggerated but could not provide more than estimates of a few hundred jailed. Since the report was written, Pakistan has placed a bounty of 1,000 rupees, or $90, on each Bengali seized while trying to leave Pakistan.

The government has refused to permit the departure of Bengalis as long as India holds 91,000 civil and military war prisoners in its camps. The Indians say they will return the prisoners only with the consent of the Bangladesh government which has refused approval until Pakistan formally recognizes it.

Smit worked on a socioeconomic survey in Karachi for the United Nations Development Program until he resigned in 1971 in protest against the Pakistani army's crackdown in the East. Now stationed in Dacca with the rescue committee, he visited Pakistan last October to interview government officials, Bengalis and foreign authorities about the condition of the community there.

"The Bengalis in Pakistan are suffering," he concludes. "Harassment and discrimination have become part of everyday life. . . . The great impact has been to upper-class Bengalis who are now treated as 'niggers' or lower class."

"But the small amount of additional discrimination to the lower classes affect many more people already at the edge of the cliff. . . . I found the middle-class wives more dispirited than their husbands or children. All expected to be interned in October, and some almost welcomed it as a measure of security and greater togetherness."

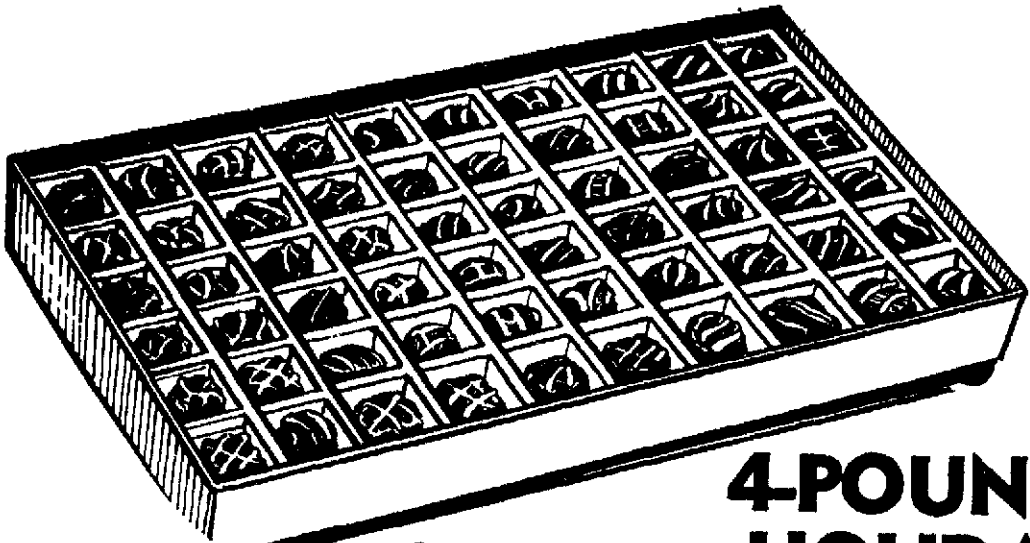

Smit's report parallels a similar effort by international relief agencies in preparation for a three-month winter relief program for 36,000 destitute Bengalis, 15,000 Biharis and 7,000 members of the Chakma tribe, mostly in Karachi.

4601 VINE STREET

Bright Christmasy days. A tigerish nap in the morning. I rise with the birds. The sun peeping over the hills. Put on the coffee and brood.

Column writers are moody people. Don Marquis — he did the great archy and mehtabel thing — said: "Writing a daily Column is like digging a daily grave."

E. B. White — great humorist of the New Yorker — said: "Analyzing humor is like dissecting a frog. Few people are interested, and the frog dies of it."

So to press.

Much ado to buy turtles. "Can we have a turtle? Oh, please, please!"

Cannot see much in turtles myself. But moppets adore them. I've had many turtles. Last pair were named Hot Pants (because they were in fashion) and Mrs. Guilfoyle (for our favorite baby sister).

Captain Bligh, the Manx cat, took Hot Pants out for a long walk and Hot Pants never came back.

Mrs. Guilfoyle got out of the bowl and went under the refrigerator. I couldn't move the fridge — it was hooked up with copper tubes to make automatic ice. I expect Mrs. Guilfoyle is still under there. Gone but not forgotten.

After buying the turtles, I found I had to buy them a Turtle Palace. It was a plastic bowl with a plastic island. A little plastic palm tree grew on it. Some enchanted evening — for turtles.

The pet store man sold me some dried ants. You shook them out of a can like salt.

He said: "The best turtle food is brine shrimp."

He had brine shrimp. Wiggly little fellows. An eighth of an inch long. I got a couple of hundred for fifty cents. They came in a plastic bag in salt water.

The pet store man said: "When you get home, put them in the refrigerator."

At home there was a good deal of talk about how nobody could keep food in a refrigerator with brine shrimp.

But I only said calmly: "Even brine shrimp have to live. Where is the Christmas spirit?"

The pet store people were absolutely right. Hot Pants and Mrs. Guilfoyle turned up their turtle noses at the dried ants.

They waited until a brine shrimp swam by. Snap!

Then I got a letter from a Brine Shrimp Lady. She wrote: "I heard of refrigerating shrimp while working in a pet store. But why? Brine shrimp live in warm and sunny tide pools."

She took the brine shrimp from the reefer. Immediately they stopped shivering and started making love, producing many little brine shrimp. Ever-loving days at the aquarium!

I double-checked. I called the pet store and asked: "Why must brine shrimp be kept in the refrigerator?" They said: "It's a cold water animal!"

I said: "The Bay's not that cold." They said: "Well, keep them on the lower shelf. Away from the freezer compartment."

Ask foolish questions, you get foolish answers.

I got the brine shrimp operating in warmer climate. Doing good. Very good. I looked forward to generations of brine shrimp.

Then Hot Pants got taken for a ride by Captain Bligh. Mrs. Guilfoyle went under the refrigerator. I dumped the brine shrimp out in the Bay. Aloha, brine shrimp.

I told the moppets: "I'd rather get another cat than turtles." They said: "How about a horse?"

The Silver Fox, trapped again, but gnawing his leg off.

Group Seeking Ouster Of Tribal Head

Wednesday, December 13, 1972 The Lincoln Star 49

Pine Ridge, S.D. (UPI) — Three resolutions calling for the resignation or impeachment of Tribal Chairman Richard Wilson of the Oglala Sioux Tribe were pending Tuesday before the Tribal Council here.

A newly-formed group called the Inter-District Council of the Oglala Sioux Tribe has asked impeachment on seven counts, primarily for allegedly violating the civil rights of Indians on the Pine Ridge Reservation.

President Eugene White Hawk and Secretary Hildigard Ketches of the Inter-District Council were not present at a tribal session taking up the matter Tuesday, however.

Fifteen of the 20 tribal council members would have to approve the ouster of Wilson.

Early Tuesday, there was concern that Russell Means would head a delegation of American Indian Movement (AIM) members to the meeting in an attempt to disrupt it.

Wilson, who said he would allow no such disruption, Monday night had said if reservation residents wanted a change, they could go to the polls. The next election will be held in November of 1973.

In a letter to Wilson, members of the new group said, "You have suspended David Long (vice chairman of the council) and have denied other members of the tribe their right to attend meetings on the pretext that such members were associated with the American Indian Movement. Because of your behavior our reservation is now referred to by other Indians as 'Little Russia.'"

The secretary of the Oglala Tribe, Lloyd "Toby" Two Bulls, reminded the council that just a short time ago it had given Wilson whatever power necessary to control the AIM. He also commended Wilson for doing something that the American government has not been able to do — "not let the AIM wreck Pine Ridge."

There has only been one such impeachment on the reservation, that occurring in 1950 when a Frank T. Wilson was impeached on technical embezzlement charge.

If impeachment should occur, Wilson would have 30 days to answer the charges. After that time a court would be set up to hear the proceedings.

Wilson, a staunch foe of the AIM, has tossed one AIM leader, Dennis Banks of Minneapolis, off the reservation. He also has ordered that the AIM should not be allowed to hold meetings on the reservation.

White Hawk has denied the AIM controls the newly-formed group making the charges.

Commissioners Accept Insurance Bid

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday accepted and approved a recommendation of a county employees committee on continuing health and accident insurance coverage for county employees and their families with Businessmen's Assurance Co. (BMA).

The county board had agreed several weeks ago to take bids on the insurance after BMA announced a premium hike of 14%.

However, BMA submitted the low bid of some five bidders. Family rates under the plan will increase from $35.41 last month to $42.91 with the county continuing to pay two-thirds of the monthly cost.

The new plan, which has some increased benefits, includes $2,500 life insurance for dependents and $5,000 for employees.

The bid total includes $39.10 for health and accident and an additional $3.90 for life insurance.

In other business, Sally Van Zandt, board member of the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR), presented proposals to the board for staggering two-year terms for board members.

She said she had drawn names of the recently-appointed board members to determine which would be considered one-year members and which would be two-year members.

She explained that the setting up of terms is merely a means for achieving the desired staggered system for appointing half the members for two-year terms one year and the other half for two-year terms the following year.

Group Rejects Want Ad Sex Classification Ban Proposal

The Lincoln Personnel Association defeated Monday a proposed resolution which urged the Lincoln Star and the Lincoln Journal to discontinue use of sex classifications in help wanted advertising.

The association is made up of more than 90 members who are involved in employee relations and employee management, according to Jerry L. Sellentin, association chairman.

The vote on the resolution was 27 against and 17 for, Sellentin said, and he offered two possible reasons for its defeat.

First, he said, the association considered that a decision that the ads are contrary to the 1964 Civil Rights Act should be made only by the U.S. Supreme Court. "We're not a legislative body," Sellentin said.

Second he said, the resolution came about as the result of a questionnaire on equal opportunity, and he speculated that the language of the resolution was questionable.

Sellentin, also chairman of the Nebraska Equal Opportunity Commission, said the commission will receive a report from 20 daily newspapers in the state outlining their policy intentions for running help wanted ads. The commission will consider the report at its Dec. 20 meeting, Sellentin said.

Removal of the labels, he said, "is the trend across the country," and he cited numerous major dailies which have made the change.

But Sellentin emphasized that the commission does not have initiatory powers to effect the change by newspapers in Nebraska. "We're only trying to do our job of educating people regarding possible discrimination practices," he said.

NBFA Names H. Krivohlavek New President

Henry Kribohlavek of Dorchester was elected president of the Nebraska Breeders and Feeders Association during the group's annual meeting at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Filling Krivohlavek's former post of vice president will be Richard Alexander of Pilger. Paul Guyer, Extension Livestock Specialist at NU, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Dale Cron of Bladen and Curtis Graff of Bancroft were elected directors, joining hold-overs. Russell Vanderkoik of Elwood, and John Eberspacher of Seward.

In addition to their business meetings members of the association also toured the swine and beef research centers in Lincoln and the NU veterinary diagnostic laboratory on East Campus. The Nebraska Livestock Breeders and Feeders Association was formed to stimulate the development and promotion of the livestock industry through support of livestock educational programs.

Pleasant Dale And Milford Okay Bonds

Lincoln Star Special

Milford — A $919,000 school bond issue won approval Tuesday from voters in the Milford and Pleasant Dale areas.

Unofficial results in the special election, including the absentee ballots which had been returned, showed 422 for the proposal and 357 against, according to the Seward County clerk's office.

Turnout of voters was, described as good, especially in view of the snowstorm during the day.

Funds will be used for the construction of two elementary schools to be located at Milford and Pleasant Dale to replace old buildings.

Firm Presidents Cited In Death Of 41 Babies

Paris (UPI) — The presidents of two firms have been charged with involuntary homicide for manufacturing a baby talcum powder suspected of having caused the death of 41 babies, judicial authorities said Tuesday.

President Paul Berty of the Morhange Firm and Paul Millard of Setico were charged by the prosecutor in Pontione three weeks ago but the charges were not disclosed until Tuesday.

Dismissal Disgusts Jurors For Pentagon Papers Trial

Los Angeles — The Pentagon papers trial jury was sent home Tuesday and several jurors expressed disgust that they waited four months in vain to judge the case.

One member of the panel arose in court and, in an emotional speech told the judge the jurors were unhappy because their lives had been upset for no reason. The judge said he understood, but would make no change in his decision to replace them, adding: "You no longer have anything to do with this case."

As the judge was dismissing them, juror William Abata a rubber company maintenance man, stood and, in a trembling voice asked to speak. He lauded his fellow jurors as "a fair and impartial group of people."

"They feel in the four months their freedom of speech, their freedom to read and see the news have been taken away from them," he said.

Movies On Drugs Said 'Mediocre'

Washington (AP) — A bespectacled, stern-looking middle-aged man in a white medical frock peers out at his audience and says in grave tones:

"Let's not be fooled by the phrase less-dangerous drugs." Sniffing glue, he says, leads to liver disease, bone cancer and eventual death.

The film, a popular one, is shown to students all over the country to discourage them from drug abuse.

A private group seeking to upgrade the quality of drug abuse education says the film is typical of most, and a big reason why young people don't believe what they are told about marijuana, amphetamines and other drugs.

Richard Earle, president of the National Coordinating Council on Drug Education told a news conference Tuesday that most drug abuse films "are doing more harm than good."

The council said that of 220 films it has reviewed over three years, only 34, or 16%, have been recommended for use in schools, churches or other well-meaning organizations hoping to curb drug abuse.

"Totally Unacceptable" All seven films targeted at minority groups are "totally unacceptable," the council says.

A review panel, including columnist William Buckley, movie critic Judith Crist, actor Peter Fonda and Jerome H. Jaffe of the White House Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention, has published critiques on the 220 films for use by educators and others selecting drug abuse films.

Earle, himself a producer of TV commercials, said many of the drug education film makers have "joined a multimillion dollar drug bustle."

He said well meaning foundations seek out independent producers who assign their less competent people who in turn produce inaccurate films which create an atmosphere of fear or hysteria.

Of 95 new films in the latest issue of "Drug Abuse Films," the council's compilation of film critiques, only a few are recommended.

Despite the issuance of two earlier editions of "Drug Abuse Films," said the council's executive director Peter G. Hammond, "The films are getting more and more mediocre."

Private Foundations This year's critique is for the first time sponsored and financed by private foundations instead of the National Institute of Mental Health he said.

Of the 95 films appearing in the new listing, the council said 65% should not be shown at all. Another 65% should not be shown without clearing up in a later discussion misconceptions or inaccuracies presented.

Only 15% were recommended as "scientifically accurate and conceptually sound."

The film on the dangers of sniffing glue also described marijuana as a "brain changer."

Hammond said it was typical of films which vastly overstate the medical dangers of some drugs.

Farmers' Income Up

Washington — U.S. farmers took in gross farm income at a seasonally adjusted rate of $64.5 billion in the first half of 1972, a sharp gain over the corresponding 1971 period.

said "They think people had plans they were going to make and now they're all goofed up and messed up."

Legal Arguments U.S. District Judge J. Pratt Byrne decided to dismiss the panel after lengthy legal arguments in the trial of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo on charges of espionage, conspiracy and theft. He acted out of concern that they had formed opinions about the case in advance.

The jurors had told the judge previously they were impartial about the trial and indicated they hadn't minded shielding themselves from all news of the case.

But after the court session, Abata told reporters, "We felt we were being taken, in one way or another. . . . We were angry at the judge. We felt he should have been running his courtroom. The attorneys seemed to be running it."

He referred to the series of legal motions and appeals which have stalled the case since last August while higher courts considered motions by the defense.

Ellsberg Meets Jurors Ellsberg conferred with several of the jurors after they were dismissed. They said they had no bias against him, but Abata, for one, told Ellsberg the jury thought the defense was stalling because "the longer the case was stalled, the better chance you'd have."

"But because I'm angry at you," he added, "doesn't mean I'd find you guilty."

"I'm sad I have to leave now," said Ardis Turnbull, a housewife, "but I'm relieved I don't have to sit in judgment."

Several panelists said they had not asked Abata to speak for them in court, but were glad he did.

Ellsberg, 41, and Russo, 35, are charged in connection with the leak to news media of top secret documents detailing origins of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war.

The selection of a new jury was postponed at least until next week because of defense motions challenging the entire panel of potential jurors. The judge set Friday as the last day for filing motions and said he would act on all pending matters speedily.

SCHOOL INVADED

A mock school invasion was arranged by the principal of North Ogden Junior High in Ogden, Utah, to demonstrate how life would be without freedom Army Reserve Lt. Curt Jackson, left, argues the

Humphrey Asks Nixon Work With Congress

Washington (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said Tuesday that unless President Nixon starts cooperating with the Democratic Congress he'll start "a first-class donnybrook fight."

That will happen Humphrey said "if he decides he's emperor instead of President" and continues to impound funds or reorganize federal departments without first consulting Congress.

At a Capitol news conference, the former vice president said he has no intention of seeking a Senate leadership position unless there is a vacancy.

He welcomed the election of Robert Strauss as Democratic national chairman and said he is glad he and Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, his opponents for this year's presidential nomination, stand out of the party leader's race.

"We don't need any more ideology. We've had a bucket full of it. What we need is someone to get votes and pay the bills," he said.

Humphrey returned this week from a tour of the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe. He said frank and candid talks with principal Communist leaders have convinced him the Soviets are ready for large-scale economic cooperation with the United States.

It was Humphrey's fourth visit to Russia and he said he found the climate for cooperation better than he has ever seen it.

He said he came away from his meeting with Premier Kosygin convinced that the attitude of the Soviets now is that "The time for all the chatter and talk is over, let's get down to action."

On domestic politics, Humphrey said he intends to be a part of congressional action trying to free such impounded funds as the $6 billion appropriated by Congress for water pollution control.

He was asked also to comment on a recent presidential announcement that executive departments may be reorganized unilaterally by White House order.

"The way to run a government is through a partnership," Humphrey said. "The way to have a fight is to make unilateral decisions."

'I Am Woman' Singer Gives Birth To Boy

Los Angeles (AP)—Vocalist Helen Reddy, whose latest hit song is "I Am Woman," gave birth Tuesday to an 8-pound, 4-ounce boy at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.

Miss Reddy, 31, and her husband and personal manager, Jeff Wald, have named their son Jordan Sommers. The Australian-born singer has a 10-year-old daughter by a previous marriage.

Dr. Anderson Says State Lags in Mental Health Care

The primary problem is mental health in Nebraska today is the fact that the state has not moved fast enough in its switch from an institutional mode of care to a community based program, Dr. Jack Anderson told a meeting of the Nebraska chapter of the National Association of Social Workers Tuesday night.

Dr. Anderson, who is the newly appointed director of the Department of Public Institutions, said that surrounding states have applied for grants and nearly all have been funded.

So far Nebraska has sent only three applications for grants all of which have been funded.

"This is not a criticism of any particular people," Dr. Anderson said adding that the staff is highly competent, committed and hard working. His criticism is just that the program hasn't really gotten off the ground, he said.

Another criticism of the present situation, leveled by Dr. Anderson is that there is not much in-patient service under present conditions.

He told the group that the basic idea of the community based centers is to provide continuity of care and a wide range of services.

Dr. Anderson said that one of the goals is to provide care with a minimum of disruption in the patients' lives and a full spectrum of services is the best way to see that the disruption is kept to a minimum.

Another suggestion for improvement of the quality of care Dr. Anderson said is the recruitment of more psychiatrists who are willing to go into the rural areas.

He said that only until recently all but one of the private psychiatrists in the state lived in Omaha or Lincoln.

He predicted that in the next few years there will be 10 or 15 psychiatrists west of Hastings.

Another program, which will require enabling legislation by the Unicameral, would allow patients to be treated in local hospitals with the state paying a share of the cost.

Dr. Anderson told the group that if this could be done, they would have accomplished a "most important move."

Cornell Isn't Gulf Shareholder

Ithica N. Y. (AP)—Cornell University no longer is a shareholder in the Gulf Oil Corp., university President Charles Corson revealed at a news conference Tuesday.

Corson, in response to questions from newsmen, said the university's trustee sold all 93,500 shares of Gulf Oil stock that the school had owned. Last spring student demonstrators protested Cornell's ownership of Gulf Oil stock, mainly because of the oil company's investments in Portuguese African colonies.

The Cornell-Gulf demonstrations resulted in the takeover of a campus building on April 26, at which time student demonstrators demanded that Cornell trustees use their position as Gulf Oil stockholders to force Gulf out of the Portuguese colonies.

Power Consultant Declares Public Entitled To Electric Utilities Plans

Omaha (AP) — A public power consultant said Tuesday "the public is entitled to accurate and early information as to the plans of electric utilities."

Kenneth Holm, a former assistant secretary of interior for water and power and now a consultant with a small consortium of consumer owned electric utilities in the Missouri Basin, made the statement in remarks for delegates of the Mid-West Electric Consumers Association.

The group's annual meeting is being held through Thursday in Omaha.

Holm said he recently read a story in the Billings, Mont. Gazette with the headline:

"Montana Power Company Claims Rights to River"

He said, "After careful reading, you didn't learn much about the plans of Montana Power Co. except that they continue determined to keep Montanans uninformed, or misinformed, as to their plans for generating facilities at Colstrip and their proposed use of the water of the Yellowstone River, which are, indeed, public resources."

The more than 450 association delegates represent municipally-owned electric systems, rural electric cooperatives and public power districts in the nine Missouri Basin states of Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, North and South Dakota and Wyoming.

Holm, of Washington, D.C., is the father of John Holm, one of the key members of South Dakota Sen. George McGovern's staff.

Rod J. McMullin, general manager of the Salt River Project in Phoenix, Ariz., also addressed the group Tuesday.

McMullin was a member of the 12-man technical exchange group which made a two-week inspection tour of Soviet power facilities last summer.

On that tour, the group visited a variety of Russian electrical facilities.

The featured speaker at Wednesday's session will be Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., who is returning in January.

Loan Arranged

Jacksonville, Fla. (UPI) — American Century Investors have arranged a $25 million loan from two banks and has succeeded its management fees to American Century Advisors, Inc., by $250,000 for the current fiscal year.

Fort Calhoun N-Plant Water Discharge Hit

Omaha (AP) — Warmed water, discharged from the Fort Calhoun nuclear plant, could have an adverse effect on fish in the Missouri River, especially during drought periods when large amounts of water are being withdrawn for irrigation, the Atomic Energy Commission's Safety and Licensing Board was told Tuesday.

The Omaha Public Power District seeks a license for the Fort Calhoun station.

Richard J. Dinsmore, attorney for Citizens for Survival, an Omaha based environmental group, gave that explanation for his lengthy question of a Corps of Engineers official in the second day of a licensing hearing being conducted by the board.

Elmo W. McClendon, chief of the reservoir control center of the corps, answered questions for close to three hours concerning the river water levels and flows in drought periods.

"If the rate of flow of the river decreased," Dinsmore told the board "the hot water coming out of the plant is going to affect life in the river."

Dinsmore and Dr. Larry Holcomb said neither the AEC nor Omaha Public Power District (OPPD) adequately analyzed the probability of a major drought and what this would do to river flow, the thermal effect of the plant or electrical production.

In his opening statement, Dinsmore said that issuance of a license would be "illegal." He challenged environmental impact studies.

Patrol Will Operate Near Full Strength On Holidays

An official said Tuesday the State Patrol would be operating at near full strength over the holidays to handle traffic.

"We allow only a bare minimum of people off on Christmas and just a very few on New Year's," said Capt. Raymond Syslo of the Patrol.

The official also said the no-warming ticket policy initiated as part of the "Super Safety Day" campaign would remain in effect over the holidays.

"We're very mindful of the effect that we're receiving from Super Safety Day," Syslo said.

ON THE JOB the year around

There's one particular thing which characterizes the newspaperboy beyond all else: Dependability. Through summer, winter, heat, cold, rain, sun—he's there, keeping his papers neat and clean, delivering them promptly day after day, leaving each copy in a safe, dry place, just where the customer wants it.

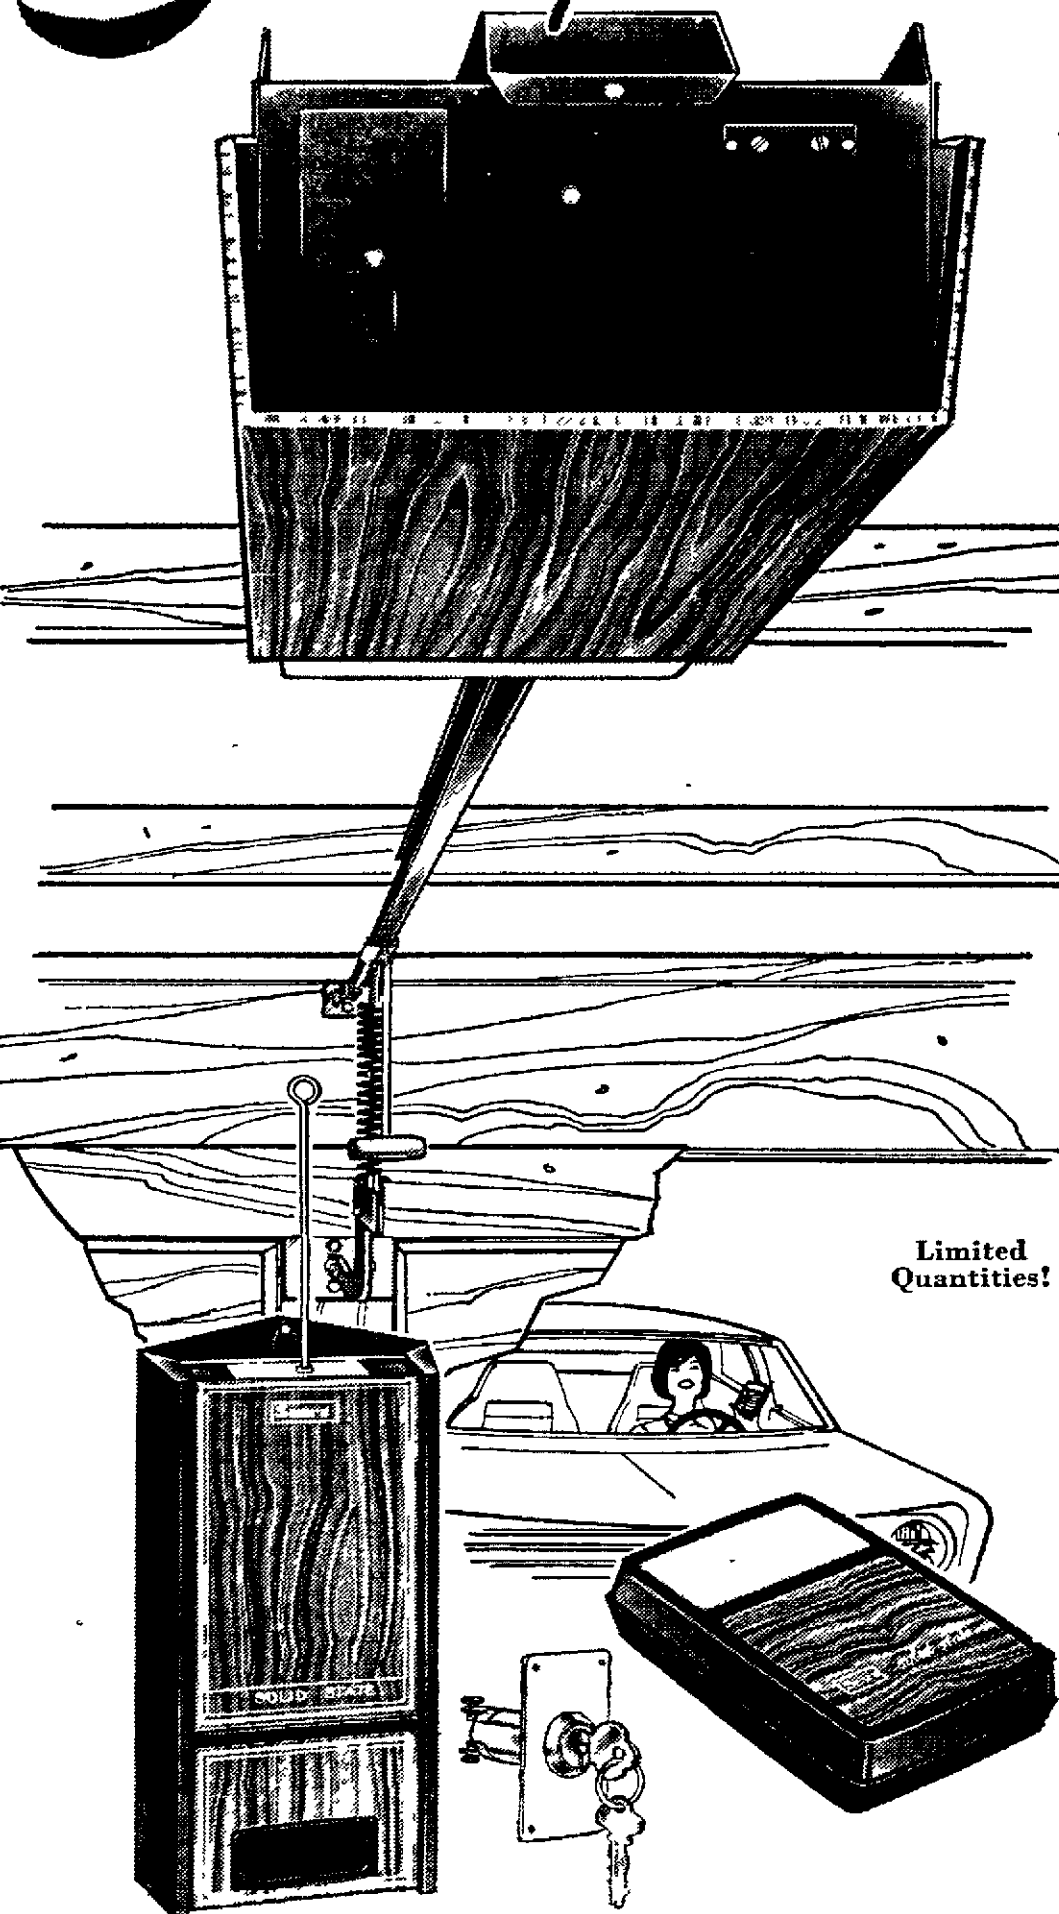

Certainly, there are times when the boy would rather go fishing or to the ball game, head for the swimming pool, or just goof off with his dog. But he knows that his customers are expecting him, and that, as a young businessman, he has responsibilities which he cannot lightly ignore. So, he covers his route and does remarkably little grumbling.

This, you see, is a man in the making. Here is a lad who is developing a trait that will benefit him—and others—throughout his life. The newspaperboy. The dependable one.

Class On Human Sexuality Proving The Most Popular

East Lansing, Mich. (AP)—A television class on human sexuality is proving the most popular course at Michigan State University.

Approximately 2,300 students signed up this fall for the class conducted by psychologist Andrew M. Barclay, who, like many of his students, usually sports work shirts and bell bottoms.

"To attract crowds like that, he must be doing something illegal," commented one professor at MSU, where agriculture once was considered the prime academic pursuit.

Barclay, however, insists his class provides students with badly needed information about their own sexuality.

"We're really not out to titillate anybody," Barclay, 31, said "we're not conducting an illustrated sex manual. We don't want to show them how to do it but to get them to better understand their feelings while they're doing it.

Rising VD Rates

"I really don't think students are much more knowledgeable and sophisticated than their parents about sex... If they are, how do you explain the rising rates in venereal disease and unwanted pregnancies on most U.S. campuses?"

Barclay says his aim is to place sex in perspective and to help students adjust their sexual behavior so it fits naturally into their lives.

Included in the 140 topics during the 10-week course are masculine and feminine roles, homosexuality, self-awareness, and the social, psychological, racial and legal aspects of sex.

"While I stress that sex is good, healthy and perfectly normal, I also try to point out that you can engage in sex for the wrong reasons... for example, a male student who seeks sex only as an affirmation of his masculinity."

TV Show Techniques

But sincere feels that clinical discussions of sex can be boring, Barclay adopts the techniques of the educational TV shows "Sesame Street" and "The Electric Company" to keep his students alert.

He breaks his class into 10-minute blocks of information, getting the message across by using such multimedia effects as rock music, picture montages, bawdy songs and racy limericks. The class is divided into 38 sections that view presentations on a dozen large-screen monitors around the 30,000-student campus.

"What we're trying to do is get everything into the open," he explained, "so we can go on to discuss the reason people react to various sexual stimuli." The result is a "cultural shock" for some students, he said.

Some students greet the course with blushing, giggles and guffaws at first, but "peer group pressure restores the learning atmosphere," Barclay said.

Pregnancy Kits Said Unreliable Being Recalled

Washington (AP)—Pregnancy test kits judged unreliable and gonorrhea test kits lacking proof of safety and effectiveness are being recalled nationwide, the Food and Drug Administration announced Tuesday.

The agency said any woman who has recently used Ova II test kit should "see her physician immediately for accurate methods of detecting pregnancy."

The kits, sold without prescription and advertised in newspapers and women's magazines with the slogan "When you want to be the first to know" are considered inaccurate, unreliable and prone to give false results, the FDA said.

Hundreds of thousands of the pregnancy test kits are believed to have been distributed during the last two years, and FDA spokesman said, although the manufacturer claims to have marketed only 165,000.

Irving Rosen, manager of La Mar Laboratories at Oceanside, N.Y., said production and distribution information is confidential.

Venture Formed

New York (UPI)—Commonwealth Oil Refining Co. and two Japanese firms, Nippon Zeon Co. and Mitsubishi Corp., announced they have formed a joint venture to make isoprene monomer in Puerto Rico. A plant to cost about $11 million will be built.

Making Money Not The Same As Getting Rich

New York (UPI)—It's one thing to make money in the market—that's hard enough—but it's impossible for most people to get rich in the market, according to Spear and Staff, Inc.

"The problem is that if you want to get rich on stocks—apart from gifts and bequests—you have not only to pick the 'right' stocks but also buy them at the right time," the firm says.

Hijacker Said Dead Is Alive

Addis Ababa (UPI)—Police Tuesday disclosed that a woman who took part in the attempted hijacking of an Ethiopian Airlines jet plane Friday survived the gunbattle in which her six accomplices were shot and killed.

Authorities at first reported six hijackers were killed in the seven-minute shooting aboard the jetliner while it flew over Ethiopia and that the seventh—a woman—died later of wounds from an exploding hand grenade.

All were supporters of the Eritrean Liberation Front (ELF), police said, and planned to hold the plane, its 94 passengers and nine crewmen hostage until a ransom was paid to the ELF.

The hijack attempt began when one of the men opened fire and wounded one of six airline security guards on the jetliner.

In an ensuing gunfight, six hijackers were shot to death, but not before one of them managed to explode the hand grenade, wounding Miss Mariam and eight other passengers.

The explosion blew a hole in the bottom of the plane and knocked out one of its four engines. However, the pilot managed to fly it back to Addis Ababa and make a safe landing.

Police said they had decided to withhold information that the woman was alive until their investigation of the hijack attempt was completed. She was identified only as Miss Tadelech Kidane Mariam.

At the time of the hijacking, authorities said the grenade explosion blew the legs off one of the two women hijackers. Police said Miss Mariam was being treated for her wounds.

The six dead hijackers, all Ethiopians, were identified by police as Waleghn Makonnen, Belai Tadesse, Getachew Habte, Yohannes Fekadu, Tesfaye Burega and Martha Mebratu.

The ELF claims to represent about 3 million persons living in the former Italian colony of Eritrea that has been incorporated into Ethiopia. It had claimed responsibility for at least six other incidents involving the airline.

Another View Of Heisman

Judging from the phone calls received last Tuesday morning by newspapers in Nebraska and Oklahoma in particular it seems unlikely there was anyone in either state who wasn't interested in the winner of the Heisman Trophy.

However, the newspaper at Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma interviewed several of its civilian employees and found one, a blonde named Connie McFall, who responded, "I don't know. I don't care for baseball at all."

The others interviewed, all Oklahomans, naturally thought the Sooners' Greg Pruitt should have been the winner.

Missouri's football turn-around from a 1-10 season last year to a bowl trip this year has veteran football observers remembering other such turn-arounds.

One that is recalled by most is Stanford which went from a 1-7-1 team in 1939 to Rose Bowl the following season. The Rose Bowl opponent—Nebraska, a 21-13 loser.

Nebraska was the only major college team this season to average more than 200 yards in both rushing and passing, averaging 219.3 yards per game on the ground and 221.0 through the air.

Another Big Eight Booster

Big Eight football is swinging more and more people to its side. Consider this excerpt from a column written by Bill Gleason of the Chicago Sun-Times:

"None of the top teams in the ratings have played a tough schedule with the exception of the Big Eight squads who must play one another."

Proving there are two ways to build a winner in the National Football League are Washington coach George Allen, who has done it through trades, and Pittsburgh's Chuck Noll, who has done it with the draft.

In Noll's first year, the Steelers picked Joe Greene and Terry Hanratty in the first two rounds. The next year, it was Terry Bradshaw and Ron Shanklin. In 1971, they took Frank Lewis and Jack Ham this year, it was Franco Harris and Gordon Gravelle.

When Oklahoma defeated Oklahoma State, 38-15, it marked the first time since 1957 that the Sooners had defeated Texas. Nebraska and Oklahoma State in the same year.

A preview of this year's major bowl games will be presented by ABC-TV from 11 to 11:30 a.m. Sunday.

Sugar Bowl History Best

The Sugar Bowl which found itself running fourth in a four bowl race for interest on New Year's Day the past few years and thus moved to a New Year's Eve game shares the top bowl pairing this time with the Rose Bowl.

And despite what's happened the past few years when the Orange and Cotton bowls hogged the spotlight, history shows the Rose and the Sugar have been the best bowls.

Since the four bowls began their head-to-head competition in 1937, teams playing in the Sugar Bowl have had the best combined win-loss record of the four major bowls with the Rose Bowl second, the Orange third and the Cotton fourth.

Since 1937, the combined records of teams playing in the four major bowls have been: Sugar 624-77-22 for 87.8 per cent, Rose 600-84-21 for 86.6, Orange 620-89-27 for 86.1, and Cotton 608-103-20 for 84.5.

The Sugar and Rose also are far out front with unbeaten teams with 19 and 18, respectively while the Orange Bowl has had 11 and the Cotton nine with perfect records.

Joe Garagiola, commenting on today's athletes, "We used to be glad just to get our pictures on a box of Wheaties. Now, there are some players, who wouldn't be satisfied if you gave them General Mills."

Nebraska's Wrestlers Meet Drake In Dual

Coach Orval Borgianni's wrestling team will try to bounce back from last Friday's 48-0 shellacking by Iowa State in a dual meet here Wednesday night against Drake at 7:30.

The tough Bulldogs won't be the Husker's only problem, however, since flu has riddled the Nebraska ranks.

"Over the last week, we've had at least 10 different individuals on the squad come down with the flu," Borgianni exclaimed. "Some are well enough to wrestle again, but they may not be able to make weight which concerns us."

Borgianni said he thinks the Husker grapplers have a good chance to even their dual record at 1-1 with a win over Drake, but concedes that it will be hard to do.

"I know they're tough," Borgianni said. "We competed against them in the Iowa State Invitational two weeks ago and it looks like they've got good material again. It should be an excellent match."

Borgianni said he's been pleased with the Huskers' overall performance thus far this year, but he's been greatly impressed with the efforts of Bob Johnson, a 177-pound freshman from Gordon, and Jeff Glass, the heavyweight who, Borgianni contends, should get some kind of man-of-the-year award for wrestling Iowa State's 428-pound Chris Taylor three times in eight days.

About Johnson, who has compiled a 6-4 record, Borgianni says: "He's one of our most improved wrestlers at this point. I'd say he's an up-and-coming freshman."

"Jeff Glass looked as good as he has all year in the Omaha Invitational," the veteran Husker coach continued. "His record (5-3) doesn't look that good, but people forget that his only three losses were to Chris Taylor. He just can't seem to get away from him."

Wrong Chemical Used

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Burns and bruises suffered by players in the St. Louis Cardinals-Los Angeles Rams football game Sunday were caused by calcium chloride and not the chemical Urea, a spokesman for the company that makes AstroTurf playing surfaces said Tuesday.

Dan Bishop of the Monsanto Co. said his firm made a laboratory analysis of the material placed on the Busch Stadium playing field to melt ice and snow. Bishop said it was discovered that at least six 80-pound sacks of calcium chloride, a caustic material used to melt ice and snow on streets and sidewalks, were inadvertently applied to the field by groundskeepers last week.

The burns and bruises had been attributed to the application of the chemical Urea.

"Urea is totally harmless and is used in food stuffs, cosmetics and pharmaceuticals," the Monsanto spokesman said. "Calcium chloride is a very caustic material and will produce burns and lesions. We do not recommend it use."

He said the determination was made by an investigation of the material on the field, which he said the company was invited to make by the Cardinals.

"The problem is still there, and it will be until the east end of the field is flushed with large quantities of water," he said. "And, of course, you need above-freezing temperatures to do that."

'IFs' To Decide NFC Western Division Champ

By Associated Press

San Francisco has only one "IF."

If the 49ers win Sunday, they're the eighth and final team for the National Football League playoffs.

It's two "IFs" for Atlanta.

If the Falcons win and if San Francisco loses, the spot reserved for the National Conference West champion will go to Atlanta.

For Los Angeles, it's a triple "IF."

Both the 49ers and Falcons must lose — that's two ifs — and then LA must win its regular season closeout to wobble into the playoffs of Dec. 23-24.

Let's toss in another "IF." If the 49ers, Falcons and Rams all lose, the NFC West Crown will be accepted through the back door at San Francisco.

If the 49er-Viking tussle ends in a tie, that'll work okay for San Francisco, too. A 7-5-2 record would equal Atlanta's highest possibility, an 8-6, percentage-wise.

And, since San Francisco won both head-to-head meetings with the Falcons, the 49ers would be in.

The Oakland Raiders play at the home of the American Conference Central Division champion at 12 noon, CDT, Dec. 23. If Pittsburgh wins Sunday at San Diego, the site will be the Steelers' Three Rivers Stadium.

But, if the Steelers slip and Cleveland — which already has a playoff spot in the bag — beats the New York Jets, then it would be Oakland against the Browns at Municipal Stadium.

The AFC Central runnerup plays the unbeaten Miami Dolphins in the other conference playoff Sunday, Dec. 24, at 2 p.m., CDT, in the Orange Bowl.

In the National Conference, Green Bay is set to battle Washington at 11 a.m., CDT, on Dec. 24 at the Redskins' Robert F. Kennedy Stadium and the world champion Dallas Cowboys are playoff bound as the NFC "wild card" team.

Dallas will play the NFC West survivor, heading to either Candlestick Park in San Francisco, Atlanta Stadium or the Los Angeles Coliseum for a 3 p.m., CDT, matchup on Dec. 23.

The four winners on Dec. 23-24 advance to the AFC and NFC championship games. The sites for those depend on which teams qualify.

In both conferences, the Central Division has preference for hosting the Dec. 31 showdowns that will determine participants for the Super Bowl, scheduled Jan. 14 in Los Angeles.

In other words, if Green Bay and the AFC Central king — either Pittsburgh or Cleveland — are first-round winners, they get the conference championship games.

If the AFC Central winner is defeated by Oakland, the conference finale would go to Miami if the Dolphins win on Dec. 24.

Another slimmer possibility would be for Oakland to grab the AFC championship game. That could only happen if the Raiders win in the first round and if the "wild card" from the AFC Central beats Miami.

Now, in the dizzying business of analyzing the playoff possibilities, to the National Conference.

Green Bay, of course, can control the NFC championship site. The Packers can play at home Dec. 31 if they handle Washington in the first round.

The Redskins can play for the NFC title at home if they beat the Packers and "wild card" Dallas knocks off the Western Division champion.

However, if it comes down to a Washington-NFC West match for a Super Bowl invitation, the Dec. 31 conference championship will be in either LA, San Francisco or Atlanta.

Getting back to the still-smoking NFC West race, the three contenders will be dealing with three angry, eliminated erstwhile powers this weekend.

San Francisco's shot at wrapping it up comes Saturday when Minnesota's disappointed Vikings come scowling into Candlestick after losing out to Green Bay in the NFC Central.

If the 49ers crumble, Act Two in this Pete Rozelle-produced melodrama comes Sunday at Atlanta where the Falcons deal with the skidding Kansas City Chiefs. To refresh, a 49ers defeat and Falcon victory gives the title to Atlanta.

Then, if they ever get around to Act Three, the stage will be in Los Angeles. If both San Francisco and Atlanta lose, the Rams still have to deal with another husky dropout, Detroit, before pulling off any 11th hour miracle.

Beside all these critical efforts in the 14th week of the regular season, the Miami Dolphins will also take a few rays of the spotlight for their Saturday game against Baltimore.

A victory and Miami is 14-0, the first team in NFL history to accomplish such a pre-playoff feat. The Dolphins would also be the first undefeated regular season club in 30 years.

KINGS EDGE CAVS, 100-99

Archibald Gets Decisive Score

... CARR SHOT MISSES

By STEVE GILLISPIE

Star Sports Writer

Omaha — The game almost came down to the point of which team was going to have the ball last.

That's the way it was here Tuesday night at Civic Auditorium as the Kansas City-Omaha Kings edged the Cleveland Cavaliers, 100-99. The game was a see-saw battle most the way.

Nate Archibald's 41st point a time out and Carr got the ball for a last try.

The tempo of the game was slow, especially at the start.

The Kings' biggest lead came near the end of the first half, 48-43. The Kings scored seven straight points to take that advantage.

The Cavs' Dwight Davis scored as that half ended to pull his team a little closer.

The Cavs appeared to break the game open midway in the third quarter by scoring 13 points to the Kings' two. However, the Kings fought back.

The Kings finally took the lead, 80-79, at the start of the last period and the see-saw battle began again.

Both teams had several chances to score late in the game before Archibald made the winning basket. Archibald's 41 points topped all scorers.

Teammates Sam Lacey and Nate Williams had 19 and 11 points, respectively.

Alworth Blasts Redskins

DALLAS (UPI) — Dallas Cowboy flanker Lance Alworth said Tuesday he resented the belief that he allegedly threw a vicious, dirty block on Washington linebacker Jack Pardee last Saturday and indicated he thought the Redskins were merely mad because they lost.

"I'm sorry they can't take a loss like men," said Alworth. "The thing that is hurting them more than anything else is pride. And pride goes before a fall. In all honesty, I think it is ridiculous."

Alworth's block against Pardee last Saturday in Dallas' 34-24 decision over the Redskins helped spring Calvin Hill 10 yards for the game's first score. Alworth threw the block after first being in motion.

Redskin Coach George Allen said the play was "designed to hurt a player and I don't think it has any place in football. It's illegal and vicious."

"I resent it," said Alworth. "It really makes me mad I never hit a guy when his back is turned. I could have but I didn't."

"If anything was illegal it was the block thrown on Chuck Howley."

Howley suffered torn ligaments in his left knee on a crackback block and underwent surgery within hours after the game. The injury could have ended the veteran's career.

'Unpublicized' Program Benefits NU Football

... EPLEY HEADS WEIGHT TRAINING

By MIKE JOHNSON

Star Sports Writer

Few people are aware of the unpublicized factors which contributed substantially to the quality of football at the University of Nebraska.

NU's weight-training program, headed by Boyd Epley, is one such behind-the-scenes program which plays an important role in Husker football, not only during the September-through-December season but, more importantly, in the off-season.

Epley's talents, however, are not confined to the Husker football team. He also has gained recognition as a weightlifter, recently being awarded the Outstanding Lifter plaudits by the Midwestern AAU Association.

Epley established eight Nebraska records and five Midwestern records in lifting while winning the titles of 'Mr. Nebraska', 'Mr. Midwestern' and 'Mr. Mid-America'. He also qualified for the AAU Class I patch in both Olympic and power lifting, just one step below the highest award attainable.

The former Nebraska pole vaulter became interested in weight lifting after sustaining a back injury. Epley, who was the first Nebraska pole vaulter to clear 15 feet indoors, began weight lifting to correct the injury.

The recipient of a Master's degree in Education at the University of Nebraska also organized a weight-lifting club at Nebraska two years ago and brought weight-lifting meets to Lincoln for the first time.

Last year, the weight lifting club, which included 50 members, participated in 14 meets with the Midwestern Olympic Championships scheduled for early March in Lincoln next year.

Epley, however, was forced to conclude his stint as club director to devote more time to his duties in the athletic department.

"I hated to get away from the weightlifters," Epley says. "A few of them showed real potential and one lifter, although only 20-years-old, was just 40 pounds off the world record."

"The job was time-consuming," he adds. "I felt I should devote my time to my athletic job instead."

One of his athletic department duties, the addition of an in-season weight-training program for the football team, contributed to his lack of time.

The program was developed to provide "explosiveness" and although not mandatory, all linemen were advised to participate. Epley attributes much of the offensive and defensive line's success to the program.

"I believe our weight-training program is one of the unpublicized factors of our success," Epley explains. "We probably have the best facilities in the Big Eight and that constitutes a tremendous recruiting advantage."

Epley said that Husker recruiters look primarily for height and speed in possible future football players as strength and weight can be improved.

UCLA Tops AP Cage Poll

By Associated Press

An act of Congress seems the only way to unseat incumbent UCLA, but the House and Senate are on holiday. So sure as Christmas...

The Bruins again were the unanimous No. 1 choice in the weekly Associated Press college basketball balloting by 41 sportswriters and broadcasters released Tuesday.

UCLA's 3-0 season record matches the other teams in the top five but Florida State, Maryland, Marquette and Minnesota don't have Bill Walton and a chance for 60 straight triumphs.

Florida State remained No. 2 with 648 points after whipping Eastern Kentucky and Biscayne last week and Maryland routed Canisius in its only game to hold onto No. 3 with 620 points. UCLA, meanwhile, collected 820 points from voters though idle all week.

1 UCLA	3-0	820
2 Florida State	3-0	648
3 Maryland	3-0	620
4 Marquette	3-0	522
5 Minnesota	3-0	432
6 North Carolina	3-0	388
7 South Carolina	3-0	372
8 Kansas State	3-0	360
9 Oregon State	3-0	348

Foreman Lone 'Champ' After Jan. 22 Contest?

... FRAZIER 'HATES BIG MOUTHS'

NEW YORK (AP) — "I don't consider myself a challenger," George Foreman said, glancing down at heavyweight champion Joe Frazier. "We are both champions until Jan. 22 and then we'll have one champion — me."

Frazier didn't blink an eyelid. He just chewed harder on a mouthful of gum and turned to whisper in the ear of his manager, Yank Durrain.

"I hate these big mouths. George is talking like another man I know." The reference obviously was to the loquacious Muhammad Ali, who still has to be No. 1 on Joe's priority list.

Frazier, dapper in a gray plaid jacket and white turtleneck shirt and with $50,000 diamond rings glistening from the pinky of each hand, arrived 48 minutes late for the New York press conference intended to boost next month's so-called "Sunshine Showdown" in Kingston, Jamaica.

When the bearded heavyweight champ barged in, pretty Playboy Bunnies dangling on each arm, Foreman was in the middle of the floor at the Overseas Press Club headquarters telling reporters:

"I am like good wine. I've been sitting on the shelf aging for this occasion. Now I'm ready."

Spotting Frazier, Foreman yelled across the room:

"Hey, Joe, I was just telling these fellows. Since Joe Louis, there's never been a heavyweight champion who held the title more than three and a half or four years. So, time is up for you and now I take it. And maybe I won't hold it but three or four years."

Frazier just glowered, chomping away on gum which he replenished at intervals, he dropped the arms of the Bunnies and headed for the door.

"In the past couple of years," Frazier said, "they've buried me, cremated me, dug me up and put me in the ground again. Let me tell you something. I don't take anybody cheap."

"They tell me I've been taking it easy too long. That's rubbish. I fight a battle every day — with crowds with my wife and with my sparring partners. Every time I step in the ring in training, to me it's a championship fight. I'll have no excuses." Frazier is defending his crown in Kingston's 40,000-seat National Stadium against a powerfully-built, unbeaten challenger who has had a similar career but who is taller, bigger and with a longer reach.

"I think we are both equal," Foreman said. "We are both former Golden Gloves champions — Frazier in 1964, Foreman in 1968. We are both big heavyweights, young men who have never been hurt."

"I have been practicing for a chance to execute what I have learned. When Joe and I get in the ring it will be, 'Burn, baby, burn.'"

Foreman, who has been training in Hayward Calif., is a strapping athlete of 6 feet, 3½ inches and a diminishing 230 pounds. In 37 pro fights, he has won 37, 34 by knockout. Frazier is 5-11, 218 pounds with arms and shoulders of a bull. His record is 29 victories without a loss, 25 by knockout.

The fight, which is expected to have a gross gate of $500,000 with a $1 million guarantee from Video Techniques Inc. for closed-circuit television and other ancillary rights, would be a fistic natural were it not for the pending return bout between Frazier and Ali.

"I am sure the Frazier-Ali fight will come off, maybe next year," Durham said. "But we're not going to fight for $3 million which Jack Kent Cooke (Los Angeles promoter who owns the option to any return bout) is offering us, and we won't fight in California. As soon as this fight is out of the way, we will start talking about the Ali fight. Maybe we'll get some other offers."

The 24-year-old Foreman insisted that such talk was presumptuous.

"Frazier has been wined and dined. He's associated with kings and queens, and he's got all them Bunnies around him. Now I think it's my time."

Somebody asked Foreman if, in his career as amateur and pro, he had ever been knocked down.

"Yeah, plenty of times," he said, "and it makes me mad and mean."

He turned to Frazier, at his elbow, and snorted:

"So don't knock me down."

Then his voice softened and he added, "Please."

County Fairs Get Money

By United Press International
State Racing Commission chairman Harry J. Farnham of Omaha said Tuesday each of the 93 county fairs in Nebraska will receive $1,671 from the state's 1972 thoroughbred racing season.

According to Farnham, the commission is distributing checks totaling $155,426 to the 93 counties.

He noted the commission does not receive any state appropriations but operates on income from the state admission tax each track collects, individual licenses, fines and the daily track licensing fees. After deducting expenses, the remainder is divided among the county fairs.

Farnham said the state taxes from racing amounted to a record of over $3.5 million. The biggest share — $3,086,835 — came from the four per cent pari-mutuel tax which goes into the state's general fund.

Of the total, $2,124,326 came from the 59-day Ak-Sar-Ben meeting.

During the year Ak-Sar-Ben also offered up to $500 in matching grants and more than $38,000 to building and cleanup programs at local fairs. The charity organization awarded $53,000 in 4-H and FFA premiums at county fairs and at the Ak-Sar-Ben livestock show.

Horsemen received an additional $2.8 million in purse money during the season statewide.

Disagreements Characterize Major League Negotiations

... BASEBALL STRIKE FORTHCOMING?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Whom do you believe?

Representatives of both sides met for more than three hours Tuesday to discuss the conflict between baseball players and owners, and they couldn't even agree on whether any progress was made.

"I think it was a meaningful exchange," said John Gaherin, negotiator for the owners. "I'd rather not characterize the discussion, but when two people talk they always make some degree of progress."

However, from the other side of the table, Marvin Miller said: "Nothing was accomplished on either side."

"I wouldn't even describe it as a negotiating session," continued Miller, who is executive director of the Players' Association. "They simply came in and repeated what they said in Hawaii and what Bowie Kuhn said after that."

"One of the things we've warned about has come to pass. When you have negotiations publicly, you harden the positions of the principals. That's why we complained about Mr. Kuhn's actions in Hawaii and then he repeated them."

The Players' Association voiced its disapproval of Kuhn's action in presenting the owners' side of negotiations during the major league meetings in Hawaii two weeks ago.

Sessions between the owners and players had been recessed last month so the two groups could meet by themselves and Tuesday's meeting was the first in almost a month. The owners and players are trying to work out a new basic agreement between them and forestall a strike such as baseball underwent last spring.

Tom Seaver, Joe Torre and Brooks Robinson represented the players at Tuesday's session along with Miller and attorney Dick Moss while representing the owners along with Gaherin were American League President Joe Cronin, National League President Chub Feeney and attorneys Lou Hoynes, James Garner and Barry Rona.

Gaherin said the two sides probably would meet again next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Onofrio said the schedule for semester final exams beginning Thursday might make it impossible for the entire team to work out together. A morning drill might be held if that's when a majority of team members can work, he said.

Weather, Exams Hamper Mizzou

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Missouri's football team continued preparations for the Dec. 23rd Fiesta Bowl with a 90-minute workout inside Tuesday.

Coach Al Onofrio said he has just about given up hope for any kind of a drill outside before the team departs for Tempe, Ariz., Dec. 20. Sleet, rain and ice have combined with cold weather to keep the Tigers inside the past week.

Onofrio said the schedule for semester final exams beginning Thursday might make it impossible for the entire team to work out together. A morning drill might be held if that's when a majority of team members can work, he said.

Jordan Slated For Omaha Fete

Omaha (UPI) — Henry Jordan, former all-pro defensive tackle for the Green Bay Packers, will be the featured speaker at the Omaha sportsweekend and sportscasters banquet at Peony Park Jan. 23.

Jordan played seven championship games and made all-pro seven times. He appeared in five pro bowl games.

Omaha sportscaster Dave Blackwell will be master of ceremonies.

Amundson Gains Quarterback Job

San Francisco (UPI) — The withdrawal of Oregon quarterback Dan Fouts from the Shrine East-West game resulted Tuesday in two changes.

Game officials announced that George Amundson, Iowa State's "Jack of all trades" performer, will move into the quarterback slot and added Long Beach State running back Terry Metcalf to the West roster.

Amundson, a 6-3, 215-pounder, was previously listed on the roster as a running back and quarterback. The addition of Metcalf, a 9.6 sprinter, gives the West added speed. During his junior year at Long Beach State, Metcalf scored 29 touchdowns, a NCAA record.

Stolz Said Prompt Reports Vital For Pollution Control

East Lansing, Mich. (AP) — Dennis Stolz, an assistant Michigan State University coach, has been recommended by MSU officials as the Spartans new football coach, to succeed the retiring Duffy Daugherty.

Dr. Clifton R. Wharton Jr., MSU president, said Tuesday he would recommend to the board, which meets in special session Wednesday morning they confirm Stolz as coach. Stolz, 39, has been an assistant to Daugherty for the last two years.

Candidates were interviewed over the weekend and today with the final interview held this afternoon," Wharton said.

"Coach Stolz was recommended to me by athletic director Burt Smith and executive vice president Jack Breslin," Wharton added. "On the basis of their strong endorsement, I am pleased to ask the board to approve his appointment."

Earlier in the day, Clair White of Bay City, an outgoing board member, said in a telephone interview he was informed by "high university officials" that Stolz had been chosen.

Daugherty, interviewed after receiving an award in Lansing from the Michigan House, said at midday he did not know who his successor was. Asked about White's story, on Stolz, Daugherty said of Stolz, "He's a very fine young man."

One of the persons very prominently mentioned for the post, Oklahoma assistant coach Barry Switzer, Monday removed himself as a candidate for the post.

Surgery Slated For Killebrew

Minneapolis (AP) — Minnesota Twins first baseman Harmon Killebrew entered St. Marys Hospital Tuesday for surgery Wednesday morning on his right foot.

A Twins spokesman said surgeons would remove a benign bone lesion from Killebrew's big toe and also correct a contracture of the second toe on the foot.

Killebrew previously underwent surgery for removal of varicose veins from his leg.

The 36-year-old slugger, fourth on baseball's all-time home run list, has played with leg and foot injuries the past two seasons, hitting 28 and 26 homers.

Nebraskans observing cases of stream pollution and fish kills can now report the incident to proper authorities around the clock, according to the Game and Parks Commission and the State Department of Environmental Control.

Time is of the essence in determining the causes of fish kills or other pollution problems. It is sometimes impossible to trace the sources of such accidents if an investigator cannot be on the scene at the time it happens or shortly thereafter.

The person making the report should relay specific information to investigators, including the time and exact location of his observation, the nature of the problem, the suspected source, and, if a fish kill is apparent, the number

Bench Condition Reported Good

Cincinnati (AP) — Cincinnati Reds' catcher Johnny Bench remained in the intensive care unit of Christ Hospital Tuesday, recovering from surgery during which a lesion was removed from his right lung.

A hospital bulletin issued at noon Tuesday said Bench was "in good condition, his vital signs remain good. He spent a comfortable night, and has been sitting up on the side of his bed today."

The hospital, where Bench underwent surgery Monday, said the 25-year-old athlete probably would remain in the intensive care unit until Wednesday.

Villanova School To End Football?

Villanova, Pa. (AP) — Villanova officials are expected to decide Wednesday whether to continue the intercollegiate football program, and early reports indicate the prospects are good.

The board considered Tuesday a proposal to keep the sport but conduct it on a businesslike basis, a source close to the scene said.

The Rev. Edward J. McCarthy, president of the 130-year-old school, presented the 44-page report based on a study prompted by a large financial deficit. In essence, it suggested that football continue but that it be self-sustaining.

Anyone observing a fish kill or pollution hazard should report it immediately to any Game and Parks Commission office or to the Department of Environmental Control during regular working hours, or call a special number maintained by the Department of Environmental Control to handle calls after hours or on weekends and holidays.

The 24-hour number is (402) 477-7917. Calls may also be directed to the Water Quality Surveillance and Enforcement Section of the Department of Environmental Control.

Game and Parks Commission authorities include: Southeast — West Sheets and Jim Johnson, Lincoln, (402) 434-0641; Northeast — Allan Carson, Norfolk, (402) 371-4950; Sand Hills — Larry Hutchinson, Bassett, (402) 684-3511; Southwest — Monte Madsen, North Platte, (308) 532-6225; Panhandle — Jack Peterson, Alliance, (308) 762-5605. Reports may also be made to conservation officers.

Cincinnati's Tolan Earns Hutch Award

Cincinnati, Ohio (AP) — Soft-spoken Bobby Tolan, honored Tuesday for his courage in conquering two rips of his right Achilles tendon, remains a confirmed fatalist in the wake of continued recognition.

"I just try not to get too involved and let things worry me too much," the Cincinnati Reds' centerfielder said hours after being named winner of the 1972 Hutch Award for courage.

"I just take things as they come, and don't get too excited," Tolan said. "If things go good, okay. If they go bad, okay. I've always felt this way."

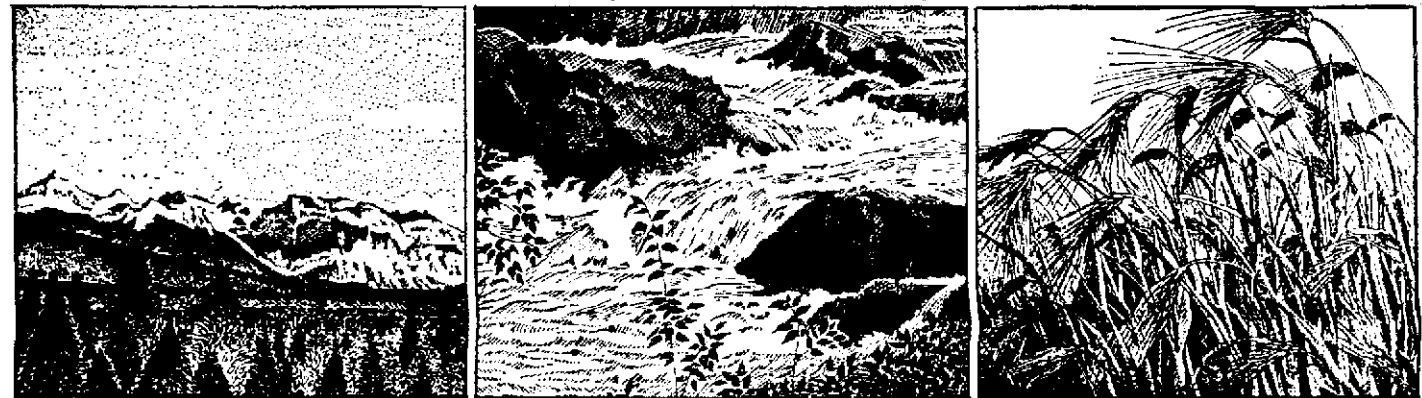

The Hutch Award is given annually by a sports writers and broadcasters organization to the major league baseball player who best exemplifies the fighting spirit and courage of the late pitcher and manager, Fred Hutchinson, who died of cancer in November 1964.

Tolan was a runaway winner in the Hutch Award balloting, followed, in order, by Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs; Gaylord Perry of the Cleveland Indians; Ron Santo of the Cubs, and Carlos May of the Chicago White Sox.

Previous winners included Mickey Mantle, Sandy Koufax, Carl Yastrzemski, Al Kaline, Pete Rose, Tony Conigliaro and Joe Torre.

Missouri Valley Fire Is Contained

Missouri Valley, Iowa (UPI)—Firemen from several western Iowa communities aided Missouri Valley fire fighters Tuesday night in containing a fire which swept through three buildings in the downtown business district.

Hugh Fry, who retired from the Missouri Valley Fire Department two years ago after more than 20 years of service, said the blaze was the worst since the Loveland Elevator fire in the late 1950s, which burned for 31 days.

Destroyed in the blaze were Hutton's Clothing Store, one of two apparel shops in the community, the Roundup Tavern, and a building housing an appliance store in one half and a small restaurant in the other.

Fry said firemen told him they believed they had the blaze contained to the 100-foot section Tuesday night, about five hours after it broke out.

"We are pretty sure we are going to keep it in that 100 feet," Fry said. "Luckily there were no injuries. Not even a burn."

Newsmen at the scene reported that two women and an infant were escorted by firemen out of apartments above the buildings.

Fry said it was theorized the blaze broke out in the rear of the tavern, which was the middle building of the three. All were built more than 80 years ago, and were separated by fire walls.

"The fire was so hot that the flames just jumped behind the fire walls," said Fry.

In addition to three Missouri Valley fire trucks, firefighters and equipment responded from Logan, Crescent, and Modamin, with a snorkel truck rushed to the scene from Council Bluffs.

Volunteer firemen also came from Magnolia, Modale and Woodbine.

Here's A Gift Idea

For Out-of-Town Friends

a by-mail subscription to...

Sunday Journal and Star

NOTE—We cannot accept gift subscriptions for delivery to a Lincoln address

Here's a solution to your gift problems—a subscription to The Sunday Journal & Star. A gift that keeps on giving—a gift that brings news, entertainment, the story of sports and hundreds of other fine features for every member of the family. It's easy to give too, because all you need to do is fill out the handy coupon and enclose a check for the amount you wish to spend. We will send a Christmas card to the out-of-town person you select, saying the gift of a subscription to The Sunday Journal and Star is from you.

See by-mail subscription prices on page 2 of this paper.
